Gray has served as secretary of the Army, special presidential aide, and now is chairman of the National Commission on Financing of Hospital Care, but the job does not interfere with his University work.

Grad Gets FBI Award

Edward Scheidt, UNC graduate and special agent in charge of the New York FBI office, was the recipient of honors recently when associates and members of the Federal Court in New York acknowledged the completion of his 20 years of service in FBI.

The ceremonies consisted of a mock trial, attended by 700 persons who overflowed a courtroom in the United States Court House at Foley Square, N. Y.

Scheidt was found "guilty" in mock trial proceedings of "twenty years of loyalty and devoted service." He received the Bureau's 20-year service award, a silver key, and a set of luggage from members of the New York office which he has headed for six years.

A congratulatory message from J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Bureau, was read by the "trial judge."

Travel Agency

The Graham Memorial Travel Agency will be open today and Monday during the regular 2-4 hours to handle last minute travel details for persons desiring to travel during the holidays.

Director Frank Allston announced that Monday will be the last day of business for the fall quarter. The agency will reopen for business on Thursday, January 3.

Allston also stated that persons who had paid for air line tickets at the office during the past several days would pick these tickets up at the Raleigh-Durham Airport rather than in Graham Memorial basement.

Anyone desiring to do business with the agency during this quarter is urged to call the office sometime today or Monday at 2-1882.

'Christmas Carol' Show To Be Presented Sunday

A two-fold program for the children of Orange country during the Christmas season will be the reading by Samuel Selden, director of the Carolina Playmakers, of Dickens' famed "Christmas Carol," and a collection for the Orange Country Empty Stocking Fund in the Playmakers Theatre at 8 o'clock.

Preceding Professor Selden's traditional reading of the beloved Christmas story, members of the Empty Stocking Fund Committee, headed by Mrs. Henry Clark, Jr., will collect donations of money, clothing, food and toys for distribution among children in this county on Christmas day.

Professor Selden's reading, edited into four staves, will be the 34th renewal of a cherished event at the University. The late Dr. Frederick H. Koch, founder of the Playmakers, initiated the seasonal program, and gave a total of 278 readings of Dickens' story in many sections of the country, appearing four times in Town Hall in New York. Professor Selden is continuing the series.

The Empty Stocking Fund is a Junior Service League project, and was inaugurated in Orange county last year to provide needy children with Christmas gifts. Donations amount to more than $1,000 in value were collected last year, and Mrs. Clark's committee hopes that this season's campaign will be even more successful.

The classic Playmakers Theatre will be decorated with wreaths, candles and a Christmas tree. Carols will be played during intermissions in Professor Selden's reading.

Presbyterians Give Program

The choir of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian church will present its annual program of Christmas music at regular Sunday services, December 9, at 9:45 and 11:00 a.m.

Two seldom heard works will be sung, "The Childhood of Christ" by J. C. F. Bach and "Fantasia on Christmas Carols", by Ralph Vaughn Williams, contemporary English composer.

Thomas Nichols will conduct and Will O. Headlee will be at the organ. Both are members of the staff of the music department.

Soloists will be Margaret Stanback, soprano; Mae Marshbanks, contralto; William Whitesides, tenor; and Joel Carter, bass.
