

Soccer Team Meets Generals Today

Fourth Win Sought Here By Booters

by Ken Barton

In hopes of gaining their fourth straight win of the season the Carolina soccer team will play host to the Generals of Washington and Lee today at 3 p.m. on Fetzer Field in a game that will find the Tar Heels favored.

Washington and Lee tied N. C. State 2-2 previously this year. State taxed the Tar Heels before losing 4-2. On the basis of this showing Washington and Lee will probably field a hard team to beat but unless Carolina relaxes its victory over Duke or looks ahead to the return engagement with Duke next Tuesday, they should be able to win.

Carolina, besides beating State, has beaten Duke, 3-2 and Virginia, 2-1. A victory today would make it four straight in the Southern Conference with only three games left in Conference play: a return match with Duke, State and the season's closing game with Maryland, last year's champs.

Following next week's game with Duke, the Tar Heels will travel to the state of Pennsylvania for the weekend and games with Penn and Penn State.

Today's game will probably find the same lineup that has started recently with "Red" Montgomery, Tommy Hopkins, Gerry Russell, Eddie Foy, and Fred Lurie in the front line. Buddy Sawyer, George Stephens, and Duncan MacCalman will play halfbacks, and Barry Kalb and Bernie Burnstan will be at the fullback positions. Ben Tison will start at the goal spot.

The team has been improving all season and played its best game against Duke when they came from behind to beat the Blue Devils, 3-2. The team is greatly improved from last year when they won four and lost five games.

Passing across field and the ability with which they work the ball makes Carolina a greater threat in the scoring zone. Foy and Russell with help from a group of others are constituting a very fine front line.

Defensively the team is even better with Tison, Burnstan and Kalb proving to be a solid wall in front of the goal. Buddy Sawyer continues to be an outstanding player and contributes a great deal to the general team spirit with his undying spirit and fight.

Evening any lapses that can always happen and with a minimum of success on the northern swing the team should have one of the finest seasons in recent years.

Lauricella To Lead Vols Against Carolina Saturday

Coach Carl Snavely made some last minute changes in positions as he prepared his Tar Heels for Saturday's game with the Tennessee Volunteers, the nation's number one team.

Quarterback Van Wetherspoon and Lou Iarnel, defensive end, have both been changed to offensive ends in an attempt to strengthen the flanks.

Wetherspoon should have little trouble in handling the position as he was an All-State end at Durham High. Darnell has been one of the outstanding players all season and should also make the conversion with little difficulty.

The change moves Ed Patterson, blocking back, up a notch in the lineup. Patterson has been alternating with Skeet Hesmer and George Foti as field general in this week's practice.

The only major loss to the Tar Heels is Bill Kuhn, defensive right tackle. The injury of Kuhn will hurt the Tar Heels defensive line. He reinjured a shoulder in the Wake Forest game and will be out indefinitely.

Although General Bob Neyland, Tennessee's famed coach, claims "We are in the worst physical condition of the year," his team will be heavily favored to make it three straight over the Tar Heels tomorrow.

The Volunteers are undefeated this season and have almost the identical team that dropped Carolina, 16-0 last season in Knoxville. Many Kenan Stadium observers will remember the 1949 game when Tennessee trounced Carolina 35-6.

Big man in the Tennessee attack is Hank Lauricella, a 5'10" 169-pound speedster from New Orleans, who has provided the spark all season for the Vols' offense. A real "triple threat back" Lauricella has been the brightest star in recent Tennessee history.

Fullback Andy Kozar, Wingback Bert Rechichar, and Quarterback Jimmy Hahn round out the backfield. Kozar was the leading scorer on last year's team with 11 touchdowns. The 197-pound junior was named the outstanding back in last year's Cotton Bowl game.

Rechichar is team captain and perhaps the best all-round back on the squad. He is particularly adept on punt returns and pass interceptions, leading the SEC in both departments last year.

The Tennessee line is one of the roughest in the country. Pug Pearman, left tackle, and Ted Daffer, left guard, are the mainstays of the defensive line. Daffer made almost everybody's All-American last year, and both boys were on the Carolina All-Opponent team.
