

State Meets Holy Cross Tonight In Second Game Of NCAA Tourney

NEW YORK, March 22—(AP)—CCNY's inspired, young Beavers, start firing for an unprecedented grand slam tomorrow night as college basketball winds up a smash season with the NCAA championship tournaments here and in Kansas City.

The busy Beavers, who cracked through for one upset after another to win the National Invitation Tourney title last week, are favored to capture the eastern end of the NCAA dribble derby in Madison Square Garden.

They open the Eastern tourney tomorrow night against Ohio State's Big Ten titlists while Holy Cross' slick Crusaders engage North Carolina State's Southern Conference Champions in the second game.

In Kansas City, Bradley's bustling Braves, beaten by CCNY in the NIT final last week, are the choice to win the Western eliminations and earn another shot at the Beavers in the championship contest.

The Kansas City eliminations start Friday night with Bradley tackling UCLA's Pacific Coast

Golfers Beat Gamecocks In Two Meets

Carolina's golf team opened its season last weekend as the Tar Heel linksmen took two victories over South Carolina on the Forest Lake Country Club in Columbia, S. C. The visitors ran away with the first match on Friday by 2 1/2-4 1/2 and then came back the next afternoon to edge the Gamecocks, 15 1/2-11 1/2.

Intercollegiate champion Harvie Ward was the big man for Carolina as he won both matches with ease. Ward had a 68 on the par 72 course in Friday afternoon's round and lost only one point in both of his matches. This loss came in Saturday's round when he dropped the second nine.

Frank Eckert, playing in the number five position for the Tar Heels, and Stubb Sapp, number three man, were the only other double winners. Eckert did not lose a point on his own ball in either match.

Sapp matched par on Friday when he toured the course in 72 and then came back the next day with a two under par, 70.

Roy McKenzie played in the second position behind Ward and took a victory in the first match. Rod McKnight and Harvie Oliver alternated at the fourth and sixth positions.

The Tar Heels were scheduled to play in the Camden Invitational while they were in South Carolina but they were forced to cancel the appearance because of USGA restrictions.

Since their return to Chapel Hill, the golfers have had little luck in their attempts to practice for the coming meet with Michigan State because of the rainy weather. They are slated to meet the Mid-west golfers next Tuesday on the Hope Valley course in Durham.

Tennis Schedule Opens Tomorrow

The Spring sports program will officially get under way in Chapel Hill tomorrow when the Carolina tennis team meets Ohio State in the season opener.

The Tar Heel netmen, who dropped only one of 22 dual meet matches last year, will be missing the services of veteran Vic Seixas, former captain and number one player.

Clark Taylor, who played number two last year, will move up to take Seixas' place. He is captain of the team. He and Seixas combined last year to win the Conference doubles title.

Backing up Taylor will be Charlie Rice, Don Skakle, and Duke Wilder, all experienced lettermen, and Heath Alexander, Jim Winstead, Les Dameron, Jim Hammerstein, and others up from the freshman squad.

Following tomorrow's match, the Tar Heels will play a two-match series here on Monday and Tuesday with Michigan State.

North Carolina State will face Holy Cross in Thursday night's second game, starting at 10 o'clock.

The Eastern and Western winners will clash for the championship, won by Kentucky last year, in Madison Square Garden, Tuesday night. The sectional runners-up will meet in a consolidation game.

In New York, CCNY is rated a 4 1/2 point choice to down Ohio State and Holy Cross is considered a 2 1/2 point favorite over N. C. State. For the tourney itself, the

Carolina Baseballers Back; Jim Ballou Turns Eligible

With the team just returned from its spring training trip in Florida, Carolina's baseball future received a lift yesterday afternoon when Jim Ballou reported that he would be eligible for the remainder of the season.

Ballou, who saw some service as a utility outfielder and pinch-hitter last year, had been counted on to fill one of the outer positions this year, but scholastic difficulties made him ineligible. The speedy centerfielder made up the necessary hours through correspondence work and will probably become a leading candidate for an outfield spot. A fast man, Ballou can also hit a long ball.

