

TALKING IT UP

With Larry Fox

Sophomore Success

EVERY WEEK THE Associated Press conducts a poll to name the Southern Conference sophomore of the week, but if anyone tried to name the top second-year man now performing for a Tar Heel team this quarter, he'd have a bit of trouble. Graduates of last year's frosh squad have become a very integral part of the football team, but newcomers to varsity competition have shown up very well in cross country and are expected to pace the soccer team to another successful year.

Strong frosh squads in all sports are being hinted at by coaches as they look over future prospects, but a quick look at this year's sophomores may show how the effort attached to working with a freshman for a full season can pay off with a sterling varsity performer.

Starting with footballers we pause briefly with the fullbacks. Dick Weiss is on and George Verchick is another. Both have scored at least one TD. Weiss looked very good against South Carolina and Verchick has proved a very capable line backer and pass defender. Then there's Bob (Goo Goo) Gantt leading the soph wingbacks. He's already laid claim to fame.

No Glory Road

PLAYING BEHIND Charlie Justice is no shortcut to fame and glory, but Skeet Hesmmer has already corralled some of his own. In fact, he was named Soph of the Week in the Southern Conference two weeks ago. And leading a host of second-year blocking backs we have a man who's been out quite a bit. He's impressed the coaches, however, and against the Gamecocks saw some action at tackle. Dalton Ruffin plays either position.

The best end prospects on the squad are probably Bill O'Brien and Bill Kelsce while sophomores like Julian King, Dave Wiley, and Bill Kuhn are good additions to the list of hard-hitting tackles. Leading the guards, sophomore and otherwise, is Joe Dudeck, who with his fellow graduates from last year's Tar Baby eleven, has helped to make something of the depleted Carolina line. Tom Stevens, a center, has been following the tradition seemingly started by Irv Holdash that centers make darn good linebackers.

So we bid a fond adieu to the gridiron and move next door to Fetzer Field where the local booters work out and we find some very promising sops. In fact, six of the 11 starting posts in yesterday's 3-0 loss to Navy were manned by newcomers.

Booter's All-Star Bet

LEADING THE LIST, according to reports from the dressing room is center forward Eddie Foy. He's been mentioned as a possible All-American selection. The last man in the center position, Dave Boak was listed on national all-star elevens, so Foy has a historical precedent.

Ernest Montgomery and Art Winsor are expected to see a lot of work running up and down the field alongside Foy in a sophomore-dominated forward line. Bud Sawyer, Bill Rhoades, and Ed Betty are the soph defensive leaders. Sawyer is a halfback, Rhoades teamed with veteran Frank Nelson at fullback while Betty took over from All-America Al Williams guarding the goal, and did outstandingly well against the Middies.

On the track surrounding the soccer field, where Coach Dale Ranson's men are running around in circles, there's one proven star and another whose latest time trial stamps him as a comer. Gordon Hamrick was tabbed as a star of the future when he performed with the freshmen last year and has been coming along thus far this season. Ed Dixon, another soph, came home fourth in the latest trials and may help strength the team, which lost its first two meets to N. C. State.

Monogram Minutes

A REPRESENTATIVE FROM the Monogram Club was at the Tar Heels office earlier this week and gave us some interesting information on what the Club has been doing with itself in its fancy club house so far this year.

The practice of inviting two orphan's homes to each football game scheduled at Kenan Stadium sure is a fine idea. Dean Cassell, secretary-treasurer of the club when he's not trying to control his curve ball, told us how the club acts a hosts to the kids and furnishes the future students with refreshments at the half.

Partying, in a clean-cut way, is still part of the Monogram schedule and the new coeds were invited over to the house Tuesday—"Lots of laughs," said Cassell. Hah!! A different sort of party—a banquet to be exact—is on the schedule for this football season. The grid teams of 1916-19 will be feted and their head coach, Thomas J. Campbell, who is said to have helped put Carolina on the football map (Grantland Rice to the contrary notwithstanding) will be the guest of honor. And of course, there are those football movies.

Tonnamaker Tops

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12 — (AP) — A pleasant young fellow whose keen football sense puts him in the opposing team's backfield quite a bit has been chosen as lineman of the week.

