UNC Policy Hit By Bowers

'Georgia Next' Rally Tonite With No Butts About It!

Grab a torch and burn the Bulldogs!

The first torchlight parade of the season will leave Memorial Hall at 7 o'clock tonight as Carolina students march.

Led by the University band and cheerleaders, the lighted demonstration against tomorrow's foes will proceed to Columbia Street, right at Spencer Dorm, and return to Memorial Hall.

Feature of the evening will be a short talk by Wally Butts, head coach of the Georgia team.

Cyril Minett urges students to keep supporting the team with a large turnout.

Continuing an old custom, the University Club asks all students, fans, and cheerleaders to gather at the fieldhouse after the game tomorrow to cheer the players—win, lose, or draw.

Duffield Smith, club president, hints that a surprise may be in store for tonight. Estimating last week's pep rally as the "largest since the Texas game of '48," he expects an even larger turnout this week.

Students may pick up torches and oil at Memorial Hall. The Buildings and Grounds Department will follow the parade to take care of refuse. Smith asked that students be careful with the lighted torches.

Sheriff Says Reports Still Not Received

Sheriff Sam Latta of Orange County said today that he has had no report of tests made by the Federal Bureau of Investigation or the State Bureau of Investigation in connection with the murder of Miss Rachel Crook, 71, of Chapel Hill.

Sheriff Latta had no comment on possible reasons for the delay in the reports.

Meanwhile, Hobart Lee, 33, of Burlington, is still being held in the Durham County jail without bond on a charge of murder.

The sheriff said that if no hearing is requested by counsel for the defendant, no further action will be taken until the Orange County Grand Jury convenes on December 10.

Some of the clues that have been submitted for investigation to the S. B. I. and the F. B. I. include scrapings removed from underneath Miss Crook's fingernails and some reddish brown hair found on her smock, after her severely beaten body was found on a deserted road about seven miles from here.

Although a veil of secrecy has been thrown around the clues in the possession of the police, it is known that they have received reports that screams were heard issuing from a pickup truck which was seen beyond Carrboro the night of the killing.

Lee is reportedly the owner of such a truck.

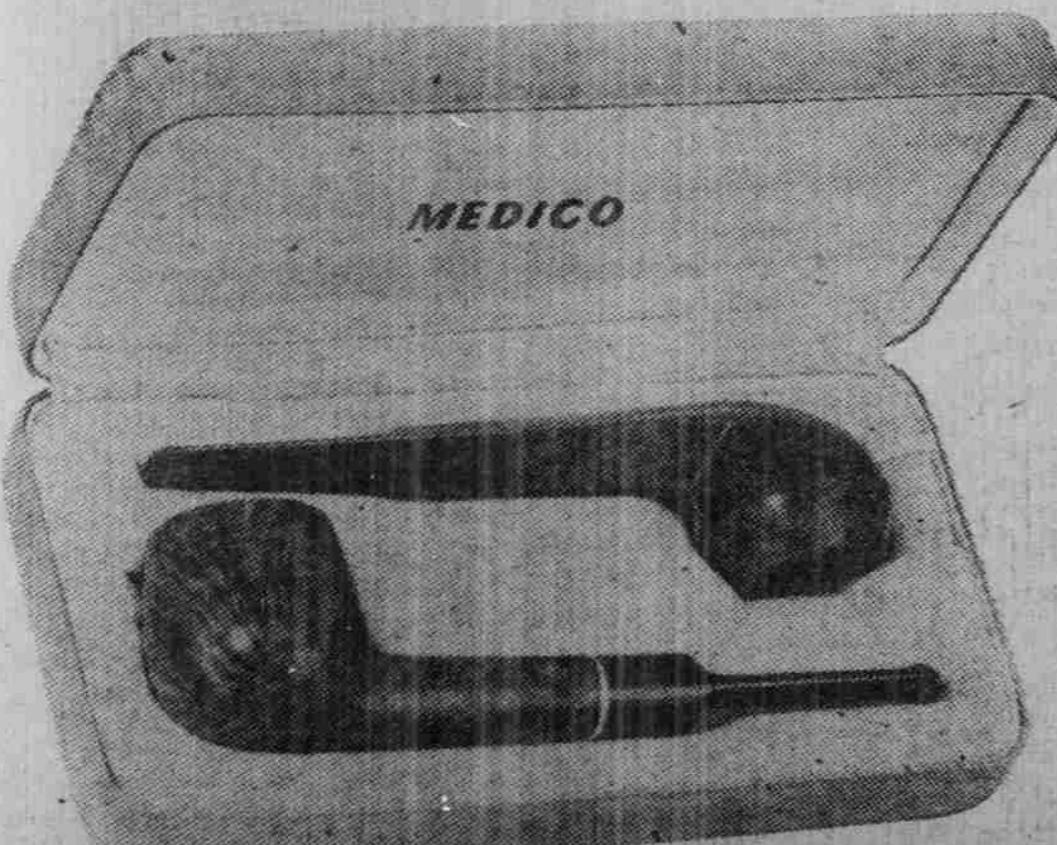

Last Day! Sophs

Today will be the last day for members of the sophomore class and the pharmacy school to have their pictures taken for the Yackety Yack. Photos will be taken on the second floor of Graham Memorial from 1 until 9 p.m.

