

Tar Heel Nine Outlasts West Va., 15-11; Golfers Fall

Mountaineers Here Again Today For Final Of Series

By Lew Chapman
The baseball teams of both North Carolina and West Virginia practically ignored all of the finer points of the sport yesterday afternoon on Emerson field as both clubs engaged in a long knock 'em down and drag 'em out battle before a large gathering of amused fans. Somehow the Tar Heels emerged on top, 15-11.

Both nines will meet in another exhibition this afternoon on local diamond in the final clash of a two game series. Bill McGinn will take to the hill for Coach Bunn Hearn's athletes in an attempt to hang another defeat on the Mountaineers. Yesterday's was a ragged clash the part of both clubs as a total of 26 runs were scored on only 16 hits. Nine errors and 21 walks also contributed to the mass parade around the bases.

Joe Gaston, the third of three Tar Heel pitchers tossed into the fray, gained the nod as pinning hurler as both starter Lotes Holmes and reliever Henry Schacht had trouble in stifling the visitors. Gaston twirled the last four and a third frames of the two and a half hour seven and a half inning marathon and gave up only one safety.

Southpaw Pat Cregan received the most punishment of the pair of Mountaineer pitchers that faced the Tar Heels and was handed the defeat although his reliefer, Charley Becca, did not go completely unscathed.

Although big Will Hobbs connected for single and a triple in three trips to the plate, Joe Brookshire and Skeet Hester shared the local hitting honors as both connected for their first home run of the season.

The Tar Heels started the contest with a bang in the very first inning as they gave an indication of things to come by scoring six big runs.

An infield safety by Joe Eldridge started the ball rolling and then a Mountaineer error, two walks, a wild pitch, Hobbs' single, John Senter's double and Brookshire's round-tripper gave Carolina a comfortable lead.

The Tar Heels added three more in the second on a pair of West Virginia miscues and Hobbs' booming triple into the left field corner.

The visitors struck back in the third with six runs off Holmes on only three hits plus a pair of walks and a Tar Heel error. The Hearnmen countered this with three more of their own in their half of the inning with Jim Ballou's single driving in two of the scores.

Schacht started the fourth for the Tar Heels but the slim southpaw couldn't find the plate and lasted only two-thirds of an inning and gave up two runs before Gaston took over to finish the contest.

The Carolina nine made it 14-9 in the bottom of the fourth when Hester poled a long drive out to the Vet's Club in right-center field that went for an easy homer. Senter, who was on the paths by virtue of another Mountaineer booble, scored in front of the Tar Heel second baseman.

Becca and Gaston hooked up in a tight pitcher's battle for the rest of the game with West Virginia scoring another pair in the fifth and the Tar Heels adding their final tally in the seventh when Ballou's second single of the afternoon chased in Joe Eldridge from second.

Track Team, Tigers Meet Here Today

By Bill Peacock
Carolina and Princeton renew an old rivalry this afternoon at 3:30 when the two schools compete in a dual track meet on Fetzer Field.

The meet will throw two well-balanced teams against each other with close contests expected in most of the events. Carolina appears to have the advantage in the field events and the dash, while the Tigers are expected to get most of their points in the sprints, distances, and the mile relay.

The Tar Heels will probably be without the services of versatile Bill Albans, who reported for spring football practice Wednesday. However, he has tentatively been entered in the broad jump and the 220 yard low hurdles.

The personal dual between Carolina's Sam Magill and Princeton's Dick Snedeker is expected to furnish one of the highlights of the afternoon. Last year Magill topped the Tiger star and set a new record for Carolina-Princeton dual meets with a mark of 9:38.5. In the Carolina Relays last week, Snedeker finished ahead of Sam and in Wednesday's dual meet with Duke he won both the mile and the two mile.

There should be plenty of competition in the other flat races also. The 220 will match Princeton's Jim Gorter, Phil Hungerford, and Dorian Fleming against Dave Willis, Frank Scott, Bill Crimmins, and Gene Brigham of Carolina. The 440 will pit Sam Howell, winner of this event last year, and Jerry Bentley against Tar Heels Laddie Terrell, Brigham, Clarence McLain, and Jim Hamrick.

For Carolina in the 880 it will be Hal Holden, Frank Hooper, Terrell, and Bob Litton opposite Duane Seidler, who turned in a winning performance against Duke, and Bob Eby. The mile run, perhaps the favorite of local fans, will see Gordon Hamrick, Gibbon McNeely, and Ed Dixon matching strides with Al Pittis, Bob Akely, and Joe Bolster of the Tigers.

