Navy Trainees Plan Cruises This Summer

Holiday Instruction To Include Aviation, Amphibious Work

Approximately 150 NROTC cadets at the University will participate in the Navy's training cruises, aviation indoctrination, amphibious, and Marine Corps training this summer, it has been announced by Captain J. Elliot Cooper.

He said that the University's trainees will join the approximately 9,100 midshipmen, including 2,800 from the U. S. Naval Academy, in the Navy's annual summer training program.

Four operational practice cruises to European, Caribbean and Western Atlantic ports, aviation indoctrination, and a full scale amphibious operation on the East Coast are included in the training program, he said.

Almost one-third of the 52 NROTC institutions in the country will be represented on the first battleship cruise, and their students are fully integrated with the midshipmen from the Naval Academy in all phases of the cruise. Some 60 Carolina students will participate in the first cruise, which sails from Norfolk June 4 and returns July 27.

Approximately 55 "contract" students from here will go on the second cruise June 22 to mid-July.

Supplementing the training cruises, approximately 1,620 NROTC rising "junior" "regulars" from all 52 units will report in June for three weeks of aviation indoctrination at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., and for three weeks of amphibious training at the Naval Amphibious Training Base, Little Creek, Va. Some 30 members of the unit here will attend this training period.

'S. Pacific' To Be Here Next Monday

"South Pacific" will come to Chapel Hill next Monday when the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra presents a "Pops" concert in Memorial Hall.

The program will include nothing but the light, "Pops" work that has been so successful with the Boston Pops Orchestra.

The concert, which is scheduled at 8:30 will include a "South Pacific" medley, arranged by Robert Russell Bennett, a composer of note himself. The "Symphonic Scenario" of the play includes virtually all the songs from the Rodgers and Hammerstein score.

"Bali Ha'i" and "Some Enchanted Evening" establish the mood of the piece. Later the Orchestra will swing into "There is Nothing Like A Dame," "Bloody Mary is the Girl I Love," and "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outta My Hair." The songs associated with the second love theme are also included in the medley.

"South Pacific" will be just one highlight of the popular selections that Director Benjamin Swalin has selected for presentation on the program here.

The concert will be presented as a benefit for the Symphony's Sustaining Fund, and membership cards in the Symphony Society will not be honored for the event. Tickets will be on sale at the door at popular prices.

Pledge Bids

Fraternity pledge bids will be available today from noon until 4:30 p.m. in the Dean of Students' office, 208 South Building.

This is a change from the previously announced Gerrard Hall location. Boys wishing to pledge are reminded that a $1 Interfraternity Council fee must be paid at the time cards are received.

Flanagan To Play Here

German Weekend To Begin With Friday Dance In Gym

Carolina's biggest Germans Weekend in several years will get underway this Friday as the three-day round of music and fun starts off with a dance in Woolien Gym.

Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra will provide the music for the Weekend. He will play at the formal dance Friday night, an outdoor concert Saturday afternoon, and another formal dance Saturday night.

The Friday dance starts at 9 o'clock and will last until 1 o'clock. The concert begins at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and the Saturday night dance is set for 8-12 o'clock.

The open-air concert, first to be presented by the Germans Club in several years, will take place in the Forest Theater. Concerts in the past have been held in Memorial Hall.

RALPH FLANAGAN

Dance Committee members yesterday issued their usual set of rules governing the Woolien Gym dances and the concert. They include "no drinking or drunkenness on the dance floor," and cedes may not leave the dance and return without a chaperon. Dance Committee personnel will police the dances and the concert.

Nearly every campus fraternity and sorority plan social events to keep the Germans spirit going. The weekend will be the final Germans Club activity for this school year.

The Germans Club sponsors one big-name dance each quarter. The Club is composed of 13 campus fraternities.

Henderson's Portrait Set For Unveiling

A portrait of Archibald Henderson, the University's leading mathematician, scholar, and author, will be unveiled tonight in Di Hall. Ceremonies will start at 8 o'clock.

William T. Polk, associate editor of the Greensboro Daily News, will give a short talk on Henderson's career. Polk is a descendant of the late James K. Polk, ex-President of the United States.

The painting, which was done by William Steene, is being presented to the Dialectic Senate by Henderson's family. Chancellor R. B. House will accept the painting for the University. Di President Walt Tice will preside during the ceremonies.

Following the unveiling, an informal reception will be held in the Hall.

Many of Painter Steene's portraits may be found on the walls of various campus buildings. He did the portrait of former University President Harry W. Chase and the one of the late Chancellor Charles Woollen, which hangs in the main hall of Woolien Gymnasium.

A former resident of Chapel Hill, Steene now lives in Tryon and travels through the country.

