

Robbins New Store Opens Tonight, Feature Latest In Women's Clothing

"This will be a store for North Carolina," J. B. Robbins yesterday said as he supervised the last-minute preparations for the opening of Robbins Chapel Hill women's clothing store, set for 7:30 tonight.

The new store, located on the site of the old Pic theatre, was purchased about a year ago from North Carolina Theaters, Inc. It has been completely remodelled inside, and excavation has been made for an additional floor, said Robbins.

The entrance to the store is through aluminum-trimmed display cases, which according to Robbins are "the most extensive in the state." The Herculean doors of the store are set back from the street by thirty feet depth of T-shaped cases and shadow boxes.

The first floor of the interior is decorated in soft green and yellow, and will feature shoes, gloves, bags, cosmetics, sport clothes and millinery.

A sub floor, called the "fashion bowl," is reached by descending double circular stairways which wind in opposite directions. "The only one of its kind in the world," said Robbins.

The fashion floor will embrace the dress and suit department, formal and cocktail wear and a private bridal salon.

Robbins branch store is oil-heated and air-conditioned. When in full operation there will be about 30 employees, the manager said.

Pascal Wins Fellowship

Paul Pascal, graduate student, is one of two students to receive fellowships in the School of Classical Studies of the American Academy in Rome for the year 1950-51, Dr. B. L. Ullman, head of the Classics Department, said yesterday.

This is the first time that a UNC student has received this honor, Dr. Ullman said, pointing out that the fellowship is highly prized among graduate students in Latin.

This is the first branch of the Durham store which started in the Hill building in 1940 and has since made two moves to take care of its rapid progress. Both stores stock nationally advertised merchandise.

Architect for the job is James Vincent Deloi of Durham.

Backs Graham

RALEIGH, March 21—(AP)—J. E. Winslow, Pitt County farm leader, today announced he will support U. S. Senator Frank Graham in his campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Winslow is one of the organizers of the North Carolina Farm Bureau and served as its first president for 10 years.
