UNC Birthday Celebrated With Pageant

By Jimmy Wallace
Some of the students hastened to South Building, anxious to get a close-up view of the ceremony. Others were attracted by the band concert. Still others saw the crowd gathering and wandered over to have a look. The usual coffee addicts found their places on the South Building steps had been pre-empted by the combined University Glee Clubs.

The workmen had begun the platform at eight o'clock. By then the blue of the sky, the sharp contrast of the South Building belfry as it jugged upwards into the crystallizing atmosphere of the fall morning. Windows on the second and third floor were filled with onlookers, elbows on the sills, heads propped on hands.

Old-timers in the faculty, veterans of many University ceremonies, dropped by to pay their respects. (See CORNERSTONE, page 7)

Room Reservations Available thru Tuesday

Heading toward Maryland next weekend? Want a place to spend the night? The University Club has secured 400 reservations at the Hamilton and the Annapolis Hotels in Washington, D. C., with a special student rate for $8.00 for two nights. Students desiring rooms should sign up and pay for them either Monday or Tuesday at a booth to be set up in the Y Court, according to Duffield Smith, club president. No reservations will be accepted for one night only. Smith stressed Tuesday as the deadline and last chance because Washington will be overcrowded with Maryland and Virginia fans and also several conventions planned for the same weekend. The Hamilton is located across the street from Franklin Square where the pep rally will be held Saturday morning. The Annapolis, near the bus station, is four blocks away.

'Are You An OYCI?' Question Answered

What's an OYCI? ... Who's behind this music in the Y Court? ... Why were all the campus wheels picking up trash on the South Building steps? ... Was that Dean Wettach I saw walking picket in the rain Thursday? ... What's going on? This is going on. A meeting was called last Thursday of an ultra secret committee to decide the best way to make the students conscious of the mess they make in the Y Court. The cleanup committee, sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, was headed by "Jake the Janitor" Froelich. The committee decided to put on a campaign of stunts aimed at getting the students to throw their own trash in the can provided. And here's where the OYCI came in. A catchy word was needed for the campaign ... a word that would describe a person who threw trash on South Building steps. OYCI fitted perfectly. The ideas for stunts almost got out of hand at the suggestion of a cage to put OYCI's in. An effort was made to even get Gordon Gray and Governor Scott for the picket lines.

The Y Court music was dreamed up by Larry Early and Barbara Chantler, and sung by Jimmy Shumate, Reginald Griffin, and Jack Borden, with Jimmy Adams on the piano.

The committee reported perfect cooperation by the administration on the picket lines. Administration leaders, led by Chancellor House, carried placards up and down in front of the South Building steps.

Observers reported yesterday that the appearance of the steps had "improved a hundred percent."

Just before the University Day ceremonies, one coed dropped her empty cup on the steps. A boy sitting near remarked in a voice that carried all over the vicinity, "She's even worse than a pig. She's an OYCI." The girl in question blushing picked it up, carried it over to the trash can, and dropped it in. And one more OYCI bit the dust.

Oh, yes, OYCI means "Obnoxious Y Court Individual", as if you didn't really know