Named in the Associated Press' third poll of the season was Clayton Tonnamaker, Minnesota's burly center. Chief reason for his selection was his play in the Northwestern game last Saturday, won by Minnesota, 21-7.

Tonnamaker won the designation over Lou Creekmur, William and Mary tackle; Bob Jabalonski, Yale guard, and J. D. Ison, Baylor end.

Booters Blanked By Navy In Opener, 3-0

Local Kickers Fall Two Goals Back At Outset

By Art Greenbaum

ANNAPOLIS, Md., October 12 — A powerful Navy soccer team scored two quick goals before their visitors from the University of North Carolina had a chance to get a good look at the field and went on from there to defeat the Tar Heels in their opening game by 3-0.

Lee Bendell and George Jayne, two stalwarts of the Middle forward wall, broke through in the first three minutes of play to establish a lead that was more than enough to win. The home team dominated play throughout the first half and it was not until the third period that the Carolina booters had any chance to score.

Again in the fourth quarter the Tar Heelers threatened but once more they were repulsed. This opportunity came when the Navy goalie took too many steps out of his little domain. The free kick hit wood again, however, and left the Tars with their 3-0 lead.

It was a bitter defeat for the newly elected co-captains, Frank Nelson and Jess Greenbaum, and the rest of the Carolina squad who were out to avenge the losses handed them by Navy during the last two years.

Goalie Ed Betty, who was undoubtedly the outstanding Carolinian on the field today, did his best to get the revenge victory, but the Tar Heel scoring attack was completely nil. The passing, or better the lack of passing, in the forward wall was the main cause for the loss.

The lineup:
North Carolina: Betty, Nelson, Rhoades, Greenbaum, Sawyer, Lyons, Montgomery, Langley, Foy, Ferebee, Winsor.
Navy: Morgan, Mulford, Mastas, Craven, McLernan, Rothmann, Space, Jayne, Boyce, Bendell, Busse.

Score by periods:
Navy: 2 0 1-3

Scoring: Jayne, Bendell, Boyce.
Substitutions: North Carolina—Gwynn, Moore, Bach, Ahern, Betts, Stephens, Blandenship, Jones, Navy—Fourzan, Mueller, Loetscher, Colvin, Carman, Olson, Hemenway, Hodnette, Thompson, McKeown, Silvestrini.

Chancey, Vol Back, Declared Ineligible

Knoxville, Oct. 12 — (AP) — Fullback Ralph Chancey, Co-Captain of the University of Tennessee football team, was declared ineligible today.

Chancey played on the Tennessee team as a freshman in 1942 and was a member of the varsity squad for the last three years after returning from army service.

The status of the big Tennessee fullback was questioned yesterday and Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore asked University officials to investigate.

Bunting To Start Against Deacons; Tar Babies Leave Today For Virginia

Dick Bunting, the little blonde bunny of Chapel Hill, will finally break into the starting lineup for the first time in his three year collegiate career Saturday.

Bunting, the five-foot, nine-inch back who was destined to play behind the greatest tailback ever to grace this University's campus, has been shifted to right end to relieve the pressure there caused by the injury of first stringer Kenny Powell and reserve Ed Washington. Powell injured his knee in the South Carolina game and will be out almost indefinitely, trainers say.

His leg was put in a cast yesterday after local medics had predicted that that step would be unnecessary.

Washington's injury came in a practice session following the Georgia game and he didn't bother to dress for the Columbia tussle.

Bunting, who would be a first stringer on any team that didn't have the services of Charlie Justice, is one of the most versatile players on the squad and for that reason Tar Heel coaches shifted him to the right end position. He is scheduled to play only offense. Weighing only 163, he is considered too light for defense work. Ed Bilpuch is scheduled to take over the defensive chores at right end.

Johnny Clements is the only other Tar Heel listed in the probable starter class. He has missed two games due to a severe ankle injury and has been in light equipment for several weeks. If Clements is not ready to go, Fred Sherman, who performed capably against the Gamecocks last week, will be ready to take over.

