Students Subject To Draft Should Clarify Deferments

Gray At TV Meet In Pennsylvania

President Gordon Gray is attending a meeting at State College, Penn., on educational television.

The meeting is sponsored by the American Council on Education and will last through tomorrow.

Colonel Shepard Lists Two Steps For Applications should be made one or two weeks before the date of expiration of the deferment which is shown on student's draft card. As most such deferments expire between June 1 and July 1, application should be made before leaving school for the summer vacation, Colonel Shepard continued.

He listed two steps in the application procedure: First, go to the military and veterans affairs office, 315 South Building, and request the local board be notified of the status as a student; and second, write the local board requesting deferment for next year and state the student has requested the University to forward the class standing as soon as it is available.

Colonel Shepard said students in the I-S classification who have been ordered for induction in June may apply for further deferment. A student whose grades for last year (1950-51) did not make him eligible for deferment this year may still qualify for deferment next year on the basis of his grades for this school year (1951-52), he added.

There is a new policy governing deferment of students to enter medical, dental or graduate school, Colonel Shepard said. Under the new plan deferments may be granted if the student is accepted by the particular school and if he was in the upper 50 percent of his class the year prior to his acceptance by the school. Formerly he needed only to be accepted by the school to which he applied.

Colonel Shepard asked that students with questions concerning their draft status come by his office.
