Students Give Top Support To Program

By Buddy Northart

While most of Carolina's students were sunning themselves up and down the Atlantic coast, climbing among the mountains or just loafing this summer, there were a few less fortunates who, for various reasons, found themselves among the books. And as always, the student's best friend was on hand to make things as comfortable as possible. That, of course, would be the Intramural Department, headed by Walt finals, however, and he was beat-Rabb and ably executed by Bill Kucyk.

Vic Seixas Among Top Davis Cuppers After Reaching Finals In Nationals

Vic Seixas, the old Carolina flash, threatened back in 1948 to become a weekend player if he didn't "hit his peak" within two years, but after making the Davis Cup team and playing in the National tennis finals he should have nothing to worry about.

Seixas, the Southern Conference singles champion in 1948, provided the biggest surprise of the Nationals three weeks ago by whipping the highly-rated trio of Australians, Ken McGregor, Herbie Flam, and Dick Savitt. The pace was too much for Vic in the en straight sets by Frank Sedgeman of Australia.
