

Justice Under Consideration As Assistant Backfield Coach

Council Must OK Decision Before Final

By Chuck Hauser
Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice, the All-America halfback who kept football fans and songwriters on their feet for four years at Carolina, may return to his alma mater as assistant backfield coach under Head Coach Carl Snavelly.

Justice said yesterday he would quit playing pro ball with the Washington Redskins if the Athletic Council approves him as a new member of the Tar Heel coaching staff.

"I won't quit the Redskins unless I get the job or another good coaching job," Charlie said. "Coach Snavelly has asked for me and I'd like to start coaching under him. But nothing is definite yet."

Snavelly commented, "I personally am interested in any prospect of having Charlie as a member of our staff, and I have discussed such a possibility with him on several occasions, but nothing of a definite or final nature has developed."

An official close to the Athletic Council, who asked not to be identified, said the question of hiring Justice would probably come before the Council on Jan. 16, two days after athletic officials here return from the NCAA meeting in Dallas.

In addition to the approval of the Athletic Council, additions to the coaching staff must be approved by the Faculty Committee on Athletics, the administration and the Board of Trustees, but their sanction usually follows the Council's recommendations without hitch.

Charlie said he had sent a letter of resignation to the North Carolina Medical Foundation shortly after he went to Washington to join the Redskins. He went to work for the group after graduation last June, and was given a leave of absence to play pro ball.

The prospect of hiring Justice as assistant backfield coach was supposed to be kept under wraps until action had been taken by the Athletic Council, but a source in Asheville close to Charlie revealed the move prematurely to an Asheville newspaper. By yesterday afternoon, the tip had spread across the state.

Charlie signed a professional contract to play for the Redskins for three years, and estimates put his pay at more than $50,000 for the three seasons, although the exact figure was never released. The UNC coaching position he is seeking will probably (See CHARLIE, page 4)

Swimming Team Meets VPI In Match Here Monday

Coach Dick Jamerson's swimmers, who returned to Chapel Hill to resume workouts on Dec. 28, will begin the 1951 season at home when they meet Virginia Tech on Monday afternoon.

In eight seasons of dual meet competition between the two schools, VPI has never registered a win over the Tar Heels. Last year, Andy Taylor took third in the 440-yard freestyle to give Carolina a narrow 38-37 decision.

Little is known concerning the strength of the VPI team but the visitors, who meet Duke this afternoon, are expected to put up quite a tussle. In last year's contest, the Blacksburg team demonstrated outstanding ability in the breast, backstroke, and sprint events.

Baltimore's Jim Thomas will again lead the local aggregation and can undoubtedly be counted upon to garner at least one first place. Thomas, in his last outing, registered firsts in the 220-yard freestyle and 200-yard backstroke.

The attention of the fans will probably be focused on the participants in the opening event, the 300-yard medley relay. If Coach Jamerson uses his best combination in this event, the locals may set a new University mark.

Buddy Baarcke, Barry Wall, and Stan Tinkham swam the distance against Florida in 2:58, just one second shy of the best mark set by the 1948 team.

Coach Jamerson has been drilling his charges vigorously during the past week in an attempt to ready them for the Virginia meet which is scheduled for Charlottesville on the 13th.

Assistant Coach Bob Ousley viewed the Cavaliers in the Yuletide Meet at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and believes the Virginians possess a well-rounded team.

Coach Jamerson will have to find a replacement for Ray Edmondson in the distance events. Edmondson, who swam the 440-yard freestyle and several sprint events, enlisted in the Air Corps this week.

Lacrossemen Open Drills Next Week

Lacrosse practice will begin Monday afternoon at 3:30 on Fetzer Field with approximately 20 front line performers ready and waiting. Lacrosse this season will be led by Coach Alan Moore, a graduate of Springfield College and more recently connected with the coaching of the frosh team at Springfield.

Coach Moore who recently returned from an NCAA meeting in New York will probably have the strongest squad since the official rebirth of the sport here two years ago.

Sixteen lettermen are expected to return from last year's squad. Among them is Goalie Nick Sowell, All-America in 1950.

Other standouts from last year's squad are veteran Attackmen Hal Taylor, Art Greenbaum, Dan Lynch, Al Beatty, Joe Sargeant and Bill Gilmore; Defensemen Lew Strudwick, Walt Winius and Bill Debnam; Midfielders Andy Bell, Co-Captain John Murchison, and Frank Strong.

The team will be greatly aided by the return of Joe Zahran, Fred Cutts and Vernon Mountcastle who were not able to play last year because of injuries. Coach Moore is looking forward to having as many men as possible turn out for the squad and urges anyone with interest to come out Monday afternoon.

Mural Basketball

The Intramural Department wishes to call to the attention of the dorm mural managers the fact that dorm division basketball entries close Jan. 9 and play begins Jan. 11. The purpose of this, the mural office announced, was to give dorm and independent mural managers an opportunity to organize their teams after the holidays.

Temple University Host To Tar Heel Quintet Tonight In Philadelphia's Convention Hall

Special to The Daily Tar Heel PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5—Temple University will play host to the University of North Carolina in a top-flight basketball attraction tomorrow night in Convention Hall.

The high-riding Owls, paced by the scoring of Bill Mikvy, the nation's leading point producer, have not met with outstanding success this season, but hope to hit their stride against the visiting Tar Heels. Temple will be favored in the contest.