Marital Talks To Continue Next Week

The first of a series of four discussions on "Engagement and Marriage" was held in the Y last night. The talk was a part of the annual conference on Courtship and Marriage now being held on campus.

The meetings will continue with other discussions tomorrow night and next Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Movies concerned with engagement and its relationship to success or failure in marriage, and with reproduction and family planning, will be part of the course.

Dr. Eleanor Easley, noted obstetrician, will lead the session at which this movie is shown. She will discuss the medical aspects of sex, reproduction, birth control, and pregnancy. She will also talk about the pre-marital medical examination.

Other leaders in the course will be Dr. Reuben Hill and Mrs. Arnold Nash.

Attendance at the sessions is limited to students who are pinned, going steady, or engaged. Those interested should sign up with Mary Godbee at the YMCA.

Senior Weekend Slated To Start Here Tomorrow

Carolina's annual Senior Weekend activities will begin at 11 o'clock tomorrow night with a special Senior movie at the Carolina Theater.

Other events scheduled for the gala weekend include Senior Class Barefoot Day on Friday and an all-day picnic at Hogan's Lake on Saturday.

The free movie to be shown to seniors Friday night is "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," starring Susan Hayward. ID cards are required for admittance. Barefoot day will follow Friday, and all seniors are urged to show their class unity by taking part.

The big day will come Saturday when the picnic begins at 10 a.m. at Hogan's Lake. Today is the last day that seniors will be able to pick up tickets, which can be obtained at the Y Court and Lenoir Hall. Barbecue, hushpuppies, slaw, cold drinks, and ice will be provided for the occasion.

The truck taking the students' out to the lake will leave the "Y" at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and go by the women's dorms.

Others elected were Barry Farber, rising senior from Greensboro, vice president; Mac White, Elizabeth City, secretary; Roland Taylor, Tarboro, treasurer; and Walt Dear, Jersey City, N. J., publicity director.

The club, technically unorganized, has been meeting for some weeks now, and has been in the process of writing its constitution.

During this initial stage the club was under the acting leadership of Northhart as chairman and White as secretary. The committee responsible for writing the constitution was composed of Barry Farber, Parris Pepper, Paul Barwick, Bill Hewes, Walt Dear, and the acting chairman and secretary.

House Charms Audiences With Mouth Harp Melodies

By Walt Dear

When Rotarians settle down for a dull after dinner address and the members are suddenly aroused by the shrill melody of a harmonica, they know Chancellor R. B. House is the speaker.

This is what Chancellor "Bob" calls "following his notes" when delivering a talk.

The audience first gets a few bars of "Just Because You Made Those Goo-Goo Eyes," then some measures of "Buffalo Gals," and finally, "Roll Along Boys, Cause When The Sun Goes Down, You Won't Roll No Mo'."

The Chancellor has entertained at banquets, faculty and student gatherings and at different meetings in the state. Last summer he scored a hit with students here when he played at the annual Watermelon Festival.

He refers to the musical instrument as a "mouth harp" instead of a harmonica because the actual folk name for it is mouth harp.

"I first learned to play tunes on the mouth harp from hearing fiddlers play at square dances when I was a youngster," says House. He explained that he once had aspirations of becoming a singer saying, "I was always pleased with my vocal efforts but nobody else was."

So he switched to the harmonica and has been entertaining campus groups ever since.

On several occasions he has stayed up all night playing different tunes.

House first started out on his musical hobby at Thelma (a wide place in the road in Halifax County), and even now his favorite

Beebe's Work To Be Feature Of Glee Clubs

Concert Scheduled For 8:30 Tonight; Admission Free

"Joe Palmer's Beard," the first performance of Hank Beebe's humorous cantata, will be the featured work on the combined glee club program tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall. It will be sung by the Men's Glee Club and conducted by the composer.

Beebe wrote the cantata, which is based on an American folk legend, as part of the requirement for the Master of Music degree. It has been revised for the present performance.

Hank has a wide and diverse musical background. He began organizing and arranging for dance bands and choral groups at the age of 14. His many years study of piano have included several years here under the direction of Wilton Mason and J. P. Schinhan. For the past two years he studied arranging under Livingston Gearheart at the Waring music workshops in Shawnee, Pennsylvania.

Most of his choral work was done with the Sigma Chi Sextet and chorus, whom he led to victory in three successive Valkyrie Sing. He directed the music in the Playmakers' performance of Gershwin's "Of Thee I Sing" in January.

The latest venture by Beebe has been with the Bell-Tones, a popular quintet which has been heard recently in Chapel Hill.

Trespassing, Affray Cases Heard Here

A 19-year-old student from Knoxville, Tenn., was convicted on an amended charge of trespassing in Monday's session of Recorder's Court.

