A new addition to the campus' long list of organizations. the UNC Press Club is a welcome group for several reasons.

The group will act not only for the betterment of themselves as rising journalists but also for the improvement of relations between campus publications and the School of Journalism.

The Club has wisely decided not to limit its membership to Service, the Educational Testing gave a review of the past years' Milledge. those just majoring in journalism but to those "who seriously intend to enter some phase of journalism." This means that newspapermen as well as photographers, and linotypers will be included in the ranks of the club.

The most startling fact about the Club is its rapid rise from a mere idea to actuality. Under the leadership of Buddy Northart, sportswriter for this newspaper, the club has written day, as well as to the June 16 and Hugh Cole, John Colson, Lee at 7:30 p.m. in room III Murphey its constitution, elected its officials, and has held an interesting meeting in which Julian Scheer, assistant to Jake Wade, Sports Publicity Director, explained the intricacies of the and no further tickets can be syndicate news business-all in about one month.

Organizations, like people, grow old and senile. There is much evidence that this has happened to the YMCA.

Once the YMCA was a vital force on campus. It filled to a considerable degree, the spiritual needs of the campus. Today this is no longer true.

What, then, are the present Y functions? Briefly, the are: 1. service, functions - information desk, campus calendar, student directory, lost and found. These operations have no business in the YMCA, and are, as a matter of fact, carried on only because the University pays the salary of the Y secretary. From the standpoint of logical administration ,these functions, should be maintained within the University administrative set-up, probably under the Dean of Students' Office. Other service functions, such as the freshman handbook, could be more properly placed under student government. 2. spiritual functions on campus-religious meetings, University sermons, house and dorm discussions, religious conferences, etc. These lack life and interest for any sizeable group outside of the Y itself. A large part of the trouble here stems from the fact that most of the people primarily interested in promoting things spiritual are not in the Y. They are devoting their real efforts to their own religious organizations - the Canterbury Club, B. S. U., Wesley Foundation, Hillel, etc., and properly so. These are the groups which contain the major portion of whatever spiritual vigor and enthusiasm there is, among students. Even with the demise of the Y, there would remain some need for campus-wide religious activities - speakers, discussion groups, and the like. Would it not be feasible for the student The Daily Tar Heel The official student newspaper of the The official student newspaper of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where it is published by the Pub-heations Board daily during the regu-lar sessions of the University except Monday, examination and vacation pe-riods, and during the official summer terms. church groups, working through a representative inter-faith council, to be responsible for administering such campus religious activities as are desireable? Such an inter-faith group has possibilities of being a live, organic agency, for it would be rooted in the groups which are actively interested in the spiritual welfare of the campus. It would save the State and the students a substantial amount of money which is now being put into the Y, with little or no return. And it would facilitate the passing from the scene of an organization which has ceased to do its job, and which shows little prospect of improvement in the Here's food for thought which ought to give the Communists acute indigestion, if not ulcers. I'll quote a few excerpts. All defeatists please cut, copy, and frame. "Stalin's imperialistic empire is cracking, thanks to the United Nations resistance in Korea. Already Communist China looks to the Kremlin and asks, 'Where is the land you promised us?

Where are the guns, tanks, and planes? Where is our better borns! There's rusty rivets in standard of living? Where is our freedom?' The Kremlin has no answer and the slaughter of Chinese troops continues. Within six months the Chinese will break with the Russians.

"Here in Poland the situation is more severe. We hate the sion. They rule our country by placing communistic traitors in all key positions. For 12 years we Poles have not tasted freedom and we are hungry. We have a modern army of half a million troops plus four armored divisions.
