NEGRO TO ENTER MED SCHOOL NEXT FALL

New Deadline Set For ROC Applications

Coeds Are Invited To Join Reserve, Join In Program

The Navy Department recently announced the deadline date has been indefinitely extended for women ROC (Reserve Officer Candidates) applicants until the quota is filled or classes have convened.

University women are especially desired for this summer training program which leads to a WAVE commission in the Naval Reserve, a directive from the Bureau of Naval Personnel pointed out. Applicants, who must enlist in the Naval Reserve prior to acceptance in the ROC program, should contact Cmdr. R. E. Cutts, USN, inspector-instructor, Naval Reserve Training Center, 724 Foster Street, Durham.

Applications should be submitted without delay for any applicant who appears to meet the minimum requirements. Waivers may be recommended for highly qualified candidates. Prospective candidates are advised that women applicants who enlist in the Naval Reserve in order to apply for ROC and who are not selected, may be discharged at their request.

High School Champs Meet For Debating

Twelve high school debating teams, each team a district champion on the affirmative or negative, will enter the final contest for the Aycock Memorial Cup here tomorrow.

This will be the 39th annual final contest of the North Carolina High School Debating Union for the trophy which is provided by the intercollegiate debaters of the University.

A general meeting of all debaters and coaches will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in Gerrard Hall. Welcome will be extended by Dean E. L. Mackie of the University and by representatives of the Dialectic Senate and the Philanthropic Assembly. Drawings will be held for sections and pairings in the preliminaries.

The afternoon program also will include a conducted tour of the campus and an open house by the Di and the Phi.

The preliminaries will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow, the semi-finals will begin at 10 o'clock Friday morning, and the final debate is scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday in Gerrard Hall.

The query for discussion is: Resolved, That the American people should reject the welfare state." This is the national high school debate topic for the year.

The 12 teams will come from six high schools which are Concord, Forest City, Hamlet, Oxford, Winston-Salem (Reynolds), Scotland Neck, and Roxboro.

Straw Hats

Straw Hats, which will be an official part of the regalia for Junior Day this Saturday at Hogan's Lake, will be on sale again today in the Y Court for 50 cents.

Dick Penegar, class president, yesterday asked all members of the class of '52 to participate in the festivities planned for the weekend.

Aldermen Discuss Curve Inn Petition

By Mac White

A petition to the State of North Carolina read before the town Board of Aldermen Monday night will certainly crimp the Curve Inn's chances of opening again.

The petition, signed by 30 or 35 people residing in the Curve Inn's neighborhood, said the area is a residential zone, and according to zoning rules, shouldn't be there in the first place. The beer-selling place is also just a plain nuisance, the petition intimated.

Among the signatures on the petition is that of Mrs. Carl Durham, wife of the Congressman from this district.

The town already had issued a beer license to E. Eure Johnson, proprietor of the Curve Inn, but state license had been refused to him. Johnson has appealed to the state and is awaiting the outcome.

On discovering the attitude of the people signing the petition, however, the Aldermen's attitude changed. Alderman R. J. M. Hobbs, who is also a professor in the University School of Business Administration, said, "I'd stay with the residents down there if it came to a show down."

Mayor Edwin S. Lanier, Director of Central Records Office for the University, agreed, "Me too." A recommendation from the Town Planning Board that an ordinance be passed requiring all trailers located at points other than approved trailer courts and equipped with standard toilet facilities, be moved to such courts or vacated by Sept. 1 also received consideration from the Aldermen.

Mayor Lanier asked Dr. O. D. Garvin, District Health Officer, to investigate the situation. Dr. Garvin reported to the Board that the sanitation problem presented by the trailers centered around three factors:

1. No adequate toilet facilities.
2. They are not kept clean underneath.
3. The sewage drainage is not adequate.

Technically the trailers are prohibited from non-authorized areas by zoning rules. The rules were forgotten after the war, however, in order to cope with the housing shortage.

Dr. Garvin claimed that as he had not had enough complaints along sanitary lines, and as the zoning rule was rendered null and void by lack of enforcement, he had no authority to order the removal of the trailers.

Carr Awarded Honor Medal For AROTC

In ceremonies at the University yesterday, AROTC Cadet William H. Carr was awarded the American Legion Medal for distinguishing himself by displaying outstanding qualities of leadership as a member of the freshman class in the AFROTC.

The presentation was made by Col. F. C. Shepard, Military Coordinator of the University, on behalf of the American Legion at a formal review of the cadet corps. Carr is the son of Mrs. Mary D. Carr who resides in Chapel Hill.

