filled with clothes. More clothes were piled on the single bed in the room.

Bennett's roommate, Jeter Lee of Norwood, had gone home for the Easter weekend early this afternoon, Hill said. The other students living in the private home had also left for the weekend.

The scene of the brutal murder was a two-story white frame house at 210 Henderson Street one block below the post office. Bennett's room and those of the other students living in the house, were in a basement section with private entrances, one of which led directly into the quarters of Bennett and Lee.

According to descriptions of Smithey, the former graduate student weighs something over 200 pounds, is not over five feet 10 inches tall, balding with light brown hair, and wears relatively thick-lensed glasses almost continually.

When last seen he was wearing an overcoat and no hat. He is moody, usually walks with his left hand in his pocket, his head cocked to the left, and with a cigarette continually held in his mouth when he is smoking.

He speaks with a soft voice, and a Southern drawl.

Stephens, Jr., Asheville; Robert Tyson Wallace, Baltimore, Md.; William Graham Ware, Jr., Winston-Salem, and Charles Frederick Rierson, Jr., Mt. Airy.