Injury-riddled North Carolina moves into Convention Hall sporting a seven-game losing streak. Last night the Tar Heels extended a good NYU team to the limit before bowing, 66-60, in a Madison Square Garden contest. Last night's contest may have been the forerunner of better things to come for Carolina's promising young squad.

Two native Philadelphians will be in the lineup for the visitors tonight. Vince Grimaldi, scrappy guard and play-maker for the Tar Heels, will be in the starting lineup while Center Ernie Schwarz is one of the top reserves. The two played together at John Bartram High School here two years ago.

Mikvy, the "Owl without a vowel," leads the nation's scoring stars with 287 points in 10 games for a sensational 28.7 average.

Carolina, after winning its first five games, fell into losing ways when co-captains and All-Southern forward Hugo Kappler and first-team center Bud Maddie were severely injured. Kappler suffered a broken wrist and will see only limited action tomorrow while Maddie's shoulder separation may be sufficiently healed to allow him to play.

Tar Heel Guard Howard Deasy has recovered from an attack of pneumonia and will be available for service. Deasy, who specializes in drives from the outside and control of the defensive backboard, scored 15 points for top honors against NYU last night.

A win for Temple tonight would provide some consolation for the defeat which the Owls suffered at the hands of North Carolina State in December.

Texas Is Only Newcomer To 1951 UNC Grid Card

Athletic Director R. A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer yesterday released the 1951 Tar Heel football schedule, showing only one new opponent—the University of Texas.

Carolina will meet the Longhorns at Austin in the third game of the year, slated for Oct. 6.

Other important changes in the schedule saw the Duke game shifted to Nov. 24, the last engagement of the season, and the open date that was on last year's card omitted. Carolina will again meet ten foes during the season.

The highlight of the home season is the Carolina-Notre Dame game scheduled Nov. 17. Another top Kenan Stadium attraction will be the Carolina-Tennessee game set Nov. 3. Other home games pit the Tar Heels against N. C. State in the opener, Georgia, and South Carolina.

The Wake Forest game, after being played in Chapel Hill for the past two years, has been shifted back to Groves Stadium in Wake Forest. The Tar Heels will journey to Charlottesville, Va., again this year to meet the Virginia Cavaliers. The North Carolina-South Carolina game, played in Columbia, S. C., for the past two years, has been shifted to Kenan Stadium.

Only five Southern Conference teams—State, South Carolina, Maryland, Wake Forest, and Duke—are on the 1951 schedule. The remainder of the Tar Heel foes is made up of two Southeastern Conference teams—Georgia and Tennessee, two independents—Notre Dame and Virginia, and one Southwestern Conference outfit—Texas.

They are P. J. Boatwright, Jr., of Aiken, S. C.; Richard D. Chapman, Pinehurst; Bobby Knowles, Aiken; Billy Joe Patton, Morganton; Harvie Ward of Rocky Mount and Harry Welch of Salisbury.

A dozen players were rated two handicaps in the list announced by Executive Secretary Ray Taylor of Pinehurst.

Track Team Set To Open Schedule

Carolina's indoor track team increased the tempo of workouts this week in preparation for the opening meet of the season, the Evening Star Meet in Washington a week from today.

Coach Dale Ranson has indicated that he will probably take eight men to the meet. Included in this group will be a team to compete in the Southern Conference mile relay event.

Dave Willis, defending conference dash champion, has been nominated for the sprint series which includes a series of sprints varying from 60 to 100 yards, but Ranson says that he doesn't know whether the Tar Heel speedster will be in top shape by that time.

About 100 men are working out daily in the Tin Can under Ranson and Assistant Coaches Joe Hilton and Dick Maxwell.

Carolina will also send a contingent to the Philadelphia Inquirer Meet the week following the Washington meet.

'Pack Plays At Duke Tonight

DURHAM, Jan. 5—Duke's Blue Devils, certainly one of the "fittest" teams in the Southern Conference, take a crack at N. C. State's seventh-nationally ranking Wolfpack in Duke's Indoor Stadium here tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

While one of the largest crowds of the season is expected for this—the Blue Devils' home opener—there are plenty of tickets remaining for the game and will be on sale at the ticket offices tomorrow night.

The battle between the two teams is more or less secondary to the individual duel between two of the greatest basketball players in the land—Duke's Dick (The Great) Groat and State's Sammy Ranzino.

The Blue Devils are given little chance of stopping the brilliant State club although Duke has had a record over the past four years of playing its best ball of the season in home games with the Wolfpack.

Tar Baby Wrestlers Take Win Over Raleigh School, 26-13; Four Freshmen Get Pins

The Carolina freshman wrestling team defeated the Raleigh School for the Blind, 26-13, yesterday in a practice match in Woolen Gym.

It was the first competition of the year for the frosh under their new coach, Oscar Gupton, a former Conference champ here.

The Tar Babies put the match away with four straight pins in the last events. Bill Dameron, wrestling at 147 pounds, pinned Spears in the second period, Tom Stokes pinned Horne in the second and Harvey Bradshaw pinned Rector in the third, both in 157-pound matches, and Andy Holt pinned Hocutt in the third in a heavyweight match.

Holt, a Durham boy, is also blind and last year captured the wrestling team at the Raleigh school.

Coach Gupton was pleased with the team's performance. "I think they did very well considering the length of time they have been together," he commented.

The School for the Blind, coached by O. G. Rucker, N. C. State 177-pound wrestler, will play host to the Tar Babies in a re-match on January 16.

123—Pawlick (UNC) decision Morgan (Ral.), 3-3.