The American Legion donates the medal annually for presentation to the outstanding basic cadet. The citation which accompanied the award follows:

"Cadet Carr has distinguished himself by displaying outstanding qualities of leadership while a member of the 1st year basic ROTC course at this institution. During this time, Cadet Carr has shown a high degree of initiative and enthusiasm toward the advancement and success of the entire program."

May 8-9

Intramural Debatings Are Slated

Intramural debates sponsored by the University Debate Council will be held May 8-9.

The question to be debated is "Resolved that the non-communist nations should wage a preventive war against Russia and her satellites."

Everyone who debates will be given a trophy for participation and winners will be given special awards.

Organizations wishing to enter teams should contact Dick Jaffe at the ZBT house before May 5. All organizations are asked to enter as many teams as possible. A team is composed of four members, two affirmative, and two negative.

Other information may be obtained from dormitory, fraternity, and organizational presidents. Debate Council Chairman Paul Roth asks that all organizations enter a team to help make intramural debates successful this year and an annual affair.

EARL SLOCUM

UNC Band Will Feature 'Tap Roots'

The University Band, directed by Earl Slocum, will present the first of a series of spring concerts Sunday afternoon, at 4:30 in Hill Music Hall.

Featured on the program will be a new composition, "Tap Roots," which is music from the script of the motion picture of the same name by Frank Skinner. Another newly published composition will be "Zanoni," Op. 40 by Paul Creston, and also Lamar Stringfield's latest work for band, "Georgia Buck."

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

University Theater Will Hold Tryouts

The University Theater, sponsored by Graham Memorial, yesterday announced two days of tryouts for its production of Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy."

Tryouts will be held Thursday from 5 p.m. to 7 o'clock and next Monday at 4:30 p.m. and 8 o'clock. The play, scheduled for production May 22, 23, will be directed by Nancy Henderson.

Old Well Inducts Sixty-Five Today

Honor Society To Hold Third Tapping Here

Neophytes To Meet In Front Of South For Ceremonies

The Order of the Old Well will take in 65 students this afternoon at 4:30 when it holds its third annual initiation ceremony.

The neophytes will gather around the Old Well in front of South Building from where they will be led by members of the Order to Gerrard Hall. There the initiates will be honored for the contributions they have made to the University, Campus, and student body.

New members are chosen by the group's officers and Executive Committee.

Dr. Maurice Kidder, member of the University's Religion Department, will open the program with the invocation. A welcome to new members will be given by President Jim Gwynn. Chancellor Robert B. House will deliver the main address.

Immediately following the singing of the Order's Scroll, the new members will participate in an election of officers for the coming year.

The Order of the Old Well was founded Feb. 9, 1949, by 11 prominent members of the student body with the help of three faculty members. Fifty-eight members were inducted at the initiation ceremony the first year. Last spring some 60 juniors and seniors became members in the Order's second year of initiation.

Present officers in the order are Gwynn, president; Charlie Bartlett, vice-president; Wilson Yarborough, secretary-treasurer, and Executive Committee members Dick Cox, Jack Tripp, and Her-shall Keener.

The Order of the Old Well is the only honorary organization on campus which honors both men and women. To be eligible for membership a student must be a junior or senior, have an overall C average or better, and must accumulate a required number of points through active participation in several organizations in at least two different fields.

The Executive Committee of the Order sent out application forms to more than 200 students who were eligible. From this number, the 65 to be initiated today were selected.

Coed Senate Will Sponsor Training For New Leaders

The annual Leadership Training Program, sponsored by the Coed Senate, will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week, Edna Matthes, Chairman of the program announced yesterday.

The purpose of the meetings is to give practical training to the newly-elected officers of the many coed organizations on campus, and through the coordinate training of numerous officers to promote cooperative relationships among their organizations.

The first Leadership Training Program was held in 1943, established by the presidents of all important coed groups who felt that more practical and particular training was needed before they took office. Until 1949 the program was only for the coed leaders, but in that year, the Coed Senate invited all newly-elected men officers to attend the meetings and commissions. Although the men did not participate in the actual program in 1949 and 1950, a joint inaugural banquet was held in honor of the new officers.

Although neither the meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday nights nor the banquet on Thursday night are compulsory, the Coed Senate feels that the opportunity to meet and plan together is one of which the officers should avail themselves, Edna said.

Edna added that there will be both student and faculty leaders to meet with the various commissions.

Josephine Sharkey Will Star In 'Knock'

When "Knock," the comedy in which the great French actor, Louis Jouvet, first gained fame, opens for a two-day engagement at the Playmaker Theater next week, one of the members of Jouvet's first touring company will be appearing in the local Theatre Francais' cast.

She is Josephine Sharkey, well known Chapel Hill actress whose most recent role was that of Juliet's nurse which she played on the Playmaker tour just completed.

