

AKPsi Honored Nationally In Ration Contest

Alpha Tau Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in business administration, has won national recognition in an efficiency ration contest.

The contest was held in Washington, Oct. 24-25 and was conducted by the grand chapter. The award, an embossed scroll given to college chapters reaching 100,000 points, was presented to the local chapter by Dr. B. O. Miller, professor of economics at George Washington University and deputy councilor of the Mid-East District. He praised the Carolina chapter as being one of the finest in the nation.

The local delegation, representing the University, had as its members, Jesse V. Noland, Asheville, Taylor O. Teague, Mooresville, Jean M. Souweine, Brussels, Belgium, John W. Austin, Charlotte and L. R. Jordan, Smithfield.

The chairman of the delegation, L. R. Jordan, delivered one of the major student addresses at the Friday morning opening session. His topic was "The Acquisition and Maintenance of a Fraternity House."

Alden And Newman Concert Is Tonight

Violinist Edgar Alden and pianist William S. Newman will give a recital of sonatas tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall.

Three sonatas representing the classical, romantic and modern periods of musical style will be on the program. They are Mozart's "Sonata in E Flat", Brahms' "Sonata in G, Op. 78" and "Sonata No. 3" by the contemporary Czech composer, Bohuslav Martinu.

There is no admission charge.

-Trotter-

Asked about the singer, Trotter explained, "All the real work with Bing is during rehearsals. The shows themselves are fun. Bing gives the appearance of being so relaxed simply because he is that way. He is one of the best organized persons in the world."

"That Gary has the Crosby touch too," he pointed out. Speaking admirably of Bing's singer son, Trotter said that Gary "has all it takes to put over a song well."

"How do you like this color?" he asked this reporter with a laugh, pointing to a pattern book of colors. Trotter is altering the motel to a tourist home tentatively named "The Hill House." At present he is unable to manage the new tourist home because of musical duties in California, so he has arranged for Barney Cornwell, brother of Dr. O. K. Cornwell, Chairman of Athletics and Physical Education here, to take over the management.

"Sure, I'll be back to Chapel Hill soon," he said smilingly. But not permanently yet," he added suggesting that the Hill may be his home someday. Right now it's California and Crosby for the jolly maestro until this summer.

Children Of Veterans Offered Scholarships

Each year many scholarships are offered as educational advantages for children of World War veterans. These scholarships originated after World War I and were extended to include children of World War II veterans.

Handled by the North Carolina Veterans Commission, these advantages are offered to (1) any child whose father was killed or died as a direct result of service connected disability, (2) ten children (in each school year) whose fathers are suffering from or who suffered from 30% or more service connected disability and (3) fifteen children (in each school year) whose fathers are suffering from or suffered from 100% disability whether service connected or not.

Considered eligible are children of such a veteran who was a legal resident of North Carolina at the time of entrance into the Armed Forces and a veteran's children who were born in North Carolina and have lived here continuously since birth.

(These qualifications are briefly stated. Any interested persons should get full information from J. M. Caldwell, Director of the North Carolina Veterans Commission, Education Building, Raleigh.)

The choice of any state supported institution is given and approximately twenty-eight recipients of these scholarships are attending the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill during the present school year.

The maximum offering is four academic years for any one child, not necessarily consecutive and not necessarily in undergraduate work.

Free tuition, room and reasonable board allowance, and other items and institutional services such as matriculation fees, special fees and the charges required to remain in the institution and pursue the course selected are included.

"Far as I can figure," Garland Green of Louisburg, N. C. said, "it pays for everything except my laundry, books and spending money. And it has certainly meant a lot to me." Green, an average student at Laurinburg High School would not have been able to attend college without this assistance. Now he looks forward to a future in Business Administration.

North Carolina will probably have better medical care in the future because of these advantages. Peggy Parks Needham of New Bern, N. C., attending her second year on the scholarship, is presently enrolled in the School of Nursing, but her future plans include an M.D., possibly in obstetrics or surgery.

Another sophomore in the School of Nursing is Sally Perkins Winn of Henderson, N. C., who is interested in Public Health work.

John Bard Tyndall of Cherokee, N. C. is taking a pre-med course. Only a freshman, Tyndall has had much varied experience before coming to the University. At the high school division of Warren Wilson Junior College in Swannanoa, N. C. he worked in the print shop. This past summer he was an Indian dancer in the production of "Unto These Hills," the outdoor drama at Cherokee.

These are only a few of the students who are taking advantage of these scholarships. One hundred one students have attended the University of North Carolina under the provisions of the Educational Advantages for Children of World War Veterans since its inception in 1937.