The Tar Heels are expected to have little trouble in the hurdles where Bob Morrow, Merl Norcross, and perhaps Albans should win. The javelin, with Bob Kirk and Skeets Baldwin, the discus, with Fred Council and Turk Ogden, and the shot put with Roscoe Hansen, Ogden, and George Verchick seems to be all Carolina.

Princeton's fine relay team made up of Akely, Howell, Crouse, Bentley, and Sparkman is expected to win this event and is given a good chance of setting a new record.

That put him in a tie with Herschel Spears of Huntsville, Ala., who had 70-74.

Jimmy Demaret put an even par 72 on top of yesterday's 70 for a 142 total that was good for third place and Lawson Little, the greying Monterey, Calif., veteran, followed with 70-73-143.

Ferrier, a broad shouldered, six-foot-four man who won the National P. G. A. title in 1947, has a pronounced dip in his swing, the result of an Australian football injury when he was a youngster. Sometimes it leads him into trouble and it did on a few occasions today. On the 400-yard 17th, he hooked his drive badly and was in two traps before he blasted about four feet from the pin and sank his putt for a par.

He was over par once, on the 425-yard 14th, when he three-putted, but that was the only time his putter failed to get him out of difficulty.

Hogan sank six putts ranging from six to 25 feet for successive birdies on the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth holes. He was going after a birdie again on the 13th, a 480-yard dogleg affair, when he went over par the only time.

His second shot landed in a deep brook in front of the green and he had to take the penalty and drop out. He got that shot back on the even-longer 15th, smacking his second shot to the green and getting down in two putts.

Netters Sock Williams For Ninth Win In Row

The local tennis team kept up its merciless drubbing of Northern opposition here yesterday with a repeat 14-1 pounding of Williams College.

The Tar Heels refused to budge an inch from Thursday's showing against Williams and poured out everything they could throw at the New England netters.

It was the ninth straight win for Coach Kenefield's rapidly improving racquetmen over touring Northerners. The local netmen will face their first match with Southern competition when Presbyterian College plays here Tuesday afternoon.

Charlie Rice, Carolina number two singles player, suffered his only defeat so far and the only Tar Heel loss of the day when he fell to William's steady-stroking number one man, Stu Robinson. Robinson came from behind to overtake Rice after dropping the first set, 7-5, to the Carolinian, and took the remaining sets, 6-2, 6-4, to win the match.

Clark Taylor played Charlie Schaaf in the number one singles match and repeatedly dusted-off his opponent's baseline with his pin-point placements. The Carolina captain allowed his opponent only one game in the shortest match of the afternoon.

Down the line several Tar Heels ran into stiff opposition but all came through on the important end of the score. Hugh Bowman went three sets in his match with Tom Kent but came out master with a 2-6, 6-4, 9-7 score. Bob Luxenberg met a tough foe in Bob Trone and barely edged the Williams' number nine man, 11-9, 7-5.

All five of the Carolina doubles combinations came through without mishap. Taylor and Rice routed Norton and Treman 6-1, 6-2 in the number one doubles match. Jim Winstead and Don Skalle dropped their first set to Williams' top doubles team of Robinson and Schaaf, 3-6, but the Tar Heels buckled down and clinched the match with 6-2, 6-4 wins in the last two sets.

The summary: (North Carolina players listed first):

Singles—Taylor defeated Schaaf, 6-0, 6-1; Rice was defeated by Robinson, 7-5, 6-4; Skalle defeated Norton, 6-3, 6-4; Winstead defeated Treman, 6-1, 6-0; Bowman defeated Kent, 2-6, 6-4, 9-7; Demeron defeated Thurber, 6-0, 6-1; August defeated Frankheimer, 6-1, 7-5; Kerdasha defeated Muller, 6-2, 6-4; Luxenberg defeated Trone, 11-9, 7-5; Hammerstein defeated Irwin, 9-7, 6-2.

Doubles—Taylor-Rice defeated Norton-Treman, 6-1, 6-2; Winstead-Skalle defeated Robinson-Schaaf, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4; Bowman-Hammerstein defeated Irwin-Trone, 6-4, 6-0; August-Luxenberg defeated Frankheimer-Muller, 6-2, 6-3; Demeron-Kerdasha defeated Kent-Thurber, 8-6, 6-4.

Bunting, Carson Shine In Football Scrimmage

The Tar Heel football team ended the first week of spring practice with a two hour scrimmage session in Kenan Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Plays were run from both the single wing and the new "A" formation.

While newly elected captain Huck Holdash played his usual outstanding game on defense, his alternate, Dick Bunting, showed up well on the offense.

