

Bratowski Throws For Three Scores

Strictly Ad Lib

By Zane Robbins

Pop Goes The Bubble

CAROLINA'S VICTORY BUBBLE BURST with a big bang yesterday at Kenan Stadium as a bristling band of Georgia Bulldogs made the most of Tar Heel miscues to defeat Carolina for the first time since the ill-fated Sugar Bowl encounter of 1947.

The Bulldogs parlayed two recovered fumbles, one pass interception and a razzle-dazzle passing attack into a 28-16 victory as the Tar Heel pass defense sprung a leak in the second half after near-airtight first half play.

The Tar Heels, obviously pointing for Texas, resembled the Salvation Army at times as they tossed away touchdown opportunities like your rich Uncle Amos.

Driving for the pay station as the third period ended, the Tar Heels hitched up their belts and went as far as the Georgia four-yard-line in the opening minutes of the second stanza before Billy Williams fumbled on the 12. The Henderson hotshot recovered his own bobble and Dexter Poss recovered Williams but, with fourth down coming up, a touchdown gamble seemed too risky and Abie (Twinkletoes) Williams was called in to try a field goal. The shot was low and wide of the mark as Carolina's first touchdown threat went out the window.

The Best Offense

LATER IN THE SECOND PERIOD, the Tar Heels were stopped inches short of a first down on the Georgia 13 when a drive petered out. Two plays later the Tar Heels got the ball on the Georgia 22 when Bill Kuhn pulled in a Lauren Hargrove fumble. Still the offensive punch was missing. Tailback Frank Wissman completed two of four passes in the series but the ball ended up on the Georgia 22 when the Tar Heels ran out of downs.

The best offense was a good defense as far as Carolina was concerned in the topsy-turvy first half. The only score of the first 30 minutes came when George Norris, Jack Maulsby and Lou Darnell dumped Georgia Quarterback Zeke Bratkowski in his own end zone before he could get away his pass.

Things were even worse in the final half as Carolina was plagued by an acute case of fumble-itis. Adding to the Tar Heel dilemma, some half dozen players were carried from the field in the third and fourth periods. Most of the injuries were minor but the severe ankle sprain suffered by Safetyman Bud Carson was a tough blow to the Tar Heels. After the game, Georgia Coach Wally Butts said, "We were pretty sure we'd win after Carson left the game."

The Bulldog punters had been kicking away from the scintillating safetyman throughout the game and, as a consequence, were losing yardage on their punts. Butts gave his team the green light after Carson was carried from the field in the latter stages of the second quarter. When the Bulldogs came back on the field in the third period they went into the air and completely baffled the Tar Heel defenders. Butts said he was afraid to pass too often with Carson in the game, and the statistics bear him out.

The Georgians passed six times and completed only one in the first half—and that completion came after Carson had turned over his defensive duties to Dick Lackey. In the second half, however, it kicked the extra point with 13:26 left in the period.

(See STRICTLY AD LIB, Page 5)

Bulldogs Take 7-2 Lead Into Fourth Period

(Continued from Page 1)

Carolina's last touchdown was a useless thing, what with the Bulldogs holding a 28-9 lead with less than two minutes left in the game. After an exchange of punts the Bulldogs took over on their own 23 and were pushed back to their own 11.

Bratowski punted out to the Carolina 47 and Williams made a nice return to the Georgia 17. In the first play Williams faded and hit Bob Gantt who was on the goal line and fell over for the score. Abie Williams kicked the extra point with 1:19 left in the game.

Frank Wissman, who justified Snavelly's opinion that he was the most important ball player on the team, tried to carry the Tar Heels back into the game but he fell short. With Carolina trailing, 21-9, Wissman put on an amazing passing exhibition, completing four straight for three first downs before being taken out for an injury.

He hit Newton for 11 yards, Hesmer for no gain, Weiss for 15 yards, and Newton again for 11 yards, before being removed. Williams replaced him and kept the team rolling by hitting Newton with a button hook pass for a first down on the Georgia 32, and then hit Bob White for two yards on a screen pass.

But now the Georgia defense was set and one too many passes was tossed. Fred Bilyeu of the Bulldogs caught up a Williams line and raced 80 yards for a pass on the 20 near the left side score. Mrvos kicked the extra point with 7:18 left in the fourth period to end the Bulldog scoring.

The first Georgia touchdown followed a short punt by Bud Wallace, who kicking out of his own end zone, put the ball out of bounds on his own 38. Harry Babcock took a Bratowski pass to the 34 and Morocco took another to the 19.

Morocco skirted right end to the 14. Then Bratowski missed with a pass and Bilyeu caught the Carolina defense waiting for another pass and went up the center to the 7. Carolina seemed saved when a clipping penalty put the Bulldogs back to the 22, but Bratowski passed on fourth down to DeCarlo on the 15 and the big end went over.

