

Planetarium's Xmas Show Probably Largest In World

New scenes and effects have been added to the "Star of Bethlehem," which is presented annually during the Christmas season at the Morehead Planetarium to make it probably the largest single production ever presented by any Planetarium in the world, according to Anthony Jenzano, manager.

The Christmas show, which has already been witnessed by more than 4,000 persons this season, is being presented every evening at 8:30 o'clock and also on Saturdays at 3 and 4 o'clock and Sundays at 2, 3 and 4 o'clock.

Editors, ministers and other distinguished men have written articles about the show after seeing it this year, said Jenzano, explaining that the story of Christmas is unchanged in the demonstration. "The finest effects available to portray this story have been acquired through the cooperative efforts of the University and Guilford College for weeks preceding opening day," he said.

"The first portion of the demonstration is devoted to the appearance of the heavens of almost 20 centuries ago and deals particularly with the astronomical events that we know occurred in the years about the time of the birth of Jesus," Jenzano said. "What we see is something that, to the Wise Men from the East, would have seemed a very potent sign of some impending great event.

"We believe that we have discovered what the Star of Bethlehem was, if the Star was indeed something in the sky for everyone to see. If, however, it was a miracle, given only to the eyes of the Wise Men, science is powerless to discuss it."

In the latter portion of the demonstration, Jenzano said, a beautiful and original pageant is presented, with the story of the birth of Jesus told in lights, color, music by the Guilford College A Cappella Choir and scriptural readings by Dr. Urban T. Holmes of the University's department of romance languages.

"Three dimensional sets of 'The Nativity,' 'The Annunciation' and 'The Angels Visitation to the Shepherds,' appear in a star-studded sky with an atmosphere of realism and provide the visible theme of the story," Jenzano said. "The closing scene is that of a great arched cathedral in which the visitors find themselves, with the soft light of six large rose windows illuminating the scene, while the choir sings Christmas music.

Harvard Award Hopefuls Must File By May

"No man who is otherwise qualified need feel unable to attend the Harvard Business School because of financial limitations," declared Donald K. David today, announcing the fourth annual nationwide competition for Regional Financial Aid Awards of the Harvard Business School.

Awards under the program for 1952-53 provide a maximum of $2,600 for a married student and $2,000 for a single student, the amount being adjusted to individual need. Similar aid will be available for the second year of study to those whose work has been satisfactory.

Any man who shows promise of developing business leadership is eligible for the awards. The students must meet the usual requirements for admission to the School and demonstrate financial need and ability to profit from the two-year business program. No specific course of college studies is required, neither is undergraduate study in business or economics considered important.

The deadline for applications to the Committee on Student Financial Aid at the Harvard Business School is May 1, 1952. Of the 132 awards to be made this year, 110 will be made in the eight regions of the United States: 10 awards each for the Far Western, Mid-Atlantic, Mountain States, New England, Pacific Northwestern, and Southwestern regions, 20 for the Southern region, and 30 for the Mid-western region. A candidate may apply either from the region in which he is attending college or where he resides.

The "murder" occurred in the Saddle Club at 7:30 on the night of Wednesday, November 28. Miss Ogburn, Medlin and Hesmer were seated at a table near the center of the floor. Grune was talking to several Duke students at a neighboring table when photographer Woody took a picture of the occupants of Miss Ogburn's table. As Woody prepared to take another shot, Grune went over and tried to get into the picture. After ignoring Hesmer's warning to "shove off," he put his arm around Miss Ogburn.

At this, Medlin sprang to his feet with a knife in hand and said to the intruder, "I told you after the games Saturday, if you started messing with me, I'd kill you." As Medlin moved forward Grune drew a long, switch-blade knife from his pocket and lunged at him. Miss Ogburn, trying to stop him, was hit by the knife and "mortally wounded."

During the following confusion, Grune was apprehended by on-lookers and Durham police, Miss Ogburne was carried to a waiting ambulance, and a very frightened lady spilled her plate in her lap.

Grune was booked and later released under bond.

The statement that "the School of Business Administration has already been successful in removing foreign language requirements for its students from the General College curriculum" as printed in yesterday's paper was erroneous. All business administration students take the general college language requirements.

Virginia handed Carolina its sixth defeat in eight games as it trounced Carolina, 34-14. Carolina played well during the fourth quarter and Frank Wissman led the way and it appeared that he was back in the form he showed against Texas.

Carolina went into the Duke game a slight underdog and emerged a 19-7 loser. The Tar Heels could never get going and the Blue Devils controlled the ball most of the way, grinding out the victory in a dull game.

$5,000 Gift Will Be Made Journalism Foundation IF...

Gifts totaling $5,000 will be made to the University Journalism Foundation if the organization can raise an additional $20,000 soon, it was announced today by Holt McPherson, Shelby, president of the Foundation.

McPherson said that five men have agreed to contribute $1,000 each on the condition that the Foundation line up 20 additional contributors of $1,000 each by the end of the year. If the additional money can be raised, it was pointed out, funds in the Foundation would amount to approximately $50,000.

"Several memorializing gifts have been made and more are in the process," McPherson said. "The Journalism Foundation's purpose," he added, "is to help the Journalism School at Chapel Hill by making it not just the South's best but one of the nation's outstanding schools. To that end the Foundation underwrote a portion of the salary of one of the ablest younger men attracted to that faculty in years."
