Matthews For Clean Campaign

Wade Matthews, independent presidential candidate, yesterday pledged a "clean and constructive campaign" and outlined an 11-point platform.

Matthews is a former member of both political parties. He is from Winston-Salem and served in Legislature since last Spring under the banner of both parties. He was one of the four prospective Student Party vice-presidential candidates, but lost to Baxter Miller.

"The platform represents what I believe to be some of the most important needs of the student body and student government. It is, however, far from complete since the suggestions made to me during the course of the campaign will compose a large part of the final program," the independent candidate said.

His platform promised to:

1. Work for installation of telephones on each floor of every dormitory.
2. Publish a weekly information sheet on events in the executive branch of student government.
3. Work for regular infirmary visiting hours.
4. Establish more recreational opportunities on weekends.
5. Centralize voting places.
6. Work with the administration to establish a more liberal class cut policy, higher pay scale for self-help students, coed visiting in all men's dormitory social rooms and better administration-student relations.
7. Put more emphasis on graduate students' needs.
8. Oppose any plan to restrict students from keeping automobiles on campus.
9. Urge closer contact and more co-operation between student bodies of Carolina, WC and State.
10. Conduct all business in a non-partisan manner, letting majority student opinion prevail on important issues, including NSA.
11. Appoint students to all student government positions entirely on the basis of qualifications rather than political affiliation.

An Editorial

Revival Needed

Dead for a quarter, the Carolina Quarterly seeks a financial revival Thursday night when a bill asking for help will be introduced.

Subscribers to the campus literary magazine got no issue during the Winter term but will get two issues this quarter—One, an all campus affair, according to the editors.

The Quarterly in the last few years has sagged financially and, in the eyes of many students, also in the literary realm. The charges are: 1. The Quarterly does not carry on the traditions of good writing that the University of North Carolina is known for. 2. The magazine is too aloof from students. 3. It does not contribute to the fulfillment of the needs of students with literary minds.

Such charges, true or not are grave. They are worthy of the best consideration for they represent the feelings of many students. We feel that the Quarterly is making an attempt to vaporize his discontent. From what we can learn, they have sought financial help from everywhere possible and are getting it; they have made an earnest endeavor to secure more student material, and they have tried to make the magazine more appealing.

As the Faculty Advisory Board meets to choose an editor today, they should also seek some long range plans for putting the Quarterly on a sound footing. The need for a good literary magazine has not diminished. The potentialities of a tradition established in 1844 and continued by outstanding Carolinians including Thomas Wolfe are ever-present.

Valkyrie Sing Tomorrow Night; Outstanding Coed To Be Named

The annual Valkyrie Sing will fill the air at Memorial Hall tomorrow night, with 13 campus organizations offering long-practiced songs and costume acts.

Competition will be judged by Edgar Alden, Foster Fitz-Simons, William Poteat, Mrs. Fred McCall and Wallace E. Caldwell.

Also on the program will be the presentation of the Senior Girl Cup, given annually to the campus' outstanding senior coed.

Sororities who have prepared programs for the Sing are Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Delta and Pi Beta Phi. Participating fraternities are Chi Psi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Sigma, Pi Kappa Phi and Sigma Chi.

Two women's dormitories, Carr and McIver, will participate. No men's dorms are entered this year. Last year's Sing was won by Sigma Chi, Pi Phi, Old East and Carr Dorm.

SUAB Offers Extra Movie; First Tonight

Two successful comedy features and a serious film make up tonight's movie program at Gerrard Hall.

The Student Union Activities Board will present "Duck Soup," with the Marx Brothers, "The Barber Shop," starring the late W. C. Fields, and "Brotherhood of Man," as its first film program of the Spring Quarter. Tonight's show begins at 8, doors open at 7:30.

Only advance series ticket holders will be able to see this program or the remaining four programs. Tickets for the entire series are $1.50 and may be obtained at Graham Memorial.

Bill Roth, Graham Memorial director, said yesterday a further inducement has been added to promote the sale of series tickets. W. D. Griffiths' immortal "Birth of a Nation" has been ordered by SUAB for showing at one of the programs.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" will be featured April 16, "The Gaucho" on April 30, "Torment" on May 14 and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," an academy award winner, on May 21.

Plan Worships For Holy Week

Special services are being held every day this week at the Episcopal Church in observance of Holy Week. From today through Thursday, there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7 o'clock and at 10 a.m. in the morning.

On Tuesday and Thursday, the final services in the Lenten series of afternoon services will be held. There will be a brief service of prayer and meditation on Tuesday and Wednesday, beginning at 8 o'clock in the evening and lasting for 15 minutes.

T. Dorsey Signed For Germans

Tommy Dorsey, "The Sentimental Gentleman of Swing" has been signed by the German Club to play for the Spring concert and dance. The concert is set for Saturday afternoon, April 25 and the dance for the same night.

Dorsey, who is currently observing his 17th anniversary as one of the nation's foremost bandleaders, has turned out some of the top bandleaders and vocalists. Frank Sinatra, Dick Haymes, Jo Stafford, Connie Haines and the Pied Pipers were some of them to serve their apprenticeship with him in the vocal department.

Famous bandleaders, at one time, with Dorsey are the late Glenn Miller, the late Bunny Berigan, Bob Crosby, Ray McKinley and Gene Krupa.

The trombone-playing Dorsey has made over 300 recordings which sold over 70,000,000 records. The most famous disc is his theme, "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You". Dorsey is now a Decca recording artist.

Last Chance To Purchase Invitations

The Order of the Grail will place senior invitations on sale this week. It will be the last time before graduation that seniors will be able to buy the invitations.

