Glee Clubs Will Present Annual Christmas Concert

The University's combined glee clubs, under the direction of Joel Carter, will present their annual Christmas concert Wednesday night at 8:30 in the Hill Hall Auditorium.

Featured will be Will O. Headlee, organist, Benjy Haywood and Patricia Aydlett, pianist. Soloist with the clubs are Jean Herring, alto, Billy Jim Chance, tenor, and William Whitesides, tenor.

The program will open with the processional, "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," and will be continued with selections by Burney Golde. These will be followed by groups of selections rendered separately by the Men and Women's clubs.

The second half of the program will be a Christmas story presented as a radio sequence. The narration will be by Charles W. Goldsboro.

Included in the sequence is a medley of traditional Christmas songs by Herbert, Hopkins, Mendelssohn, and Christiansen. This will be followed by a group of carols by the separate clubs. A second medley of familiar carols will conclude the program.

The Christmas concert will be the final performance of the quarter for the clubs. Earlier, a radio program was recorded by the combined group, for station WPTF in Raleigh. The program, under the direction of Carter, was produced by John Young at the University's Communications Center. The broadcast date is not yet known.

Free Playmaker Shows To Open Thursday Nite

Three free one-act plays will be given by the Playmakers this Thursday and Friday nights in the Playmakers Theatre at 7:30.

The initial play of the series will be "A Brave Man" by Andy Adams of Covina, Cal. It is set in an Austrian prison, and deals with the struggle of a 14 year old boy to be brave in the face of torture and threatened execution for sabotage.

"The Shinning Dark" by Elmer Oettinger of Glen Lennox will follow. It is the heart-warming story of a blind woman's attempt to purchase the sight of a convict from a neighboring prison camp. Though treating a serious theme, there are several moments of whimsical humour.

The final play of the evening is a fast farce-comedy, "Pythagoras Bound," by Charles Kellogg of Watertown, N. Y. It relates the hysterical efforts of a young New Yorker to crash into the prize-fighting sport, over the determined objections of his mother.

The three student directors, in

The Male Animal Premieres Tonight

"The Male Animal," James Thurber's prize winning story concerning Academic Freedom, which was a successful motion picture, starring Henry Fonda and Olivia DeHaviland, will be shown tonight at Memorial hall at 7 o'clock.

Dr. W. Carson Ryan, Kenan professor of education, will lead a discussion of the movie after its showing.

This is the second in the series of outstanding motion pictures which the Y.M.C.A. and Hillel are sponsoring during the year. There is no admission charge to these movies.

order of above plays, are Hansford Rowe, Richmond, Va., Frank Groseclose, Atlanta, Ga., and Phil Bernanke, Dillon, S. C.

Late News

Bill Wolfe, senior from Chapel Hill, was elected unanimously to lead the Student Party through the Winter quarter's heavy political slate in an SP meeting last night.

The University Party, which also met last night, chose Biff Roberts, a Louisville, Ky., senior, as its chairman for the coming quarter.

Yuletide Spirit Showing Up In Sororities, Fraternities

The Christmas spirit, so often written about, is really showing itself among the fraternity and sorority groups.

Tonight the Tri-Delts are invited to the Kappa Alpha house for dinner after which the two houses will collaborate to entertain forty-six colored orphans from Silver Hill community. Two years ago the groups gave separate parties for the children.

A "no-foolin" Santa Claus will arrive at the KA house and presents will be given to all the children. The entertainment committee of Tri-Delts has planned for an evening of games, songs, and refreshments.

Chi Psi fraternity plans a big Wednesday night for the children from Catholic Orphanage of Raleigh and Wright's Refuge of Durham. Santa will be kept quite busy because he is the Chi Psi's guest this week too. To entertain the kids will be Charlie Justice, Ed Stephens who will tell a Christmas story, and the surprise

Runoffs Set Today

News Barriers In Carolina Still Exist, Report States

News barriers in North Carolina still exist, according to a report made recently by a board of editors, but they are not as formidable as in past years, it pointed out.

The report was issued at the

Zimmerman To Present Piano Recital

Wallace Zimmerman, graduate student in the University of North Carolina Music Department, will present a piano recital in Hill hall on Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. Included on the program will be Rameau's "Gavotte Variee," a Haydn sonata, groups by Chopin, Rochmaninoff and Debussy, and Ravel's "Jeux d'eau."