John E. Lievsay, 305 C Dorm, was originally charged with peeping secretly but the charge was changed with the approval of the prosecuting attorney. He was found guilty and fined $25 and costs.

He was arrested by Patrolman Earl Bush between Alderman Dormitory and President Gray's home.

Another case concerning a student and instructor was also heard in Monday's session. Donald W. Carmichael, from Fairfield, Conn., and Harold H. Harville, instructor in the Pathology Department were found guilty of an affray and fined costs.

Three New Aldermen, Judge Are Named In Local Election

Davis, Cornwell, Burch Aldermen; Lanier Re-elected

By Bruce Melton

Oliver K. Cornwell, Gus Obie Davis and P. L. Burch were elected to the town Board of Aldermen in the Chapel Hill Municipal election yesterday according to official returns last night. Fred Edwards, Negro candidate for the Board was defeated by a margin of 37 votes.

Other offices decided in the election were for Judge of Chapel Hill Recorder's Court and the Mayorship. William S. Stewart defeated Paul H. Robertson for the office of Judge by an unofficial vote of 829 to 286. Edwin S. Lanier, unopposed incumbent for Mayor, was re-elected by a vote of 1013.

The voting in the town election was light compared with the last election. Only 1150 votes were cast as against 1400 in the election of 1949.

Oliver K. Cornwell, who has been head of the Physical Education Department since 1935, was the leading candidate with a vote of 789. P. L. Burch, incumbent of the Buildings Department, was the next highest candidate with 620 votes. Gus Obie Davis, local service station operator, also an incumbent was the third successful candidate with a vote of 530.

The defeated candidates for the Aldermen seats were Fred Edwards, 493 votes; Giles F. Horney, 363 votes and James R. Farlow, 228 votes.

Several write-in-votes were cast against Mr. Lanier for Mayor. Mr. Lanier is director of the Central Records Office and the Student Aid Office. This will be his second term as Mayor. He defeated Robert W. Madry in the election of 1949.

Business Fair To Hear Croom Speak Tomorrow

W. D. Croom, vice president of First Securities Corporation in Durham, will speak in Gerrard Hall at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the first annual Alpha Kappa Psi Business Fair.

This is the final night of a series of programs for the Business Fair which is under the sponsorship of Alpha Tau Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity of business administration at the University.

Croom's topic is "Your Opportunities as a Small Investor." As part of the fair, a ticker from

J. J. Sheehan, public relations director of the New York Curb Exchange, arrived yesterday as a special guest for the first annual Alpha Kappa Psi Business Fair. Sheehan will lead a seminar, "The Color and Background of the Stock Exchanges," today in Room 103 Bingham at 4 p.m.

The New York Curb Exchange is in operation from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. every day in Room 109 Bingham Hall. Exhibits illustrating banking and securities are displayed from one end of the hall to the other in Bingham.

In 1935, Croom graduated from the University, receiving a degree in commerce. While at the University, he was on the football and baseball teams. He was captain of the 1933 football squad.

Soon after graduation, Croom started work in the securities business as a runner and general office helper. His business experience is confined to the securities business in North Carolina.

Some of Croom's activities other than normal business duties include: Member of the National Securities Traders Association; Treasurer of the Securities Dealers of the Carolinas; member District Committee Number 11 of the National Association of Securities Dealers; Chairman Local Business Conduct Committee for North Carolina of the National Association of Securities Dealers; and activities in many civic organizations.

Students from Chapel Hill may obtain the reduced rate tickets by exhibiting their ID cards at the box office.

Asian Expert To Give Talk To YW At 7

J. Martin England, who has recently returned from Burma where he was engaged in educational and agricultural work, will speak in the YWCA office tonight at 7 o'clock.

England will speak on "Christianity, Colonialism, and Communism," and will answer any questions about the Far East and the present situation.

The speaker is especially qualified to talk on this subject since he has been in the Far East since the war and was there prior to the war. His travel is sponsored by the Student Volunteer Movement for Christian Missions.

England arrived in Chapel Hill yesterday afternoon. In an interview, he stated "that the Gospel was exerting a great influence in that part of the world by improving social conditions and inspiring a change in the personal lives of individuals."

To tie in with England's address, Frances Drane, past YWCA president, member of the Women's Council, and President of the Valkyries, received a letter informing her that she has been elected a member of the Corporation and Board of Directors of the Student Volunteer Movement for the class of 1951-1953.

Last Chance

Tickets for the senior class picnic at Hogan's Lake Saturday will be on sale in the Y Court for the last time this morning.

All seniors planning to attend the affair must pick up tickets in order for officials to know how much food to prepare. Class President Ned Dowd yesterday said that all seniors should be sure to get tickets today or there will not be enough food to go around come Saturday.