Bill Gregus, Deacon fullback who is currently leading the Conference in ground gaining, will be one of the visitors the Tar Heels will be out to stop. And the Baptist passing combination of Carroll Blackerby to Red O'Quinn, which has to date been slightly cramped, is nevertheless a potent weapon and the Carolinians are not taking the idea lightly.

All reports leaking out of Wake Forest lead observers to believe that the Deacons will be out to defeat the Tar Heels or else. The supposedly potent Deacs, who were scheduled to rip the Southern Conference apart, have won only three out of their last four games, two of the defeats coming at the hands of little Boston College and Georgetown University.

Deacs Knock Heads

WAKE FOREST, Oct. 12 — (AP) — Coach D. C. Walker put his Wake Forest football squad through a rugged headknocking scrimmage today in preparation for Saturday's clash with North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

For the first half of the workout, the first two elevens lined up defensively against the scrubs, who ran Tar Heel plays. Looking good defensively were Captain Ed Bradley, an end, and guard Ray Cicia and Halfback Ed Gregus.

Walker then reversed the order of the plays, the varsity running its own offense against the scrubs.

Tackle Tom Palmer, who has been out for two weeks, took a full part in the scrimmage. Taking light parts were tackles Bill George and Jim Staton, and Quarterback Dickey Davis, all suffering injuries.

Wildcat Fullback Soph of the Week In AP Balloting

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 12 — (AP) — A piston-legged fullback who played a stellar role in one of last Saturday's biggest upsets is this week's associated Press Southern Sophomore of the Week.

C. L. Runyan is his name and he played a key role in Davidson's 20-14 upset over N.C. State. In one of Davidson's touchdown drives, he rolled up 22 yards in four plays. The five-foot, 10-inch battering ram hails from Gastonia. He carried the ball 24 times for a net of 77 yards.

The Davidson fullback's punts went out of bounds on the State three-yard line, and another on the one.

Runyan wasn't the only soph star in Saturday's grid play. He had stiff competition from the Soph of the Week title from center Harry Jabbusch and quarterback John Boyle of South Carolina, and end Glenn Smith of Clemson.

Jabbusch, a 191-pounder from Lorain, Ohio, was the outstanding defense player on the field as North Carolina defeated South Carolina 28-13. His play had much to do with holding the Tar Heel's Charlie Justice to a 3.3 yard rushing average.

A squad of 30 men, including coaches, will leave here at 1 o'clock this afternoon by bus for Charlottesville, Virginia to open the freshman football season against the Cavaliers tomorrow afternoon.

Another group of 18 with a manager and a coach will stay in here to run Wake Forest plays against the varsity defensive team and will not leave until tonight. The second contingent will catch a train in Greensboro at 10 o'clock.

The Tar Babies will probably be quartered in the Virginia gymnasium overnight and will return to Chapel Hill right after the game.

In addition to Head Coach Crowell Little, five graduate students, who are assisting with the direction of the frosh eleven will also make the trip. They are Harry Adams, Bob Mitten, Bill Flamisch, Sid Varney and Bob Cox.

The T-formation offense of the Tar Babies has been working pretty smoothly and the local yearlings should score a few touchdowns against the Little Cavaliers. The Carolina offense mainly will consist of plays borrowed from the varsity opponents whom the frosh have been impersonating thus far this season.

They've been using the T-formation plays of Georgia, South Carolina, and Wake Forest already and five more T clubs are on the varsity schedule. Coach Little said that some original T plays would be used, however, and as the time approaches to move up to the varsity, the single wing will probably be installed.

Tomorrow's game should give some sort of a line on freshman prospects for the remainder of the year and also prove if the Tar Babies can gain in actual competition as they have done at times in practice against the varsity.

Expected to spearhead the yearling attack are Bill Ellington, a 190 lb. quarterback from High Point, Bud Wallace, a promising fullback and Frank Wissman, a highly heralded Philadelphia who will operate from a halfback slot.

After Virginia, the yearlings face a pretty fair schedule, meeting N. C. State at Raleigh October 21, Wake Forest at Winston-Salem October 28, Maryland at Chapel Hill, November 4, and Duke at Chapel Hill November 18 in the season's finale.