Carolina completely dominated the first half play, gaining 29 yards passing and 112 yards rushing. Most of the rushing yardage was contributed by Dick Weiss, who played a fine game at fullback. The big senior ended the days work with 122 yards gained on 22 carries for an average of 5.2 yards.

But all the Tar Heels could get out of the first half was a safety, and a 2-0 halftime lead. The Carolina line played a marvellous game in the first half, holding Georgia to 50 yards passing and 29 yards running.

Lou Darnell and George Norris, leading the line all day, and Jack Maulsby caught Mal Cook trying to pass from the Georgia 20 and chased him back to the end zone and made the tackle for a safety.

The Tar Heels blew three fine chances to score in the second quarter. One time Carolina had a first down on the 12 yard line and had the ball on the 5 on third down. Billy Williams fumbled a low snap from center back to the 11 and Abie Williams missed on a field goal from the 17.

Later in the quarter Weiss ran 50 yards down to the Georgia 22, but the Tar Heels missed a first down on the 14. Lauren Hargrove gave Carolina another chance soon after by fumbling on the 21, but Wissman missed on three passes to lose the chance.

The Carolina pass defense was badly handicapped in the second half by the loss of Bud Carson. Carson was taken out of the game with a hurt left leg in the first half and missed the entire second.

LINEUPS

GEORGIA
 Left Ends—DeCarlo, Poss, Gunn, White
 Left Tackles—Anglin, Burgamy, Tokus
 Left Guards—Spadifino, Madray
 Centers—McChung, McManimon, Williams
 Right Guards—Greenway, Filipkowski, Beckwick, Salerno, Griffin
 Right Tackles—Yelvington, Campbell, Dobbs
 Right Ends—Babcock, Filipovits, West, Malinowski
 Quarterbacks—Bratkowski, Mrvos, Grant
 Left Halfbacks—Morocco, Cook, Hipps, Morris, Manisera, Roberts
 Right Halfbacks—Hargrove, Bilyeu, Hill, Rocco, Schilone, Earnest
 Fullbacks—Raber, Capara, DiPietro
NORTH CAROLINA
 Left Ends—O'Brien, Norris, Kocornik, Newton
 Left Tackles—Ruffin, Kuhn, A Williams
 Left Guards—Yarborough, Maulsby, Kelso, Bestwick
 Centers—Miketa, Mullens, Stevens, Bruton, Carr
 Right Guards—Gruver, Dudeck, King
 Right Tackles—Higgins, Wiley, Frederer
 Right Ends—Walser, Darnell, Baker
 Quarterbacks—Hesmer, Carson
 Left Halfbacks—Williams, Parker, Lackey, Liberati, Wissman
 Right Halfbacks—Gantt, Wallace, Motta, Port
 Fullbacks—Wiess

SCORING SUMMARY

GEORGIA	0	0	7	21	28
N. CAROLINA	0	2	0	14	16
Georgia Scoring:	DeCarlo (2)	Morocco	and Bilyeu	Conversion:	Mrvos (4)
North Carolina Scoring:	Safety: Darnell, Norris, Maulsby—Newton, Gantt	Conversion:	A. Williams	2.

IF YOU COLLECT AMERICANA

It's not often that we try to persuade you to buy a book for $17.50 when we know that you'll pay $20.00 for it later. Matter of fact, it's darn seldom that we promote a book in that price class at all.

But there is a new book, "Life in America," edited by Marshall B. Davidson, which is due out on October 15th, which we think you should know about. It's the sort of thing that only a great publisher working with a great museum (The Metropolitan Museum of Art) could have produced. Over 1,200 pictures and 250,000 words are devoted to tracing the development, over the past 500 years, of our complex American society. And the whole picture sings with life.

We have an advance copy we think you should look over. If you agree that it's the sort of book you'll want sooner or later, we hope you'll let us get your order in before publication, at the pre-publication price of $17.50, rather than wait and pay $20.00 later. We feel that this book is so important that, if money is what's standing in your way, we'll arrange for divided payments to help you get the book and the saving.

THE INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

205 E. Franklin Street

Open 9 'Till 9

SPECIAL DATE, OR INFORMAL DINNER:

Come To CLUB SIRLOIN For Delicious Meals

● Students enjoy the savory foods, and appreciate the efficient service the CLUB SIRLOIN offers. We specialize in Fine Steaks, Fried Chicken, and Seafood, sure satisfiers to a hearty but discriminating appetite!

SPECIAL: STUDENTS' LUNCH and DINNER

CLUB SIRLOIN

W. Franklin St.