A native of Roxboro, Zimmerman was graduated here in the class of 1951, receiving the Sigma Pi Epsilon Award for the outstanding pianist of his class. While in Chapel Hill, he has participated in many musical activities. Last spring he was heard in a performance of a Mozart concerto for piano and orchestra, and for the last two years he has served the glee club as accompanist. At present, Zimmerman is studying under Dr. Wilton Mason of the University Music Department faculty.

winter meeting of the North Carolina Associated Press News Council by the Committee on News Suppression, held here during the weekend.

Comments from 31 editors, legislators, correspondents, and reporters were studied before the report was made.

The report said, "There is still some censorship. . . . but most papers have been able to lick the problem through greater effort. . . . and a cooperative attitude by public officials and a growing demand by the reading public for more information."

However, the report made note that there was little criticism of news on the state level.

The committee was headed by Claude Ramsey, executive news editor of the Asheville Citizen-Times, and included Nady Cates, managing editor of the Twin City Sentinel, Winston-Salem, G. H. Caldwell, of the Winston-Salem Journal, Floyd Powell of the Hickory Daily Record, and Jim Fulghum of the Wilson Times.

CPU Inauguration Set For Thursday

Inauguration of the new officers of the Carolina Political Union will be held Thursday night at 6 o'clock at Watts Grill.

Election of officers was held last Sunday night. The reason for the election was because the present chairman was graduating at the end of the quarter.

Bob Thomason was elected chairman replacing Tommy Summer, he was formerly vice-chairman. Allan Inglesby was elected vice-chairman. Barry Farber, who resigned as secretary when he left school several weeks ago, was re-elected to this post. Bob Pace served as secretary while Farber was overseas. Wyman Richardson will continue in office as treasurer.

German Educators Touring Plants, Schools

The 14 German elementary school principals and teachers who are studying education methods here are broadening their horizons by visiting and touring nearby schools, county offices and manufacturing plants.

During the month of November they also attended special seminars conducted by School of Business Administration.

The Germans were sent to the University by the United States Office of Education. They will spend six months here and will be assigned to public schools over the nation for another three months.

The special activities were arranged by the School of Education in the belief that "you can't study education without studying society."

Recently the Germans visited the Durham Public Welfare Department, visited the County Home, the Farmers' Mutual Market, a tobacco market, Liggett and Myers Tobacco plant, Erwin Cotton Mills and Duke University.

The School of Business Administration conducted seminars throughout the month of November for the benefit of the visiting educators on the theme, "The Meaning and Challenge of Professional Education in Business Administration." Seminar topics included: The Concept of Business Administration and Public Fi-

* In passing, it may be worthwhile to note that fall election runoffs will be held today.

The Student Party could possibly win control of the legislature.

The University Party might retain control of the legislature.

There hasn't been much campaigning, or name calling, nor many promises made. The S. P. thinks they're sure to win; so does the U. P.

The Student Council says the election today is illegal, because of a clause about dates of elections and University holidays and exam periods in the Student Constitution. The Council declared the original runoff date, November 29, illegal. The Legislature set a new date—today. However, that's illegal too.

Still, fall election runoffs will be held today.

There haven't been many new campaign posters put up. Some of the old ones are still hanging around on bulletin boards and dormitory walls.

And two big signs still dangle above the soda fountain in the Y listing the slate for the first elections, last November 20.

Fall election runoffs are today. But nobody seems to be very excited about them.

No long, flowery statements have been turned into The Daily Tar Heel office by prospective office-holders.

Some of the candidates have been campaigning occasionally at night, stopping by voters' rooms and talking and asking for their vote. But that's about all.

Elections are being held today, however; and Elections Board Chairman Erlene Griffin said yesterday that the hours for balloting will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p. m., as usual, and that the people who usually vote in Gerrard hall will vote in Memorial hall.

Legislative Control
"Looks like the Student Party will get control of the Legislature tomorrow," pre-election observers opined last night.

The SP has never had control of the Student Legislature. SP presidential candidates have been elected, but the UP usually dominates the Legislature. The (See ELECTIONS, Page 6) nance, Labor Relations, Industrial Management, Marketing, and Personnel Relations.

Faculty members who led the seminars were: Dean Thomas H. Carroll and Profs. Clarence Heer, Gerald A. Barrett, Paul N. Guthrie, Harry D. Wolf, A. R. Dooley, John E. Dykstra, Kenneth R. Davis, Charles A. Kirkpatrick, Clarence H. McGregor, Richard P. Calhoun, Gustav T. Schwenning, and Arthur M. Whitehill, Jr.

At another time the group met with the department of health education of the School of Public Health to learn about the services of Health Education in the State.
