Board Of Trustees Approves Health Affairs Tuition Increase

MILLIONS ARE GIVEN FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

SP Names McIntyre For Treasurer, Minett For Cheerleader

Not Effective If Budget Men Increase Funds

Student Leader Speaks Against Jump In Charge

RALEIGH, Feb. 19—(AP)—The University of North Carolina Board of Trustees today approved increased tuition charges for students in the Division of Health Affairs. If the Legislature should increase appropriations to the division substantially beyond those proposed by the Advisory Budget Commission the increased charges will not become effective, the Trustees were told. John Sanders, president of the student body of the University at Chapel Hill, spoke in opposition to the tuition increases. The increased tuition charges were proposed by the Advisory Budget Commission. They would increase from $389.50 to $600 charges for tuition and fees for medical students, from $383.55 to $600 in the Dental School, $300 to $500 for public health students, and from $234 to $309 for students of pharmacy. Members of the Board were told they saw little hope of obtaining the funds from the Legislature sufficient to make the increases unnecessary. The Board also approved increased charges for board, room and laundry at the Woman's College in Greensboro. Charges will be increased as follows: board from $28 to $31 a month, room from $42 to $60 a year and laundry from $27 to $30 a year.

Local AAUP Delegates Set

The Chapel Hill chapter of the American Association of University Professors has named delegates to attend regional and national meetings of the association this winter, it was announced by Dr. Gordon Blackwell, president of the chapter. Dr. Clifford Lyons, head of the University English Department, will represent the AAUP at the Southern Regional meeting to be held this weekend at the University of Florida in Gainesville. Dr. James W. Fesler of the Political Science Department, who is a member of the National Council of AAUP, will represent the University chapter at the National convention to be held in Cincinnati March 16-17.

Flag Finally Furlled

Old Glory Is Lowered From Post Office Pole

By Andy Taylor
Old Glory finally came down, but not without a fight. Dirty, tattered and torn, the stubborn set of Stars and Stripes that has flown for some four weeks over the Chapel Hill Post Office was brought to earth yesterday afternoon. The flag was hoisted as usual at 6:30 in the morning about a month ago—no one can recall the exact date. But when the time came that evening to pull it down, Old Glory turned the tables on its keepers. The rope had slipped the pulley at the top of the 60-foot pole and the flag wouldn't budge. Nor would it respond to any amount of coaxing. Thus began the month-long vigil regarded by many Chapel

Hillians as a local record in flag-flying. In the days and weeks that followed, every trick of rope-juggling was tried in vain efforts to haul down the flag. Finally Postmaster W. S. Hogan had to write to the Public Services Administration for this area in Atlanta in order to locate a steeplejack to handle the job. William MacCarthy of Virgilina, Va., was finally contacted and contracted. MacCarthy spent the better part of an hour yesterday afternoon dangling precariously above Chapel Hill untangling the ropes. Reluctantly, Old Glory came down for the last time. Its place will be taken by a new flag this morning.

UNC Debate Team Will Be In Tournery

After a four-day tour in Virginia the Carolina debating team leaves Thursday for Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Ga., to participate in the Southeastern Intercollegiate debating finals. Last year Tar Heel debaters placed second in the annual speaking contests, losing out to Georgetown for top honors. A team composed of Bob Evans and Paul Roth on the affirmative and Ken Meyers and Richard Ham on the negative will represent Carolina on the current National Intercollegiate debating topic, "Resolved: That the non-communist nations form a new international organization," at Decatur.

While in Virginia, a debating team consisting of Ham, Lacey Thornberg, Carolyn Stallings, and Fred Scher, debated at the University of Virginia, Richmond, Randolph Macon, and the Naval Academy. All debates were non-decisional and exhibitional except for the one at Randolph Macon which the Tar Heel debaters won.

Gray Hopes People Avoid War Thoughts

RALEIGH, Feb. 19—(AP)—Former Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray asserted today he hoped that "we as a people can avoid the conclusion that the only solution of our international problems is a military solution." Gray warned, however, that "the importance of military strength cannot be discounted." Gray, now president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, made the statements in a talk to the Raleigh Rotary Club.

Gray discussed certain phases of the report he made last fall to President Truman on foreign economic policy. Gray served for eight months as special assistant to the President after resigning as Secretary of the Army.