Bunting called plays and set up the first touchdown of the afternoon on a forty yard gallop through the opposition. From the ten yard line, Joe Orsino, a freshman last season, scored on an end around play.

Another man up from the frosh ranks, Ernie Liberatti, looked good at fullback. He gained yardage through the line and around the ends.

Bud Carson, working from the tailback spot, was another of the outstanding performers. He gained on the ground and threw a number of good passes, one of which went to end Bill O'Brien to set up another score. Another aerial went 60 yards for a touchdown.

The most spectacular play of the afternoon was a driving catch in the end zone, executed by Joe Dougherty on a throw from Bunting.

Bud Wallace and Barry Rizzo, both freshmen last year, looked good at the deep back position of the new formation. Billy Hayes, first string fullback last year, was sidelined with a cold but will get back into action next week.

Lacrossemen Engage Hens Here Today

By Ari Greenbaum.
The twice-defeated Carolina lacrosse team will play its fourth contest in eight days today when they take the field against a powerful University of Delaware squad at one o'clock. Both aggregations have been defeated twice and have registered one triumph apiece.

Delaware dropped its first encounter to a strong Virginia squad 15-9, won its next game with VMI 11-6, but was defeated by Duke University yesterday afternoon. The Tar Heels beat Williams and Mary 3-2 for their first win in two years but were swamped by Williams 10-0 on Tuesday. Combining talents with the freshmen on Thursday, the locals were nipped by Lehigh, 6-5.

Walt Ernst, Guy Gooding, and Dick Pillsbury were outstanding in Tuesday's contest and should provide a bright future for the Tar Heel lacrosse team. The latter tallied twice to lead the scoring column while Ernst contributed two valuable goal assists.

Coach Bill Darden's stickmen will be out to avenge the three defeats suffered at the hands of the Delaware crew last season. The Tar Heels were just beginning the 1949 season and were flattened by the visitor's onslaught.

The Carolina coach will continue to use a patched up lineup and will probably make one or two switches in this afternoon's game. Hal Taylor, close attacker, is still favoring a bad ankle while Ray Swigert who was injured in Tuesday's contest will be out for a week or more.

Andy Bell, another injured midfielder, is on the doubtful list but will probably be back in the starting lineup along with Johnny Murchison and Kirk Marning. Murchison and Jess Greenbaum tallied their second goals of the season Tuesday.

The Tar Heels set a new record in scoring Tuesday by tallying five goals in one contest. The locals had not been able to score more than three points per game before the game with Lehigh.

Linksman Suffer First Loss As Navy Wins, 15 1-2-14 1-2

By Biff Roberts
There was no re-Ward for Carolina's golfers yesterday afternoon as they went down to their first loss in seven meets, 15½-14½, to the linksmen of the U. S. Naval Academy. The Tar Heels sorely missed their top man as they were edged out by the middies in the final foursome.

The Carolina scores zoomed to a new high yesterday with two 79's and an 80 being recorded. Rod McKnight and Stubb Sapp were the only local golfers to approach par, the number two man coming in with an even 70 while Sapp ended with a 72.

The Tar Heels got off to a fast lead when the first foursome of McKnight and Roy McKenzie took eight out of nine points from Al Williams and Levi Baggett. McKenzie, who had a 77, lost one point on the back nine to give the Middies their lone tally.

The eight points gave the local golfers a 11-1 lead when Jim Hadley, playing a single match against Navy's Jim Strohm, completely routed the Middle for a 3-0 win. Hadley toured the Hope Valley course with a respectable 76 while Strohm was forced to take 90 strokes to finish the round.

Navy began to pull up on the second foursome, however, and Sam Sullivan and Dick Wiseman took a 6-3 victory over Sapp and Frank Brooks. Sapp's 72 was enough to give him a 2½-½ win over Sullivan but Wiseman ended with a 74 to take a 3-0 margin over Brooks' 79. The Carolina twosome then lost the best ball 2½-½.

With the score reading 14-7 in favor of the Tar Heels, Navy's John Hart and Fred Inman took 8½ points to the ½ made by Jack Brantley and Frank Eckert. Hart, who was low man for the Navy with a 73, and Inman grabbed control of the match on the first nine and increased their margin on the back side to take the win.

Hart went out with a two-under-par 33, but slipped on the last nine for a 40. Brantley went from a 39 on the front to a 40 coming home and got the twosome's ½ point with the tie. Inman, in the meantime had a 38-36 for a 74 and defeated Eckert by six strokes. Eckert went out in 39 and ended with a 41.

The rest of today's starters are Gene Oberdorfer, Ken Pencourt, Steve Espy, Seymour Bates, and Joe Freedman.