In "Knock ou Le Triomphe de la Medecine," Miss Sharkey will play a miserly peasant woman frightened into taking expensive medical treatment by the quack doctor who convinces her that she is suffering the effects of having fallen from a ladder as a child.

Speaking fluent French, Miss Sharkey became one of the few American actresses in Jacques Coseau's Vieux Colombier theater with which Jouvet made his first visit to the United States.

Other French-speaking members of the cast of "Knock" are Urban T. Holmes, Walter Creech, Carolyn Payne, Marion Walter, Mary Spainhour, Ed Grady, Ted Creech, Ken Stuckey, Glenn Martin, John Ingle, Claude Rayborn, and Dick Lewis.

Admission to the production is free. All those who wish to see the play are invited to attend. Understanding French is not necessary for the enjoyment of the show, it has been pointed out.

Gives 'Heiress' Tomorrow

Barter Play Broke Box Records In Va.

By Charlie Brewer

"The Heiress," which will be presented in Memorial Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Student Entertainment Committee, is one of the most ambitious productions undertaken by the Barter Theater in its 18-year history.

Adapted by Ruth and Augustus Goetz from the Henry James novel, "Washington Square," the play tells of a self-conscious, ungainly young woman of immense wealth who yearns for love, but never finds it. In the prime of youth, she is almost resigned to the role of an old maid.

Embittered by the realization that her father and her suitor do not love her, she develops into a character of strength and self-assurance only through the cruelty of revenge. The dramatic situations are highlighted by the brilliant wit of James.

"The Heiress" ran for over a year in New York. It has recently been converted into a successful movie starring Olivia de Havilland. (See BARTER, page 2)

Negro Files For Position As Alderman

Fred Edwards, 57-year-old homebuilder, became the second Negro in Chapel Hill's political history to run for local office when he filed last weekend.

He filed his candidacy for the Board of Aldermen, becoming the fifth man in the running for the three seats at stake in the May 8 municipal elections. The Rev. J. H. Jones, also a Negro, made an unsuccessful bid to the Board in 1949.

The nominee of a nonpartisan committee from Negro civic groups here, Edwards said in connection with his candidacy: "I feel I understand the problems of the colored community better than those who would have to come in from the outside."

Dr. Urban T. Holmes To Address Linguists

Dr. Urban Tigner Holmes, Jr., Kenan professor of philology in the University, has been invited to address the fourth annual Foreign Language Conference at the University of Kentucky Thursday through Saturday.

Dr. Holmes was awarded the medal of the Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the French government in January for his research and studies of French.

A&T Student Becomes First To Enter UNC

News Leak Here Lets Information Out Prematurely

The University will admit a Negro for the first time in its 156 year history next fall.

Edward O. Diggs, 30-year-old Negro from Winston-Salem, has been accepted as "competitively qualified" for the Medical School term beginning next September, it was announced last night. The announcement came from Consolidated University President Gordon Gray, Chancellor Robert B. House, Medical School Dean W. Reece Berryhill, and Dr. E. M. Hedgpeth, chairman of Admissions Committee for the School of Medicine.

A letter notifying Diggs was mailed by Dr. Hedgpeth yesterday, but the news leaked out before Diggs received it, an official said. Diggs expects to complete a pre-medical course at Greensboro A & T this June.

His application, filed before Christmas, 1950, is the first accepted under the new Trustee policy approved April 4 of this year. It provides that Negroes will be accepted in University graduate and professional schools when facilities are not provided for them in the State.

In a telephone conversation Diggs said he was "very happy" over the acceptance. He already has been accepted by the University of Chicago and Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn., he said. He pointed out, however, he had rather attend medical school here since he intends to practice in North Carolina when he completes his studies.

"I feel the training here would be more valuable than in some other state," he declared.

Diggs said he was cordially received here in February when he appeared before the Admissions Committee and examiners interviewed him individually. He added that he plans to come to Chapel Hill soon to make plans for his enrollment.

Scholastically, Diggs is a prodigy. He graduated from Winston-Salem Teachers College in 1938 at the age of only 17. He then taught grammar school until entering the Army in 1942. He (See NEGRO, page 3)

Sign Up

All General College students who expect to attend summer school, and or fall quarter, should pre-register for their courses by appointment with their advisers during the period May 2-15.

Appointments may be made by signing the appropriate sheets located in the General College office, 308 South Building. Appointments are to be made for either one or both summer school terms as well as fall quarter.

Students who have been notified of their transfer to the upper college should not make an appointment with a General College adviser but should register in the school to which he has transferred.

Information carried in yesterday's Daily Tar Heel was partially incorrect.
