A Bad Situation

MUCH, PROBABLY TOO MUCH, has been said and written about the merits and evils of scholarships for collegiate athletes. Be that as it may, I'm taking this opportunity to hit upon a situation which I think is very bad—and it exists right here at Carolina.

The question of whether it is morally right to grant "free rides" to outstanding athletes just as they are granted to outstanding scholars is neither here nor there in this instance, although I believe the doling out of grants-in-aid is a good thing—to a certain extent.

The problem which I want to discuss here, however, is one that has proved to be a thorn in the sides of certain members of the University athletic staff.

The Carolina swimming, golf, and track teams have been consistent winners over the past few years. Indeed, the track team has brought home more Southern Conference championship trophies than any other team on campus. The coaches of those sports have a batch of athletes that rank with the best—but the boys get nothing except self-satisfaction as a reward for their winning efforts.

Something Should Be Done

ALTHOUGH THERE MAY BE one or two scholarships in existence for trackmen, swimmers, golfers, tennis and baseball players, the secret is so well kept that even the coaches, apparently, are in the dark.

It hardly seems fair to the boys who play the sports if football and basketball get the lion's share of the scholarships while baseball, track and other sports go unattended. We all love football, and, more than that, love a winner. Most people, of course, don't need anyone to tell them that a winning football team is impossible without grants-in-aid in these days of fabulous bidding for athletes. If does seem, however, that our fair-minded athletic council could consider scholarships for outstanding athletes in other sports.

In a recent Big Four survey to ascertain the extent of scholarship awards, Bob Brooks of the Raleigh News and Observer found that Carolina has absolutely no "free rides" for swimmers and golfers. The track team has, or had at the time of the survey, one man with a half scholarship, and the baseball team has three boys who get their tuition paid. Two boys on the tennis team also hold part scholarships. Several trackmen and baseballers get their rooms free.

Sometimes It's the Coaches

THE PROBLEM SOMETIMES STEMS from the coaches themselves. Baseball Coach Bunn Hearn is known to be in favor of absolutely no scholarships for his boys. He thinks that the boys should play the game for the love of it and for pure sport. Unfortunately, however, the other Big Four coaches don't see things in the same light.

It is entirely possible that the coaches of tennis, track, swimming, and golf feel the same way that Hearn does, but the chances are that they would welcome one or two boys of extra-high caliber.

The basketball team has seven full and three partial scholarships, according to Brooks' figures. And, take my word for it, those grants are none to high. Coach Tom Scott has had a number of excellent basketball players on campus for tryouts in the past few years and most of them had high praise for Carolina—until the scholarship question was broached. After that, the boys were usually very pleasant but left with a nod of disapproval.

Among those who have desired to attend Carolina is All-America Bill Mlkyv, the boy who sparked Temple's fine team last year. He was interested but, naturally, took the best offer. Ed Morris of N. C. State was enrolled here in the summer of 1949, but later withdrew his application and went to the Raleigh branch of the Greater University. And who's to blame him. He plays basketball and baseball and State had the basketball scholarship to lure him away.

There are others, but those examples should suffice. Things have definitely come to a sad state in regard to the sports mentioned above and it seems that something could be done if the alumni groups and the CAA would pull together. Certainly, something needs to be done.

Golfers Post Sub-Par Scores To Beat Wake

Top Deacons By 18½-8½ For 12th Win

(Special to The Daily Tar Heel)
RALEIGH, April 26—Carolina's undefeated golfers captured their twelfth win of the season here this afternoon when they blazed around the Carolina Country Club course eleven under par to stop Wake Forest's linksmen, 18½ to 8½.

Par Busters

Rodney McKnight, Bob Black, and Wake's Dick Tiddy tied for medalist honors with three under par 69's. Close behind were Jim Ferree and Lou Brown with 70 and Frank Brooks with a one under 71. Frank Eckert's 72 was the only Tar Heel score not below par.