Although they met with indifferent success in Florida, splitting two game series with both Florida and Rollins, the Tar Heels did get a chance to play some ball—something which the unexperienced outfit needs badly.

Coming up against teams which had already reached mid-season form, Carolina was "far from disappointed" with the results of the trip, according to Coach Walter Rabb.

Everyone played as well as

Former Fiance Of 'Liz Taylor Now With Rams

LOS ANGELES, March 22—(AP)—Glenn Davis cast his athletic future with the Los Angeles Rams football club today. It goes without saying that the team hopes he picks up in the national pro league wars where he left off as a wizard at West Point.

Passing a number of attractive offers from Major League baseball organizations, the 25-year-old "Mr. Outside" of Army fame formally signed a one-year contract with the Rams.

President Dan Reeves of the Rams, presiding at a luncheon in honor of the occasion, declined to announce the financial details. Reeves did, however, scotch reports that Davis would receive pay comparable to the Rams' ace quarterback, Bob Waterfield, who presumably earns around $18,000 a year with the club.

"Davis will receive a salary in line with other backs on our club," said Reeves. "In fact, Glenn requested a salary lower than the Rams were prepared to pay in exchange for bonus arrangements based on his performance."

Davis explained it this way: "I've been out of football three years. I believe it is fairer to the Rams and to me to base my pay on my performance this year rather than on whatever reputation I gained at West Point."

"Whatever reputation" might stand as quite an understatement.

Teamed with Felix (Doc) Blanchard, the Mr. Inside of the Army's feared one-two punch, Davis in four spectacular years with the Black Knights of the Hudson made grid history for the Point, the nation and Mr. Outside himself.

He and Blanchard lead Army to three consecutive undefeated seasons; Davis made the Associated Press All-America teams each of those three years; his elusive efforts set three NCAA grid records; in four years he scored 59 touchdowns, 20 of them in 1944; and no less than seven national awards came his way during that span from 1943

Harvie Ward In Red Cross Benefit Match

Big time golf returns to North Carolina for the first time this year this afternoon at Pinehurst when Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret, two of the present great in the play-for-pay ranks, match strokes against Harvie Ward and Dick Chapman, a pair of top-flight North State amateurs.

A good-sized turnout is expected to be present when the foursome tees off at 2 o'clock for an 18 hole tour around the plush and by now soggy fairways of Pinehurst's famed championship course, but the real winner of the best-ball match will be the American Red Cross who will receive all proceeds.

Hogan and Demaret have been keeping their names in the golf limelight during the winter tourney circuit by taking in their share of the winnings. Hogan has been especially effective when one considers that this time last year, following a serious auto accident, "Bantam Ben" was advised by doctors that he was through with golf.

Chapman, a permanent resident of Pinehurst and former National Amateur kingpin, has been getting in his licks over his home course the past several weeks while Ward, the pride and joy of Chapel Hill, has already led the Tar Heel golf team to a pair of early season victories over South Carolina.

The coaches expected, said Rabb, and the pitching staff shows signs of coming around.

Dean Cassell looked better than at the beginning of any previous season, said Rabb, and should lead the Tar Heel staff. Ed Gaston and Bill McGinn, both lettermen, did well considering it was early in the season.

Two transfer students also showed that they were ready to strengthen the Carolina pitching staff. John Vitasek, a transfer from Norfolk, is going to be counted on in relief while Lotes Holmes should get some work as a starter. Holmes is a lefthander from Presbyterian Junior College.

Another new man who should do well, said Rabb, is Skeet Hester, new second baseman. Hester hit the ball hard and although he has a lot to learn around the keystone position, Rabb said he could develop into a fine player.

Rain cancelled practice yesterday, but the Tar Heels go to work today for the coming Southern Conference and Big Four battles.
