Person Gallery Offers Rental Services Here

Person Art Gallery is again offering its picture rental service to all interested Chapel Hill residents, according to Lynette Warren, curator of the gallery.

Designed to offer the opportunity to enjoy many different kinds of painting at leisure and at home, the collection was begun in 1941 by friends of Person Hall.

The rental collection has been expanded to include 245 reproductions, renting for 25 cents a month and for a deposit of one dollar, which is refunded if the pictures are returned on time. Any number may be rented from one to three months.

Rental service can be extended only to Chapel Hill residents because of time and transportation factors. The biggest single renter, every year is the Chapel Hill Elementary School, but many dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and townspeople use this service.

As to the number of paintings still available, Miss Warren said, "Because of the new prints that have been added to the rental collection, we still have a good number to choose from for those people who would like to rent pictures and haven't gotten around to it yet." The gallery is open from 9 o'clock to 4:30 p.m.

Men's Dorms Given Picnic

"B" and Grimes dormitories were special guests at a picnic held Friday in Battle Park by the Independent Coed Board.

Some confusion was present when picnic hunters could not find the spot and wandered at random through the woods, but eventually everyone succeeded in locating it.

Hotdogs, coleslaw and soft drinks were the order of the day, with roasted marshmallows topping off the fare. A good representation from both the dormitories and from the campus coeds was present, including a group of freshman nurses.

After the picnic the crowd gathered around the fire to sing for an hour, to the music of a uke. Then they dispersed to pick their way back through the forest to civilization.

This is another in a group of functions planned and sponsored by the Independent Coed Board. President of the Board Martha Byrd was chairman of the picnic.

includes singers, comedians and instrumentalists. Peerce has appeared in many night clubs around the country, as well as on TV, and is already known to Carolina Playmaker fans.

Bob Thomas, baritone-bass singer from Oxford, will also be featured. Bob has done a great deal of singing around UNC and has held leading roles in Playmaker and Music Department productions.

Hansford Rowe, Richmond, Va., who will organize, direct and MC the show, has had a great variety of experience in show business. He has appeared in night clubs in New York City, Virginia Beach, Florida and once, when in the Navy, in Shanghai, China. He has worked with the Carolina Playmakers and other university drama groups and has just returned from a season of summer stock in New York state.

Rowe feels certain that the Carolina students will enjoy Saturday night's show which has only a 15 cent cover charge to help defray expenses.

Other students to appear are Wisner Washam, Mars Hill, pianist; Andy Adams, San Francisco, and J. B. Chocran, Lawrenceville, N. H.

Rowe has asked that anyone interested in auditioning for the show this week or later call him at 2-8056.