Carolina's first twosome, McKnight and Brooks, ran into trouble from Wake Forest's Tiddy and Edens with McKnight tying Tiddy 1½-1½ and Brooks losing to Edens after a close match, 2-1.

This was as close as the Deacons ever came to victory the entire afternoon, however, as the other Tar Heel twosomes posted decisive wins over their opponents. The devastating sub-par play of the Carolina squad was too much for the Wakes who couldn't meet the Tar Heels on even terms in the lower twosomes.

It was a hot and clear afternoon that the Chapel Hill linksmen picked to post one of their lowest team scores of the season.

Play Saturday

The next match for the Carolina golf team will be Saturday when Davidson's linksmen come to Chapel Hill and Finley Golf course for a return engagement. Coach Chuck Erickson's shot-makers blasted the Wildcats 22½ to 5 in the first match of the season.

Next Thursday the Tar Heels meet Duke's strong golf team in the Hope Valley course.

The summary:
McKnight (C) tied Tiddy, 1½-1½; Edens (WF) def. Brooks, 2-1; Best ball: Wake Forest, 3-0.
Black (C) def. Flick, 3-0; Eckert (C) def. Randolph, 2-1; Best ball UNC, 3-0.
Brown (C) def. Jennings, 2-1; Ferree (C) def. Ramsey, 3-0; Best ball UNC, 3-0.

CAROLINA WILL HAVE FOUR representatives on the Southern All-Star lacrosse team which is scheduled to meet the North in a game at Troy, N. Y., on June 9. They are (left to right) Art Greenbaum, Bill Debnam, Co-Captains Nick Sowell and John Murchison.

Tar Heel Stickmen On Spot In Meet With Baltimore U.

Carolina's lacrosse team will be on the spot tomorrow morning when it meets a strong Baltimore University squad at 10:30 on Navy Field.

The Tar Heels, with a 1-4 record to date, have a chance to avenge the 9-0 defeat suffered at the hands of the Baltimore team in 1950. The visiting Bees have three victories against one setback.

Baltimore has averaged over 16 goals per game this year, while the local stickmen have registered only three per contest. Coach Alan Moore has been dissatisfied with the goal output by his charges and will endeavor to improve on this weakness by Saturday.

The visiting lacrossemen will be led by several excellent stick handlers in Bunky Swerdloff, Mike DePasquale, and Dave Palmer. The contest may turn out to be a battle of the goalies.

The Tar Heels' Nick Sowell will be pitted against Buddy Boozie who turned in a sterling performance against Carolina last year. Sowell started out slow this year but has improved greatly in the past three games.

A win for the local stickmen would boost their stock considerably and would give them a chance of breaking even for the season. VPI, Washington and Lee, and two encounters with Duke remain on the schedule.

UNC Sends 11-Man Team To Pa. Relays

An 11-man team will represent Carolina in the famed Penn Relays held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia this Saturday. The team, accompanied by Coach Joe Hilton will leave Raleigh this morning at 7:30.

The Carolina entries are Dave Willis and Frank Scott in the 100-yard dash, Billy Joyner in the high jump, the 480-yard shuttle relay team of Bobby Bell, Bill Cornell, Romas White, and Garrett Fitzgibbons, and the mile relay team of Mack Ray, Clarence McLain, Jim Hamrick, and Gene Brigham.

Carolina has sent strong teams to this relay carnival each year and for the past two years has won the Championship of America shuttle hurdle relay and the javelin. Bob Kirk, who has graduated, won the javelin, and last year the team of Jack Moody, Bill Albans, Bob Morrow, and Garrett Fitzgibbons won the hurdle relay event.

Duke will probably be sending the other strongest team from the Southern Conference. They are expected to be represented by Henry Poss, Tommy Poss, a mile relay team and a sprint medley team.

The remainder of the varsity and the freshman team will continue workouts this weekend in preparation for meets with Georgia Tech Saturday and Durham High Friday.

