Court Hearing Of Negro Suit Set For March

Admittance Rights Will Be Challenged By Suit Of Appeal

A law suit which challenges the right of the University to bar Negroes from its Law School will be heard by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., March 17—a date marked on many calendars as St. Patrick's Day.

The circuit court will be asked to set aside a judgment entered last October by Judge Johnson J. Hayes, upholding the University's position.

Judge Hayes ruled that facilities available at North Carolina College, a Negro institution at Durham, were equal to, and in some ways better, than facilities available at Chapel Hill.

The judge pointed out that the law school at Durham had an "excellent" faculty and adequate library, and more space per student than the Chapel Hill school. He held, too, that the cultural advantages and prestige of the University were negligible.

The suit originally was filed by two North Carolina College students—Harold T. Epps and Robert Carter. Both have withdrawn—Epps, because he graduated and is now practicing law, and Carter because he is not a legal resident of North Carolina.

The students now listed as intervenors are Floyd McKissack, Sol Revis, James Lassiter, and J. Kenneth Lee.

Architects Elect Prexy At Meeting

John Ramsey of Salisbury was elected president of the North Carolina chapter of the American Institute of Architects at the final session yesterday morning of the annual three-day meeting of the chapter.

Ramsey succeeds Lindsey Guder of Asheville.

Other new officers: Tom Cooper, Raleigh, vice-president; G. Milton Small, Raleigh, secretary; James Griffith, Greenville, treasurer, and A. G. Odell, Charlotte, member of the board of directors.

Shelton Cantor, chairman of the student section of the American Institute of Architects at the State College of Design, reported on the activities of the student chapter during the past year.

Wherry Issue To Get Study

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—The Administration won an important skirmish on the troops-for-Europe issue today when the Senate sent the Wherry Resolution to committees for study.

The resolution, offered by Republican Floor Leader Wherry of Nebraska, would put the Senate on record as disapproving sending U. S. soldiers to join an international defense force until Congress has laid down a policy on the subject.

UNESCO

UNESCO will be discussed by Dr. John P. Gillin, sociology professor, at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Town Hall.

Dr. Gillin has just returned from a South American trip where he surveyed the developments in social sciences for UNESCO. The public is invited to attend. The talk is sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

HERE ARE FIVE OF THE BEAUTY contestants to be seen in "Of Thee I Sing," Gershwin's musical comedy to be presented by the Carolina Playmakers in Memorial Hall Saturday and Sunday at 8:30. They are admiring the vice-presidential candidate, the leading comic role of Alexander Throtlebottom, portrayed by Phil Bernanke, Dillon, S. C. The beauty contestants are, seated at left and reading clockwise: Gwen Duffy, Chapel Hill; Juanita Childers, Louisburg; Katherine Blue, Raeford; Frances Thompson, Wilmington, and Charlotte Davis, Chapel Hill.

Council Announces Two Case Reports

The Student Council yesterday released reports on one appeal case and one probation case heard during the past two weeks.

An appeal by a male student to the Court of the Interdormitory Council was upheld by the Council. The student previously had been found guilty by the IDC Court of "gross violation" of the dormitory social rules.

Both Lanes Of New Road To Be Graded

RALEIGH, Jan. 23—(AP)—The State Highway Commission today announced plans to grade both lanes of the new Durham-Chapel Hill highway instead of one as originally planned.

Though a dual road eventually will be built, the Commission indicated earlier that the second lane would be left unfinished for the present. The change of plans does not mean, officials said, that both lanes will be paved under the present contract.

Dish-Washing Finnish Physician Dislikes Carolina Warm Weather

From doctor to dishwasher. That's the story of Dr. Timo Jaaskelainen, a graduate student from Finland working for his Master's in Public Health.

Timo served as a doctor and public health officer for a Finnish island of 5000 inhabitants. He then received a scholarship to come here and study more about Public Health. The day he arrived he started studying and also commenced working as a dishwasher and machine cleaner at the Porthole.

Timo wants to save money so that he can bring his wife, Sirkku, a practicing dentist in the same region that he worked, and children to this country for a vacation. The doctor is here on one of 36 Finnish War Debt Scholarships,

The IDC Court had sentenced the student to indefinite suspension from residence in University dormitories.

The student made the appeal to the Student Council on the grounds that he had not been informed of the charge for which he had been sentenced. The defendant said that he felt that the sentence was not commensurate with the degree of the offense.

The higher court said the main grounds for appeal had no effect on the trial and rejected it. Other grounds were rejected as having no valid basis in the case. The IDC reported the actions of the student to the Men's Council, since it felt they were in violation of the Campus Code.

