

Army Reassigns 6 Ex-UNC Students

Six former Carolina students have completed their processing at Second Army Headquarters, Fort George G. Meade, Maryland.

Recruit John S. Whichard of Greenville has been assigned to the 101st Airborne Division, Camp Breckinridge, Ky. He was assistant business and advertising manager on the staff of the Daily Reflector in Greenville. He was on the Carolina swimming team and a member of Phi Gamma Delta. He graduated with an AB degree in journalism.

Recruit Gerald D. Hill, Jr. of Beaufort, also assigned to the 101st Airborne at Camp Breckinridge, graduated from Carolina with a BA degree in education. Recruit Charles B. Cunningham of Wilson has also been assigned to Camp Breckinridge.

Recruit Lewis D. Moore of Turkey, formerly an analytical chemist with the Tesco Chemical Company of Atlanta, Ga., graduated from Carolina with a BA degree in chemistry. He has been assigned to the 8th Infantry Division, Fort Jackson, S. C.

Recruit James E. Sutton of Greenville, also assigned to Camp Breckinridge, was formerly manager of Sutton's Service Centers, Inc., Greenville.

Recruit William D. Maultsby of

Newton Grove is going to Camp Breckinridge. Prior to induction he graduated from Carolina with a BA degree.

Rockefeller Grants Duke $1,500,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—The Rockefeller Foundation today announced a number of large grants to colleges and other organizations, topped by a $1,500,000 grant to Duke University.

The grants were announced in a report on the fourth quarter of 1950. The quarter's grants brought the 1950 total to $6,944,105, the Foundation said.

The grant to Duke was made by the General Education Board and was among a number of grants to promote graduate education in the South.

The board, once a separate organization, now is wholly supported by Rockefeller Foundation funds.

Y Workshop Planned For Tomorrow

The YWCA will sponsor a "Worship Workshop" tomorrow at the Episcopal Parish House, planned for the benefit of all persons on campus interested in studying together ways of worship, and preparing material for worship programs, as well as discussing the needs for worship.

The Workshop has been divided into separate sections, among them a discussion by J. C. Herrin on "The Essence of Worship," from 10:30 a.m. to 12 o'clock. Opening worship will begin the morning's activities at 10 o'clock, followed by orientation for persons attending the session.

Following luncheon there will be a forum discussion on "Techniques and Materials of Worship." Mrs. Bernard Boyd, Mrs. J. E. Adams, J. C. Herrin, and Mike McDaniel will be featured in the panel.

Finally, the delegates will divide into workshop groups, each of which will plan an original worship program, and later present it to the entire attendance.

UNC Dentists Plan To Open 3 Chapters

Three professional dental fraternities, Delta Sigma Delta, Psi Omega, and Xi Psi Phi, are organizing at the University, which opened its Dental School last fall.

Each fraternity has already held or will hold dinner meetings to which the students in dentistry are invited. After the final meeting, which will be Saturday night when Psi Omega fraternity will be host, students will indicate which organization they prefer.

Official representatives of the three fraternities are Dr. M. R. Evans, Chapel Hill dentist, Delta Sigma Delta; Dr. D. M. Getsinger, Chapel Hill dentist, Psi Omega; and Dr. R. E. Sturdevant of the Dental School faculty, Xi Psi Phi.

Principal speaker at the dinner meeting tomorrow night at the Carolina Inn will be Dr. Frank Lamons, Atlanta, Ga., Supreme Grand Master of Psi Omega. Other speakers will be Dr. Henry O. Lineberger, Raleigh, Dr. Walter McFall, Asheville, past president of the North Carolina society, and Dr. Alton D. Brashear, Professor of Anatomy in the School of Dentistry of the Medical College of Virginia.

College Trio To Question Joseph Stalin

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 18—(AP)—Three college students waited today for a report on their call to the man they think can answer some important questions.

The Vanderbilt University freshman football players placed a phone call to Marshall Stalin in Moscow. They expect the call to be completed at 11 a.m. some day this week.

"We want to ask Stalin what he thinks about the Korean situation and why Jacob Malik votes every proposal that comes up in the United Nations," said one of the trio, Jimmy Threlkeld of Tupelo, Miss.

Getsinger Volunteers For AF, Will Pull Teeth For Sam Now

By Don Maynard
It's like pulling teeth to get a man into the armed services these days, but a Chapel Hill dentist has volunteered for duty with the Air Force.

Dr. Duncan M. Getsinger, one of the town's four dentists for the past two years, signed up recently and leaves for Scott Field, Ill., on Jan. 30.

But his absence could not make it any harder than it is today to get dental treatment in Chapel Hill. The three remaining dentists said yesterday his enlistment would not clutter up their appointment books much more than they are now. "How could it?" was the general comment, "we're already booked up for the next three months."

They expected, however, to get around to everybody at some time or other, for none of them are anticipating going into the armed forces for some time.

