Chief Odin, 9 Maidens

Back in the olden days of Norwegian mythology there lived, in the court of the warrior, Chief Odin, nine select maidens called Valkyries.

These maidens were daughters of the gods and yet were mortal as well. As one of their duties, they selected for Odin those warriors who were to be slain on the battlefields and led them to Valhalla, the hall of fame. It was considered a great honor to belong to the chosen group, the Valkyries, because they shared the glorious companionship of departed heroes.

The armor they wore shed a strange light and their appearance on the battlefield meant that great heroes were present and would be chosen.

Pogo Buttons Here; Horton Gets Stuck

Carolina President Ham Horton gave out with a loud "ouch" yesterday and became the first man on campus to go Pogo.

Champagne Manager T. Mac Long pinned the bright orange "I Go Pogo" button, one of 5,000 which arrived here by air express, on Horton.

Long's red-nosed assistant champagne manager, Al Perry, said the buttons will be given out in Y court this morning. Organizations may pick up their group lots at The Daily Tar Heel office this afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock.

The presidential boom for the people's possum reached up into Canada yesterday. Cartoonist Walt Kelly, who is backing Pogo, reported his candidate had come out in favor of a continuous flowing St. Lawrence River and thus captured the vital Canadian vote.

Yacks Tomorrow

Yackety Yacks will be given out tomorrow from 4 p.m. until 8 o'clock at the Yack office on second floor Graham Memorial.

It will be the last opportunity, Circulation Manager Hal Ward said yesterday. They think they have an ideal location, a nice place to spend an evening.

Newly-Organized Unit, SUAB, Meeting Today

Ken Penegar yesterday issued a call for all persons interested in working on any phase of the Student Union Activities Board to meet this afternoon in the SUAB Room on second floor Graham Memorial at 4 o'clock.

The newly organized board, authorized in the by-laws recently passed by the GM directors, is composed of the chairmen of 12 committees, ranging from Film and Forum to Calendar and Receptions.

Penegar, Chairman of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors, said the object of SUAB is to get as many students as possible into direct participation in the program of the student union and expressed hope that eventually the students will be operating the entire Union program.

"There is a tremendous need on this campus for student activity coordination," he said, "and it is felt that the SUAB will again be of service in scheduling meetings all over campus, maintaining a campus activity calendar, and getting more students into some kind of activity."

Penegar, who will serve as President of SUAB, said it is felt that the board will answer the need for an Activities Board recommended by the Student Apathy Commission at the recent State of the Campus Conference.

Lost Passport

Rafael Diaz Sosa, a drama student who lives in 113 Connor Dormitory, lost his passport yesterday.

Issued at Caracas, Venezuela, the pasport was lost between the bank and his room. Sosa said. Anyone having information on the pasport is asked to contact Sosa or The Daily Tar Heel.

"TEMPEST" CANCELED

Water-logged Playmaker officials last night said the remaining performance of "The Tempest" had been canceled.

Given Friday and Saturday nights and scheduled again for Sunday, the colorful Shakespearean play was rained out Sunday and again last night. Rain and the approaching exam week forced cancelation.