In the second case a request for removal of probation was granted.

The defendant had been placed on probation by the Student Council on appeal of a decision by the Men's Council last year.

The Student Council found that the student had complied with the regulations pertaining to probation and was qualified for the full rights of a Carolina student.

Plans Talked For 75-100 Scholarships

Morehead Fund Would Provide Money For Grants

Plans for the establishment of between 75 and 100 scholarships provided for under the terms of the Morehead Foundation were discussed at an all-day session of the Foundation's trustees here yesterday.

Formal announcement of the number of scholarships, eligibility requirements, the value of the grants, and other terms will be made at another meeting of the Foundation's trustees in the near future, University officials said.

John Motley Morehead, of New York, who created the Foundation, presided over today's session as chairman of the board of trustees, all of whom were present. They were John L. Morehead, Charlotte manufacturer, vice-chairman; Norman A. Cooke, Charlotte, vice-president of Duke Power Company; and two newly-elected trustees, Robert M. Hanes, Winston-Salem, president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, and Hugh G. Chatham, Elkin, vice-president of Chatham Manufacturing Company. President Gordon Gray and Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., also attended the session.

The Morehead scholarships were provided for when Mr. Morehead set up a trust indenture in 1946, but the amount involved never has been announced. Morehead said at the time of the first announcement the scholarships would be awarded on the basis of demonstrated capability and leadership and promise of future distinction.

Y Announces Party Friday At 8 O'Clock

Another "Get-Acquainted" night is scheduled for this Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Y building for all students wishing to have an evening of relaxation and fun.

The Y recreation committee, headed by Clint Foust, announced yesterday that the party would be similar to the one held last Friday evening which was enjoyed by about 25 students.

Foust asserted that Y membership is not necessary for participation in the party. However, he pointed out that male and female stags were the ones the committee wants to attend the party. "Last week there were plenty of male stags at the party but not enough gals," he said.

When told that some people in New York live in fear of the A-bomb and apparent war, Timo said, "We are very calm about war and are not afraid of it if it comes." And Finland has as its neighbor, the USSR. "We are just good neighbors and we want to continue living in peace," he commented on the nearness of his big neighbor. However, he asserted that his native land was not a puppet or satellite behind the Iron Curtain. He pointed out that freedom abounded in Finland and that it was a good place to live.

This summer, Timo will utilize a Rockefeller Foundation scholarship for field work in Public Health. During the Christmas vacation, he was able to fly home to Finland and visit his wife, boy, and two girls.

Dean Of Students Clarifies University Self-Help Policy

By Mark Waters
Dean of Students Fred Weaver said yesterday that it is still University policy to hire students wherever feasible for campus jobs, and a Carolina Inn official said that all self-help students discharged from the Inn recently for economic reasons have been rehired.

Ralph Eaton, assistant manager of the Carolina Inn food department, said yesterday, "All those students who were discharged were given one week's notice. Some have gone into the service or decided not to work, but all who have reapplied for work have been put on odd jobs until a regular position is open."

"Three of our regular students who quit have been replaced by students taken off the dishwashers," he added.

L. B. Rogerson, business manager of the Carolina Inn, said yesterday, "It was not found economical to use students on the dishwashers. Because of the breakage involved and the necessity for a continuous flow of clean dishes, full time workers are required.

"The dishwashing machine can usually be repaired by a full time dishwasher with experience when it breaks down.

"If the machine breaks down with inexperienced help on the job, it constitutes a serious sanitation or health problem."

Dean of Students Fred Weaver said yesterday that it is still University policy to hire students wherever feasible for campus jobs.

"It is a University tradition to give aid to as many students as possible," he added. "This policy is unchanged."

AFR Cadets Raise Flag On New Pole

At dawn yesterday the Air Force ROTC Cadets raised the flag on the new University flag pole.

The ceremony climaxed the discussion which originated last fall on United Nations Day when R. J. Hoobs, mayor pro tempore of Chapel Hill, mentioned the lack and need for a display of the national colors on the campus.

Since that time a flag pole was erected, but no provisions had been made for a flag or personnel to perform the hoisting and lowering honors.

The cadets of the AROTC volunteered their services. An American flag was procured by the Air Force staff and raised at 7:45 yesterday morning with the entire Air Force staff, cadet staff, and the AROTC drum and bugle corps participating in the ceremony.

On succeeding days a small detail from one of the ROTC units will perform the honors, hoisting the flag at 8 o'clock and lowering it at 4:30 in the afternoon.

