

Just Ain't Fair

Falsies Are Condemned By Union College Men

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. Nov. 2.—(A.P.)—Little girls once may have been made of sugar and spice and everything nice, but Union College men complained today that the 20th century ingredients are much more hazardous.

The Union men warned their Skidmore College dates that they were disgusted with such "bear-trap arrangements" as whale-boned girdles and wired, uplift bras.

"Concentric high-tension wires," one college man complained. "Armor and chain-mail," moaned another.

Union College men have dated Skidmore misses for their proms and fraternity hops for years, but the girls were warned that they would "wind up without a Union man to your name" unless they stopped dressing like a "portable fortress."

For their part, the Skidmore girls were models of feminine decorum, considering the whole subject "not worth discussing."

The complaints of the Union men hit the college paper, Concordia.

Columnist Dave Markson warned the Skidmore lasses that they would be dateless unless they quit deceiving their men with such wired contraptions.

He then published the following letter:

"I don't have to be an engineering student to know why most of you garb yourselves the way you do. The better your architecture, the better I like it.

"And if you want to wear a portable fortress which can withstand the onslaught of a division of Sherman tanks, that's okay too. But why be sadistic about it? Why give a poor guy the comhither routine with all that lacy flimsy camouflage, and then put his very life in jeopardy when he falls for the sucker bait?

"The letter asked: 'How long do you Skiddies think our doctor can get hurt opening beer cans can get hurt opening beer cans on the same Saturday night?'"

NSA Agency To Operate In GM Office

The International Commission, appointed by Regional NSA Chairman Ben Jones, has set up headquarters in the Travel Agency Room in Graham Memorial, Herman Sieber, chairman of the local commission said yesterday.

The commission has already begun its job of collecting and distributing information about study tours next summer.

"We will cooperate with the YMCA, YWCA, foreign language clubs, and the Cosmopolitan Club in order to integrate the most successful program possible," Sieber said.

"We believe that the study tours and travel programs which we are organizing are the best and most economical available.

We will do everything in our power to make it possible for every interested student to find means, to travel to Europe next summer."

Dr. Pollard stated that it is "the primary aim of the Institute to make the Oak Ridge facilities available to all universities in this country which offer advanced training in the sciences. In this way the atomic energy laboratories in effect become a part of the campus of each participating university, and in turn the laboratories receive the stimulation of intimate contact with science in the academic world."

The appearance of Dr. Pollard before the University Tracer Group was arranged by Dr. C. D. Van Cleave, UNC representative on the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies Council, and by Dr. Arthur Roe, chairman of the UNC Radioisotope Committee.
