Films Shown At Business Eraternity Meet

J. E. Dykstra, of the University School of Business Administration, was guest speaker at the professional meeting of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business administration fraternity, this week.

Mr. Dykstra showed films taken by Frank Gilbraith on time and motion study, and conducted accompanying discussion.

The films were taken during the era from 1910 through the first World War, when time and motion study was first being investigated. Mr. Gilbraith, who is called the "Father of Motion Study," is known to many as the inspiration for the book, "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Following the professional meeting a short business meeting was held. Announcement was made by Professional Program Chairman Bob Green, that Frank Jarman of the WDNC radio station in Durham will speak to the group on October 29.

Book of Poems Published Here

"In Many Moods," a book of poems written by Henrietta R. Smedes, former librarian of the University Rural Social Economics department, and her father, the late John Esten Cooke Smedes, has been published in New York by Exposition Press, Inc.

Miss Smedes was employed here from 1920 to 1942. She is now retired and makes her home in Raleigh. Her father was graduated from Columbia University and the General Theological Seminary and received an honorary degree of doctor of divinity from the University here.

Interfaith Seminar Planned; Dr. Sittler Will Speak Thursday

Dr. Joseph Sittler, professor of Systematic Theology in the Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary, will appear on campus Thursday, October 25, under the sponsorship of the Interfaith Council.

An afternoon seminar is planned for 3:30 o'clock in the cabinet room of the YMCA building, when all students are invited to hear Dr. Sittler.

"The Possibilities and Far-Reaching Implications of an Interfaith Program on a College Campus," will be the topic of Dr. Sittler's address on Thursday evening, at a dinner to be given in his honor at the Methodist Church. Present for the dinner meeting will be members of the Interfaith Council, five representatives from each of the student and church organizations represented on the Council, and one faculty member and student from each department in the University.

The purpose of the dinner meeting is to orientate the campus on the program of the Interfaith Council by first presenting its plans to the above group.

Aside from his regular duties, at the Seminary, Dr. Sittler is Dean of Students. He is a member of the Study Committee of the World Council of Churches, and attended the Council's conference in Europe this summer.