Heavy Sports Schedule On Tap For Tar Heels

Although the annual Blue-White football game has its day of spring prominence here tomorrow, the rest of Carolina's teams will be hard at work in regularly scheduled games.

The baseball team, fresh from victories over Duke and Wake Forest, will take on two South Carolina teams today and tomorrow. This afternoon the Tar Heels play the Southern Conference southern division leader, Clemson, and then return tomorrow to meet Furman.

Both games are scheduled for 4 p.m. at Emerson Field. The golf team will be matched against Davidson at Finley Golf Course tomorrow afternoon with the first foursome slated to take off at 1:30. The Tar Heels defeated the Wildcats in their first match of the season at Davidson, 22-8.

The lacrosse team appears to be in for a tough meet with Baltimore University tomorrow afternoon. B.U. has lost but one game this season. The Carolina team is fresh from a 2-1 victory in a practice meet with Duke.

The freshman tennis team rounds out the list of home games with a match with Goldsboro High today and Charlotte Central High School tomorrow.

Two Carolina teams will be on the road. The tennis team starts its nine-game northern tour with a match against Virginia at Charlottesville tomorrow. Members of the track team will be carrying the Carolina colors in the fabulous Penn Relays this afternoon.

The Blue-White game sponsored by the UNC Monogram Club will be the sixth annual intrasquad game played here.

Ping Pong Deadline Announced

The deadline for first round play in the Graham Memorial-sponsored table tennis tournament is 11 o'clock tonight and the results of all first round matches must be turned into the GM main office by that time, co-official Tommy Sumner announced yesterday.

A pairing sheet and list of players' addresses will be posted in the office, Sumner said, and each player will be responsible for making and keeping his appointments for the first three matches.

If any difficulties arise over the scheduling of matches, they should be reported to the GM office or to Sumner or Malcolm Clark.

The deadline for round two will be midnight Sunday with round three scheduled to be finished by 11 p.m. this Tuesday night.

Streamlined Freshman Team May Supply Fireworks In Blue-White Tilt Saturday

A streamlined freshman Blue team may furnish the big fireworks in the annual Blue-White game here Saturday at 2 p.m.

Coach Jim Camp's rookies are expected to show a flashy attack and the upperclassmen Whites will have to be potent to stop them.

Billy Williams at tailback, Bob White at fullback, Charlie Motta at wingback and Harold Davidson at quarterback form a fast and powerful backfield combination. All four are high ranking candidates for varsity berths next fall. White, Williams and Davidson stand a good chance of being starters on the 1951 Tar Heel team.

White's play has been the talk of spring practice. He is a powerful line smasher and weighs a hefty 185. Williams, the former Henderson High School star, has the poise of a veteran and runs, passes and kicks well. He also boots extra points. Davidson is a strapping 195-pounder who has taken hold well in operating under the center in Carolina's new offensive formations. Motta is one of the squad's highest regarded wingbacks.

This formidable foursome will operate behind a line averaging approximately 200 pounds. Standouts in the fast and aggressive forward wall are expected to be End Tom Medlin of Smithfield and both guards, Ken Yarborough of High Point and Jack Maulsby of Chapel Hill. Tackles Thad Eure and Francis Frederic both weigh well over 200 and are fast.

Dick Lackey of Shelby is expected to do most of the punting for the Blues. He is considered the best kicker on the squad. Williams is down for extra points and Maulsby for kickoffs.

The Blue squad has good depth in every position but the players lack the experience of their opponents. The Blues have two first class centers in H. C. (Junior) Seawell and Dave Mullens. As line backers they are expected to give the upperclassmen Whites plenty of trouble.

Coach Camp believes his team has a good chance of turning back the Whites. He has been working his men hard all week and they have shown plenty of hustle in the drills.

His main worry will be stopping the demon-like defensive play of Guard Joe Dudeck, End George Norris, and Tackle Tom Higgins. The fast varsity backfield of Bob (Goo Goo) Gantt, Ernie Liberati, Van Weatherpoon, and Fullback Carmen Anil-
