was a different story. The Bulldogs took to the air an even dozen times in the final two stanzas and made eight of them good for 165 yards and three teedees.

The other six-pointer came on a pass from Billy Williams of Carolina to Fred Bilyeu, fleet-footed Georgia halfback who hauled in Williams' weak, wobbly pass intended for Benny Waiser on his own 20 and legged it 80 yards to touchdown.

The Line Was Fine

CAROLINA'S ROCK-RIBBED DEFENSIVE line was the most impressive feature of the game. The Tar Heel defenders, led by Captain Joe Dudeck, held the fleet-footed Georgians to 69 yards overland. Added to last week's 29 yards picked up by N. C. State, that gives the Carolina defensive unit an impressive average of only 49 yards yielded per game.

After the Bulldogs had failed to dent the big Blue line, they went overhead with the good right arm of Zeke Bratkowski, sophomore sensation from Danville, Ill., leading the way. Bratkowski had the services of two fine ends, Art DeCarlo and Harry Babcock. Babcock raised most of the 80,000 eyebrows in the stadium with two fine catches. The first was a diving over-the-shoulder catch of a 50-yard pass from Bratkowski. Babcock was chaperoned deep into Tar Heel territory by Dick Lackey and Bud Wallace but when the pass came, Babcock outreached the two Tar Heels to make the catch. Later in the game, he made a one-handed snag of a fast-moving Bratkowski aerial while a Tar Heel defender pulled him to the ground.

Carolina showed one fine spurt in the final quarter when Frank Wissman made good on four straight passes before being removed from the game because of an injury. Billy Williams replaced Wissman and completed two in a row to glue-fingered Jeff Newton before lobbing one into the waiting arms of Bilyeu who took it on his own 20 and was touchdown-bound.

Carolina's final tally came on a 17-yard pass from Wissman to Bob (Goo Goo) Gantt. Gantt, the stubby Tar Heel wingback, made a fine running catch of the ball and scooted into the end zone with one minute and six seconds left in the game.

Outstanding for Carolina were Wissman, Newton, Tackle Tom Higgins and Fullback Dick Wiess on offense. Joe Dudeck, Julian King, George George Norris, Lou Darnell, Bill Kuhn, Dave Wiley, Jack Maultsby and Bud Carson all played sterling games on defense.

The old Carolina spirit was right there throughout the game. Even when the cause was hopeless, the Tar Heels were whooping it up for their team. And after the game, a faithful few milled around the fieldhouse, cheering the dejected Tar Heels.

If we can keep that spirit and the team picks up the steam as everyone is expecting, we can't lose 'em all. After all, we can't beat Georgia's Butts every year.

Cage Practice

All freshmen and new students interested in trying out for the basketball team should report to Coach Tom Scott at 4 p.m. tomorrow on the gym floor.

The varsity will be coached by Scott and his assistant Pete Mullis and the Jayvee squad will be tutored by Earl Ruby.
