While persons who gave blood the last time will be eligible as donors again, Red Cross Chapter Chairman Robert H. Wettach especially encouraged the participation of new donors.

The Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity will continue to schedule blood donors at the Red Cross office in Alumni Building for the rest of the week and next Monday.

Books Given Bill Friday By Students

Honoring his work with students and student government for the past three years, Assistant Dean of Students Bill Friday was given a four-volume set of "Robert E. Lee" yesterday in a presentation on South Building's steps.

Student Body President John Sanders made the presentation of Douglas Southall Freeman's noted volumes. Sanders lauded Friday's achievements and work with students. Some 150 students and Administration personnel attended.

We wish to express our appreciation of your work with students and student government in the past three years. While we are unhappy to lose you, we are glad to know you will be continuing your work for a greater university," Sanders said.

As Friday appeared on the scene, a chorus of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" broke out from the crowd. He was completely surprised at the ceremonies and expressed gratitude to students for the gift and their well-wishes.

"It's good to have a real Southern biography," he chuckled, as Sanders presented him with a first volume of the Lee story. The book was autographed by student government officials and other students.

Friday was recently appointed to a Consolidated University post of Special Assistant to President Gray. He completes his duties as Assistant to Dean of Students today.

Administration officials attending the ceremonies included Chancellor R. B. House and Dean of Students Fred Weaver.