Getsinger, who would have fallen under the compulsory draft registration of all dentists and doctors last Monday, has volunteered his services to the AF for a year and accepted a commission as first lieutenant.

He intends to return to Chapel Hill at the end of his hitch, but in the meantime has no one to take over his practice, he said. It was possible, he pointed out, that someone might fill the vacancy, but that at this time he has no one in mind.

His offices will be ready and waiting for him and his patients when he returns, however, for he plans to keep the spaces over Sutton's Drug Store until he returns to civilian life.

Engaged in an army training program for nine months as a private in the last war, Getsinger attended the Medical College of the University of Virginia in Richmond for three and a half years.

He served in a teaching capacity for a year in the Department of Exodonture at Richmond and began his private practice in Asheville after that.

In March of 1948, Getsinger opened his offices in Chapel Hill, operating his practice until the first of this month. Married, he intends to have his wife join him in Illinois after he gets settled in the AF, he said.

Recently appointed a deputy counselor in the professional dental fraternity, Psi Omega, Getsinger will participate in playing host to first year students in the School of Dentistry at a dinner for them Saturday evening as one of his last official acts with the fraternity.

Harwood said that all evidence uncovered would be turned over to a grand jury convening Jan. 29.

150 Studying In Italy On The Fulbright Act

ROME, Jan. 18—(AP)—For the second straight year some 150 American students, professors and men of letters are studying in Italy on grants under terms of the Fulbright Act. They come from all parts of the United States to study, lecture, paint, sculpt and engage in research.

Their fields range through the whole network of advanced education, from history to playwriting, from economics to zoology.

The Fulbright Act was signed by President Truman in 1946. It inaugurated an official U.S. government program designed to turn some of the unavoidable wastage of war to the useful purposes of promoting international understanding through student and teacher exchanges.

Drafted by Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, the act actually amended the Surplus Property Act of 1944 so that a portion of the currencies and credits of other countries acquired by the U.S. through the sale of surplus property abroad after World War II might be used for educational exchanges.

The 1949-50 academic year was the inaugural one for Fulbright students in Italy. The 1950-51 program, though not fully underway as yet, promises to equal it in terms of numbers.

Not all Fulbright scholars are college graduates who seek higher degrees. Many of them are professors and research scholars. Some are men highly successful in their fields who carry out the intent of the act by lecturing to students at the leading universities of Italy.

Sixty of last year's Fulbright students studied in Rome, 40 chose Florence for their research and study, 15 Milan. Others sought out universities in Naples, Venice, Bologna, Turin, Pisa, Genoa and Pavia.

Noted for its painting and sculpting, Italy naturally draws a full quota of art students. Some have had one-man shows that have been highly successful, not only from the point of view of the individual artist, but also in the matter of helping to develop closer relationships.

APO Group Will Install USC Branch

Twenty brothers of Carolina's Rho Chapter, Alpha Phi Omega, will journey to Columbia, S. C., today for the installation of a new APO chapter at the University of South Carolina.

This chapter will be the 228th of the fraternity and the second installed by Rho chapter in the past two months. Bob Poole, president of Rho chapter, will lead the ritual team. Steve Storm will serve as advisor. The installation will be made after the Carolina group is feted at a banquet.

Bill Roth of Carolina and Frank D. Wood of Atlanta, Ga., will officiate at the installation as members of the APO National Executive Board.

Other activity of the local APO chapter this week includes initiation of 19 pledges of the Lon G. Turner pledge class last night.

The new Alpha Phi Omega activities are John Barlow, Elmira, N. Y.; Jack Bright, Chapel Hill; Gene Cain, Elizabethtown; Lewis Camp, Charlotte; Eddie Cheek, Durham; John Foust, Lexington; Jim Grimes, Thomasville; Lee Kennette, Pleasant Gardens; Bill Little, Hickory; T. V. Lyons, Durham; Bruce Marger, Coral Gables, Florida; Gene Marshall, Winston-Salem; Arthur Rowe, Aberdeen; Al Rumbough, Mars Hill; Russell Shouse, Winston Salem; Jim Wallace, Jamesville; Gray Widenhouse, Concord; Melvin Woodford, Clemmons; Harry Young, Greensboro.

"Walking the line isn't a bad job if there isn't anything else to do, explained Harry. I got 40 bucks a week." One other reason why we struck was because we wanted to get more bricklayers in this area. Many have flocked to other vicinities to take advantage of the increases in pay," he continued.

lege of New York's grand slam champions, said he didn't think coaches could do more than they're doing to prevent gambling scandals.

Howard Cann, veteran coach of New York University, the team Carolina played in the Garden two weeks ago, also said his boys had been urged to report "anything fishy."

"I don't know what else we can do," Cann said. "We're careful with the type of boy we play and we warn the squad ahead of time. Maybe we ought to stress it more."

Phog Allen, veteran Kansas coach, said "There are a lot of rotten eggs in eastern basketball but we only get to smell them occasionally when one gets broken. College basketball isn't in any nationwide danger."