The report, Gray declared, "is based on a recognition that a sustained security effort will be necessary over a period of years. American policies in the economic, political, military and informational fields must all play an essential role if any just and lasting peace is to be established."

Student Party Discards Idea Of Cheer Unit

Pick John Harris For Appointment Into Legislature

By Chuck Hauser
Discarding its previous intention to use a nonpartisan board to select its candidate for head cheerleader, the Student Party last night nominated Cyril Minett of Waynesville for the post and then unanimously backed Jim McIntyre of Ellerbe for secretary-treasurer of the student body. The two nominations, made in a meeting in Graham Memorial, marked the beginning of the selection of major party candidates for either of the two political groups on campus.

The SP voted to hold a nominating convention next Monday night for president of the student body and editor of The Daily Tar Heel. In the selection of a head cheerleader candidate last night, Minett received 16 votes to beat out present Acting Head Cheerleader Allan Beaman, with 10 votes, and a red-haired dark horse named Ernest Montgomery, who received a single ballot. Both Minett and Beaman spoke to the party prior to the nomination. Montgomery was not present.

Minett is a present member of the cheerleading squad. McIntyre, the secretary-treasurer candidate, is a member of the Budget Committee, a member of the Dance Committee, secretary of the YMCA and treasurer of the Order of the Grail. He has served a year in the Student Legislature, with service on the Ways and Means Committee in that body. In other action last night, the SP voted unanimously to recommend presidential appointment of John Harris of New York City to fill a vacancy in the Legislature from Men's Dormitory District II.

In Korea: Allies Sweep Forward, Take 30 Miles Of Han

TOKYO, Tuesday, Feb. 20—(UP)—Allied forces in Korea swept forward in the wake of a general Communist withdrawal yesterday to seize a 30-mile stretch of the Han River bank east of Seoul and iron out a Red bulge in the east-central mountain line. Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway announced that the Communist offensive in central Korea had been smashed and the Chinese were withdrawing. United Nations troops swarmed northward on their heels. Gains of four miles in west and central Korea were added to those up to seven miles the day before. An American task force smashed back the only major resistance

John Jacob Niles To Perform In Folklore Program Tonight

John Jacob Niles, nationally-known specialist in American folk song, will give the fourth Student Entertainment Committee program of the year when he appears in Memorial Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. The auditorium doors will be opened at 7 o'clock and students will be admitted free upon presentation of ID cards. Extra seat tickets will go on sale as usual at 7:40 for $1 each. The American folklorist began his singing career at the age of nine when his father, also a singer of folk music, a caller at square dances and operator of a jug-band, taught him 17 verses of "Barbary Ellen." His mother, who was a church organist and taught him to write musical shorthand, started him on a notebook record of music and words of songs. Today he is still making entries into that book, now a treasure of airs and lyrics

JOHN JACOB NILES which his ear has caught at random for the past 40 years. The Niles program includes such favorites as "Little Mohee," "Frog Went A-Courtin'," "I Wonder As I Wander," "Jack O' Diamonds," and "John Henry," with his own simple accompaniment on one of his three dulcimers. Niles makes his concerts witty with his running commentary, and constantly adds to the audience's pleasure by his introduction of the music, the folk-lore involved in the songs and their history in this country and abroad. In addition to his countless music publications, Niles has found time to do a number of books—"One Man's War" and "Singing Soldiers" from his World War I experiences and the volume, "Songs My Mother Never Taught Me." In 1937, after a 20-year absence, Niles returned to his native Kentucky. He now lives on a small farm near Lexington in the Blue Grass country with his wife and two sons.

