Lord Bertrand Russell, philosopher, author, Nobel Prize winner for literature, psychoanalyzed modern man and came up with the diagnosis that fear is causing most of his troubles in a speech at WC Monday night.

"There are three obstacles to happiness for modern man," he said, "the economic, the political, and the psychological. These reflect three kinds of fears that persist in man, the fear of nature, the fear of man, and the fear of himself and his own impulses."

The way out, Lord Russell declared, is to begin with the children and educate them so as to avoid the complexes, the fears, and the furies that thwart their lives and dull their creativity.

Modern man's difficulty, said Lord Russell, is that he perpetuates, while in comparative safety, the fears that primitive man felt when external dangers actually existed.

These fears, he said, give rise to envy, insecurity, competitiveness, hatred of alien groups, and a too-eager willingness to submit to Hitler-type leaders. Naturally, he said, the authoritarian leader will encourage fears to prolong his power over men.

Lord Russell related the fear of oneself to an unfounded sense of sin and guilt, which, he declared, can be restrictive to the creative impulses. The excessive fear of one's own impulses tends to project one's guilt on others, he declared. It is easy, he said, for fright to turn to aggression.

The solution, he said, is in love and friendliness, which nine times out of ten will bring about the same response. Education, he said, should not be a bore to children. Educators should think of the child as the gardener thinks of a plant.

"You don't whip a rose when it fails to bloom," he declared.

Virginia Rally Planned

There will be a great big pep rally in Virginia this weekend, Duffield Smith, University Club President yesterday decided.

The Rally will be held in the Madison "Mad" Bowl between Madison Land and Rugby Road between the two main rows of fraternity houses at Charlottesville, he said.

The bowl is used for intramural purposes, Smith explained.

Smith further stated that the "rally" would start sometime around 12 o'clock noon and the UNC cheerleader would be there too.

He wants a large "crowd to show up so we can make a good impression on the University of West Virginia crowd and to give the team their blessings."

Di Acclaims Open Courts

A bill calling for the opening of the closed courts in the University student government judicial system was passed by an overwhelming 15 to 4 vote by the Di Senate at their weekly meeting Tuesday night.

The bill, however, was amended to state that students with valid reasons could be tried in private. Opening of the courts was called for in the bill because the present system of trials is allegedly "failing in its fundamental objective (prevention of Honor and Campus Code offenses)" and a "closed court can lead to irresponsibility on the part of the court and has led to distrust and disrespect for the court."

It was the opinion of supporters of the bill that an "open court would increase responsibility, trust and respect on the part of the court and the students."

In an executive session of the Senate on Tuesday night also, Mel Stribling and Jim Thompson were admitted to conditional membership.

Students who did not receive the selection board's nomination may run as independents by turning in a petition signed by 25 students who endorse him, or her. The petition must include the seat the student wishes to run for and must be turned in to Erline Griffin, 217 Spencer Hall, by midnight Saturday November 10.

Three student council seats representatives are also to be elected to the Student Council in the coming fall elections.

Although both parties have made their nominations for these seats, persons wishing to run as independents may do so by filling the necessary petition with Elections Board Chairman Erline Griffin.

The Council, as per the constitutional amendment passed last spring, is to be composed of nine members, with staggered terms (three elected in the fall, six in the spring).

The three members elected this fall will raise the membership of the council to the unconstitutional figure of 12, due to the fact that the nine elected last spring, simultaneous with the passage of the amendment had one-year terms.