Army Task Force Recaptures Wonju

TOKYO, Wednesday, Jan. 24—(UP)—A U. S. 8th Army task force again seized Wonju with its airstrip and key hills Tuesday and speared five miles north along the central Korean highway in the wake of withdrawing Communist forces.

North Korean and United Nations troops were locked in a bloody and indecisive battle swaying back and forth through the rubble strewn streets of Yongwol, anchor base of the Allied line 30 miles southeast of Wonju.

Southward some 40 to 60 miles behind the Allied front, several thousand North Korean troops fought big scale guerrilla battles as close as 35 miles to Taegu, the northwestern keystone of the old Pusan beachhead.

History's biggest battle of jet planes was fought over northwest Korea yesterday. U. S. Thunderjets shot down four and possibly five Russian made MIG-15s. The dogfight involving nearly 70 planes—32 American jets and 30 to 40 MIGs—swirled through the skies just south of the Manchurian border for 30 minutes.

Dispatches from Air Force headquarters in Korea said the battle proved the superiority of the Thunderjets over Russia's best known fighter plane.

All across Korea except in the infiltration area between Wonju and Taegu the Chinese and North Korean Communists were kept out of sight or pulling back.

A possible clue to the Communist suckback in the face of ever more aggressive Allied patrol thrusts came in a dispatch from the western front below Seoul. Patrols there prowled the broad no man's land again Tuesday without finding the enemy.

A staff officer told United Press Correspondent Richard Applegate that the Reds seemed to be living off the land, and he doubted if they were in any position to launch a general offensive on the western front now or for some time to come.

At New Hope:

Specialist On Russia To Talk At Y Meeting

A conference at Camp New Hope will be held this Sunday from 1 p.m. until about 8 o'clock at night.

Sponsored by the YMCA, the conference will be an informal get-together for students to talk about "Understanding Communism." Speaker for the affair is William Edgerton, Professor of Russian Studies at Penn State College. Edgerton has studied at the Russian Institute at Columbia University and recently completed extensive work in Poland, Yugoslavia, Greece, and other European countries.

A supper is planned for the meeting besides many discussions

Review Board Holds Hearing This Afternoon

Dance Committee Being Investigated By Special Group

Complaints against Dance Committee action and procedure will be heard at a public meeting of a legislative review committee this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge 3 of Graham Memorial.

The special eight-man group appointed by the Executive Committee of the Student Legislature this week, will sit in session to review the activities of the alleged "mail-order court" Dance Committee.

Vice President Herb Mitchell said yesterday that the purpose of the legislature review was to "hear complaints against the Dance Committee and review its procedure.

"All we are doing now is getting information. What we learn will be presented to the Dance Committee for explanation," Mitchell continued.

The Dance Committee has been operating under Constitutional sanction since the spring of 1946. It was created to govern conduct at all Carolina dances.

Granted the power to formulate its own rules of conduct at dances, the Committee sits in judgement of violators of those rules.

Mitchell called for students who had information or evidence of Dance Committee malpractices to present themselves before the review committee this afternoon and explain their complaints.

City Jailers To Meet Here For Course

The third annual three-day course in jail management for county and city jailers will open at the Institute of Government today and continue through Friday noon.

Sponsored by the Institute with the cooperation of the State Board of Public Welfare, the course has been arranged by Director Albert Coates and will be conducted by Assistant Director Basil Sherrill.

Registration is scheduled at the Institute building from 12 to 2 p.m. Wednesday. Following a welcome by Director Coates, John Gold, Director of State Prisons, will speak on jail intake and release procedures, and Dr. M. T. Foster, Fayetteville, Cumberland County physician, will discuss physical examination and medical treatment of prisoners.

Jailer Norman Butler of Cumberland County will speak on prison food at the night session beginning at 7:30.

Tomorrow's speakers include Ivan Creel of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, Washington; Clifton Beckwith, officer of the Attorney General, Raleigh; Dury Thompson, staff attorney, State Board of Public Welfare; W. Murray Linker, Jr., State Board of Health; Sherwood Brockwell, State Fire Marshall, and T. A. Early, State Board of Public Welfare.

Ring Sale

Orders for senior rings will be accepted today from 1 o'clock to 4:30 p.m. at the Grail desk in the YMCA lobby.

Rings for the class of '52 will go on sale today for the first time, according to Bob Hutchingson, ring chairman. The Grail is the official campus representative of the L. G. Balfour Company, makers of the official University ring.