'Druid Circle' Has Newcomers In Cast

A cast of 10, many of whom will be making their debut on the Playmaker stage, will bring John van Drueten's latest play, "The Druid Circle," to life at the Playmakers Theater for six nights, Feb. 27-March 4. Reserved seat ticket for all performances are on sale now at Swain Hall and Ledbetter-Pickard's. Playing the lead role of Professor White, stogy and conservative faculty member in an English provincial school, is Earl Wynn. Wynn, who is the head of the Communications Center and a professor of speech and radio at Carolina, has worked before with the Playmakers in "Noah," and at the Northwestern University Theater. For two years, 1940-'42, he played the role of Governor White in The Lost Colony, symphonic drama at Manteo. Dolores Boyer of Hialeah, Fla., and Frank J. Entwistle of Philadelphia are cast as the student lovers who suffer in the midst of a faculty war. Dolores is a senior, majoring in radio, and this will be her first part with the local group. Entwistle, who plans to register here next March, has a big backlog of acting experience, having performed professionally with the Berkshire Playhouse in Massachusetts, the Cape May Playhouse, New Jersey, the Bellport Theater, Long Island, and the Nutangola Summer Theater, Pennsylvania. He studied two years at Rollins College, and for three years worked under the famed Professor Komisarjevsky in New York City. Josephina Niggl, famous authoress, will play Mrs. White, the mother of Professor White. Miss Niggl has not worked with the Playmakers in several years, due to her own writing and studying, although in years past she has performed in many of her own one-act plays.

Panhellenic Will Present Annual Show

Some 50 representatives of the five local sororities will black their faces and don appropriate costumes for the annual Panhellenic Minstrel show in Memorial Hall on Monday, March 5. In the past, each organization has presented a separate skit for the song-fest. This year, however, the Panhell Council will combine their talents to give one giant show. Admission tickets are priced at 50 cents and are available from any sorority girl. Special agent for the show is Betty Heath. She may be contacted at third floor Spencer, 4066. Directing the minstrel are Lu Daniel, Sue McLaughlin, and Jim Montague. Tink Gobbel is music director.

Newman Gives Lecture Thursday In Hill Hall

The second in the University's series of three lectures in the Humanities for 1950-51 will be presented by Prof. William S. Newman of the music faculty on Thursday at 8:30 p.m., in Hill Hall. Dr. Newman will speak on "The Climax of Music," illustrating his talk with piano music, slides, and phonograph recordings. "The Climax of Music" concerns the question of where the peak of interest occurs in music of various eras, forms, styles, and composers. Though seldom touched upon, the question is regarded as a basic one in the understanding not only of musical form but of much other form in art. Especially in the integrated works of the 19th century does the idea of the one climax become important in creative effort.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Dr. Newman came here immediately after service in Army Air Forces Intelligence during World War II. He has presented recitals at the University on several occasions and made annual tours in various sections of the country. This year during April he will give a series of 10 concerts and lectures at colleges in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, playing here when he returns. The study of musical form has been Dr. Newman's field of research for a number of years, particularly the history of the sonata. In recent years, besides numerous articles he has published "Keyboard Sonatas by the Sons of Bach," "Thirteen Keyboard Sonatas of the 18th and 19th Centuries," and "The Pianist's Problems."

J.M. Morehead, UNC Alumnus, Donates Gift

Two Million Grant Would Increase Many Times More

RALEIGH, Feb. 19—(AP)—A multi-million dollar gift to the University of North Carolina to provide scholarships for needy students was announced today, but details are being withheld until a later date. This was reported to the Board of Trustees of the Greater University today by Controller William D. Carmichael, Jr., who identified the donor as John Motley Morehead, New York industrialist and University alumnus. Carmichael said the gift would amount to $2,000,000 initially and was expected to total that several times ultimately. At a lengthy session, the trustees also:

1. Approved increased tuition charges for students of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and public health at the Chapel Hill branch of the Greater University. (See story, this page.—Ed.)
2. Approved increased charges for board, room and laundry at the Woman's College at Greensboro.
3. Authorized, at the request of President Gordon Gray, the creation of a special trustees committee to plan for long-range development of the University. Gray told the trustees that a special committee on admissions which was created several weeks ago had studied the problem presented by the application of four Negroes for admission to the University Medical School. Gray also had discussed the matter of race relations in connection with all three branches of the University. The committee, Gray added, has reached no conclusions and will continue its studies.

Coker Slated For Lecture

Dr. Francis W. Coker will speak on "Minority Rights and Academic Freedom" tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in Caldwell Hall. Students for Democratic Action is sponsoring the lecture. The public is invited to attend the address and a discussion will follow the presentation. Dr. Coker is a Cowles professor of government at Yale and at the present time is a visiting professor in the Political Science Department here.

UP Meets

The University Party will meet tonight at 7:15 at the Phi Delta Theta fraternity house to make nominations for head cheerleader, Yackety Yack editor, and senior class officers. Chairman Dick Janrette said action was also expected on the party platform. The meeting is open.