There will be no other time in which these students may have their pictures taken for the yearbook after today, Sue Lindsey, editor, has announced.

Robert A. Fetzer, presently athletic director at Carolina, coached the Tar Heel grid teams from 1921 through 1925 with his brother Bill.

Pool Tables! At WC

They're getting them at WC and we can't have them.

Wednesday the State Board of Awards approved a contract allowing the girls at WC $1,173.78 worth of billiard tables from Saunier Wilhelm Company of Greensboro.

A city ordinance prohibits billiard tables at the University.

Students Get New Chances

Selective Service has scheduled two new qualification tests for college students who want to become eligible for deferment from the draft, according to press releases from Washington.

The first test will be given Thursday, December 13, primarily for students whose academic year—and current draft deferment—will end next January, the releases said.

The other test will be given Thursday, April 24.

Applications for the Dec. 13 test must be postmarked not later than midnight, Nov. 5, and for the April 24 test not later than midnight March 10.

Col. F. C. Shepard, University Military Affairs Advisor, could give no further clarification of the purposes of the examinations yesterday.

"The only thing I can say is that Dr. W. D. Perry of the Testing Service has received notice to be prepared to give the tests on the dates mentioned," he said.

"However," he continued, "I expect more information and further clarification to come to me from the State Selective Service Board within a week."

BIGGEST PLAYER

Wilmington's Francis Frederic holds the distinction of being the biggest man on the Carolina football squad. The massive tackle stands 6 feet 4 1-2, weighs 225 pounds.

The "Graham Memorial Football Contest" will be sponsored by Graham Memorial each week for the rest of the football season, said Bill Roth, director of Graham Memorial, yesterday.

The student predicting most accurately the scores of 20 football games will receive a set of two "V.F.Q. Medico" pipes.

Mimeographed forms listing the 20 games can be obtained in the center lobby of Graham Memorial this morning. Deadline is tomorrow noon. Any student may participate, but there may be only one entry to each student.

Games listed on this week's contest are Army-Villanova; Boston U.-Penn State; Navy-Yale; Pennsylvania-California; Pittsburgh-Duke; Illinois-UCLA; Indiana-Notre Dame; Michigan-Michigan State; Minnesota-Washing-

Segregation Of Walker To Bring Suit By NAACP

By O. Mac White

Henry Bowers, president of the student body, yesterday challenged the right of the University Administration to place Negro students in the colored section of the football stadium.

This challenge came on the heels of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Persons' decision to contest the alleged segregation in court.

Earlier this week Chancellor R. B. House declared a "distinction between educational services" required by law and "social recognition."

The Athletic Association handles the sales and seating in Kenan Stadium, he pointed out, and the Association is not considered an educational service.

"It has long been accepted here," said Bowers yesterday, "that all forms of extra-curricular activities are a vital part of the educational process. To admit to the contrary is to admit of a false and unwise situation which should be corrected.

"When the administration refused to allow certain students the right to watch their team play football from the same advantageous position occupied by other students, it not only did an injustice to those who were denied, but insulted the rest of the student body as well by insinuating that our students have neither the moral character nor the intelligence to conduct themselves as law-abiding citizens."

C. O. Pearson, Negro attorney for the NAACP, revealed yesterday that he did not know when the suit will be brought, but he indicated that action will be instituted in Federal Court for the Middle District of North Carolina before football season is over.

The question arose when House refused to exchange for a student passbook football tickets in the colored section for the five home games given Negro law student James R. Walker, Jr., at registration.

Walker returned the tickets to House Monday with a note stating the action was a refusal on his part to accept nothing less than a student passbook.

"I would not have gone to any of the games if he had given me the passbook," said Walker. "More important to me is the principle involved."

Walker claimed no part in initiating the legal suit. "I know nothing about it except what I have heard," he said.

Bowers further stated, "To make such a decision without consulting Student Government is indicative, we believe, of a growing tendency on the part of the administration to regard Student Government as an organization whose operation will be limited to disciplinary problems."

"We feel that students can be of great value in the operation of the University," he continued, "and feel that implementation of this belief is one of the best reasons for the existence of Student Government."

"The recent incident was unfortunate and the unwise handling of the situation is far out of phase with the ideals and tradition of fair play which have been so long cherished in this University."

Robert "Coach Bob" Fetzer, the athletic director of the University, said that the Athletic Association is merely complying with the State law with respect to segregation, and with the policy of the administration.

House has indicated that the treatment of Negroes in the University will always be done "in good will, in good faith, and on an extremely conservative basis."

W. D. Carmichael, Jr., Comptroller, has gone on record as saying that the administration will have the full support of the Board of Trustees of the University.

Walker said, "I feel that I am a part of the student body and am entitled to cheer and express school spirit as part of the student body."

"I feel the administration," he continued, "is acting in bad faith with the student body, for none of it which I have come into contact with has expressed the feeling of the administration."

The University was ordered to admit Negroes to the Law School last spring by the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. At about the same time the trustees voted to admit Negroes in cases where separate facilities are not provided by the State. "Without regard to race," the court