Invitations will be sold from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. today through Friday. Calling cards may be ordered at the same time the invitations are ordered, but the full amount must be paid when the order is taken.

Four types of announcements are available this year. Three of these have as their contents, an entire listing of the senior class, senior class officers and committees, university scenes and officials and a commencement schedule.

The difference in the prices of the three invitations depends upon (See INVITATIONS, page 2)

Yack Business Manager Asks Payment For Pages

All campus organizations that still have not paid for their pages in the Yackety Yack have been asked to do so immediately.

Russ Cowell, business manager, asked that checks be mailed to The Yackety Yack, Box 987, Chapel Hill or left in the main office of Graham Memorial.

Council Candidates

The Student Council non-partisan Selections Board will interview prospective candidates this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 3.

There are no specific requirements for Student Council except that each student must be at least a junior.

Selection of council candidates by a board rather than having them nominated by political parties as before, is result of a bill passed last quarter in Legislature.

Pratelli On Coldcuts & Colleges

Italian Scholar Wins Struggle With New World Foods, Talk

By Walt Dear

"My home town is famous for its food and its university. But when you think of the name of Bologna, you Americans can only think of the meat used for coldcuts," said Dr. Jino Pratelli, Italian Fullbright scholar visiting here last week.

Since coming to America eight months ago, Dr. Pratelli has visited Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Chicago, and more recently, Georgia Tech and Carolina. He is a civil engineer chiefly interested in regional planning. As guest speaker to the Planner's Forum, a graduate club for students in city and regional planning, he outlined some of the problems of regional planning in Italy.

Dr. Pratelli spent much of his time here talking with students, reading in the library, and enjoying the campus. Though Bologna does have rich food ("I need to take a long rest after dinner") it also has the oldest university in Europe, according to the engineer.

Eating in Chapel Hill Friday night, Dr. Pratelli had his first experience with a deviled crab, a delicacy which he enjoyed. One needed a dictionary with an illustration to define the crab adequately. The doctor was disappointed when the half shell crab appeared on the plate. "This is not the same as in the picture," he commented.

While visiting libraries in this country, Dr. Pratelli noted that most of them lack copies of foreign periodicals. "In Italy, we have the United States Information Service (a State Department agency which supplies pamphlets and books about America), while here Americans don't get a good picture of European countries," he said.

Dr. Pratelli's Italian accent is strong, but his vocabulary is excellent and he has a nicety of definition that enriches his conversation. He explained that he had had three years of English in high school, but didn't use the language much until he boarded the steamer for America. "I talked my way into understanding by conversing with as many Americans on board as possible." Former Daily Tar Heel editor and linguist Barry Farber, on liberty from the Army, exchanged greetings in Italian during the dinner.

YMCA To Elect New Officers Tonight; 4 Already Nominated

The YMCA picks its officers for the coming year tonight at 7 o'clock in the Y building, second floor.

A slate has been provided by the Nominating Committee and additional nominations may be made from the floor. Nominated by the committee are President Ned Harbin, Vice-President Robert Hyatt, Secretary Susan Fink and Treasurer Stuart Jones.

Harvin, a rising senior from Winston-Salem, has been chairman of the Committee on Work With International Students. He directed the deputations of foreign students to Mount Airy and Pittsboro. He has also been active in the YMCA World Relatedness Commission, the World Understanding Supper Forums and various YMCA weekend conferences at Camp New Hope.

Hyatt is a rising junior from Cherokee. He is chairman of the Christian Faith and Heritage Commission. He has been active in the YMCA since his freshman year, and has directed several weekend conferences. He was one of the representatives to the Southern Area Student YMCA Council meetings.

Miss Fink is a rising sophomore from Chapel Hill and has been active in the Freshman Friendship Council, the YMCA UN Committee and the Weekend Work Camp Committee.

Jones is a rising senior from Winston-Salem and has been active in the World Relatedness Commission, the World Understanding Supper Forum and the World Student Service Fund Committee. He (See YMCA, page 2)

Men Can Make Deposits For Summer, Fall Rooms

Men students may now make deposits to reserve rooms for summer sessions and the Fall semester.

Males wishing to reserve rooms for summer sessions must pay a $15 deposit to the University Cashier by April 20. Those reserving rooms for the fall semester may make the regular $6 deposit also at the Cashier's desk.

All dorms will be open for the summer sessions except Whitehead, Everett, Alexander, Lewis and Cobb.

Summer Won't 'Pound Doors'

Newest independent Tommy Summer said yesterday that he plans to "go where the students can hear what I have to offer" and give a series of dormitory discussion programs.

"Students have complained for years about having their studies interrupted by politics coming around and pounding on their doors throughout the evenings preceding elections. For this reason I am not going to conduct a 'door-pounding' campaign," declared Summer.

"I will appear at announced times and dates in the social rooms of the various dormitories to present my views and to answer questions," he added.

Butler Dies Of Injuries; Services Held Yesterday

Services were held yesterday for Dr. Pierce Butler of Chicago who died Saturday night in a Burlington hospital of injuries suffered in an auto-truck collision Thursday.

Dr. Butler who was 66, was visiting professor in the University School of Library Science. He was an author, an authority on the history of books and libraries and an ordained Episcopal minister in Chicago.

He was a passenger in the car in which George Bentley, assistant to the librarian of the University, was killed in a collision Thursday night near Burlington.

Dr. Butler was taken to the Burlington Hospital. Two other passengers in the car were injured.

Young Adults

There will be a meeting of the Young Adult Group of the Methodist Church tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Wesley Lounge of the church.
