CU's Gordon Gray Opposes Rumored Raise In Tuition

By NEIL BASS

"I am strenuously opposed to any proposed hike in the tuition rates of the Consolidated University of North Carolina for two expressed purposes," so spoke CU President Gordon Gray with a conviction ringing voice at a Cobb Dormitory discussion last evening.

Conservatively attired and enviously at ease as he chatted in formally with the dorm residents, Gray enumerated his two opposition reasons as first, "a matter of principle," and second, "a matter of practice in that a number of students are financially unable to pay more."

The graying president, scheduled to speak on the administrative structure of the Greater University, diversified his oratory to cover phases involving "that school outside of Durham that has the temporary athletic ups on us" and a wide range of other subjects.

Completely dispelling criticisms that he was not well known enough among students, Gray seemed to enjoy his "high toned bull session" and went right to the hearts of his audience with the remark that his office could best be described as "the eventual recipient of the buck."

The off the cuff discussion was the first in a series promoted by the IDC social committee.

Video Network Visits Schools In The Search

GOLDEN, Colo.—A six-man production crew from CBS Television headquarters in New York City recently visited the Colorado School of Mines, shooting scenes on uranium research at the college. Films will be part of The Search, CBS Television's major documentary effort for 1954-55.

Covering a variety of subjects, the film series will highlight major research work at 26 American universities and colleges. Colorado Mines is the smallest school in the group, and is the only institution in the Rocky Mountain region included in The Search. The series of 26 half-hour chapters, one for each school involved, will be televised weekly over the CBS television nationwide network.

On the road since last spring, the crew has been shooting film and cutting sound tape at universities all over the nation. The crew members and their equipment arrived on this campus from the university of Arkansas, where they filmed a story on research in American mountain folklore; next assignment-Tulane University for story on research in mental illnesses.

Other universities and subjects include Yale University, child study; University of Chicago, cloud and weather research; University of Iowa, speech pathology, and Texas A & M, cattle raising.

Newsweek Claims Rise Stevens Is The 'Modern Prima Donna'

The woman whom Newsweek magazine recently called "the epitome of the modern prima donna" will be presented in a concert here next Tuesday night.

The Student Entertainment Committee will present Miss Rise Stevens at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Memorial Hall.

Miss Stevens, a mezzo, made her New York Metropolitan Opera debut in the title role of Mignon, after having first sung the role in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and also the title role of Der Rosenkavalier with the Metropolitan Opera in Philadelphia, Pa.

She has appeared with other companies, including the San Francisco Opera Co., the Paris Opera, the Vienna State Opera and the Glyndebourne Music Festival.

Among the operatic roles which Miss Stevens has sung are Carmen, Delilah, Hansel, princess Marina in Boris Goudunov and Cherubino in The Marriage of Figaro.

He Don't Have No Hook Nose:

George's Benefactor Says He's Not Guilty

There is some evidence that George, the collie who is in danger of either being exiled for good from Chapel Hill or of losing his lift if no home is found for him, is not the dog which reportedly bit three people last week, according to Mrs. A. M. Jordan, treasurer of the Chapel Hill Humane Society.

Mrs. Jordan said yesterday that a University faculty member witnessed the attack of a man by a collie, and that the professor described the dog as being hooked-nosed. According to George's would-be exonerator, the campus collie does not have a hook nose. She said that another spectator saw the same dog bound against a closing car door in an attempt to attack the driver.

Mrs. Jordan is now attempting

Bryan Says Gas Prices Are Same

There has been little change in gas prices in and around Chapel Hill over the holidays, according to Norwood Bryan, student legislator investigating the situation.

Carolina Motors Co. in Carrboro still retails brand-name gas lower than any other station in the vicinity, said Bryan. The station, 3 of a mile from Chapel Hill's main stoplight, sells regular gas at 28.9 cents a gallon, while high-test goes at 33.9, with no change in prices over the holidays, he continued.

Two Phillips 66 stations which came into Chapel Hill over the holiday period have changed price statistics slightly, with gas selling for barely less than pre-holiday cost.

"Nothing can be done legally to lower prices," said Bryan. "However, I am sure that the students will follow the law of demand and buy at the less expensive stations."

English Bagby In Hospital

Dr. English Bagby, prominent and popular member of the Psychology Department, was reported as "resting comfortably" by officials of Memorial Hospital today.

Dr. Bagby was admitted to the hospital Dec. 27, in a "serious condition." Cause of the professor's illness was not disclosed.

She has sung the greatest number of starring roles in the Metropolitan Opera in one season in the entire history of the Opera.

The mezzo is the first American born opera star to create a world premiere of an Italian opera in Italy itself. She did that when she sang the title role in "The Devil's Daughter at La Scala."

Along with her operatic work, Miss Stevens has appeared on such television shows as Voice of Firestone, Toast of the Town, Comedy Hour and All Star Review. She was starred in the first opera to be televised from the Metropolitan Opera stage to the screens of movie theatres in some 50 cities across the country.

In the motion picture field, Miss Stevens appeared in such productions as The Chocolate Soldier, Going My Way and Carmen.

She has recorded for both RCA Victor and Columbia Records.

George's Petition Recalled

The anti-integration petition to the Governor state Legislature which was originated last Nov. 18 by a member of the University's faculty will be called in this week.

Dr. W. C. George, professor of histology and embryology, here said yesterday that he is now trying to call in his petition.

Concerning the number of people who have signed copies of the petition, Dr. George said that there are "a goodly number—more than I expected."

"It was our intention to limit them to Chapel Hill," said the professor concerning the area in which the copies have been circulated. "Where people from outside have asked for them I have sent them. Other than that I haven't sent them outside the county," he continued.

Dr. George's petition calls for continued segregation in the public schools on the basis of "biological and social" differences between the white and Negro races.

According to Dr. George, the petition will be presented to the Governor and the members of the State Senate and House of Representatives at the 1955 Legislature which began yesterday.

The Coffee Machine

The green bartender recently acquired by Graham Memorial is dispensing an average of 50 shots a day. But for clarification one must note that the fluid is coffee and the colorful bartender is a lime-shaded Coffee Bar vender.

Nevertheless, "the machine is no losing proposition and a definite output increase is anticipated," says Jim McIntyre, assistant GM director.

The six foot bartender, whose profits are for the GM Student Union fund, eliminates the necessity of students' having to pour their own coffee from the perculator as it issues cups either black or with cream and or sugar.

Muntzing Explains To Phi Reasons For Dance Failure

The Phi debated a bill providing for regular dorm sponsored dances at its Tuesday night meeting.

Manning Muntzing, guest speaker for the evening, outlined the necessity for such activity. A similar proposal, "Brigadoons," failed to meet the approval of the dorms last fall.

Muntzing said failure of the measure was largely the result of fear of financial responsibility imposed on the dorms, rather than disapproval of the project itself.

Most of the debate was directed against the controversial financial plan. It was passed by a vote of 7 to 3, however. The second article was passed unanimously. The final vote on the entire bill unanimously favored it.

The Phi is a debating society, and measures it passes are not made into campus law.

Budget Commission Reveals Plans For University Today

2nd Visit:

Bill Up To Repeal State Secrecy Law

RALEIGH, Jan. 5. (P)—The House got a bill to repeal the state's so-called legislative "secrecy" law, and the Senate a resolution to study the question as North Carolina's general assembly began its 1955 session today.

Consideration of the House bill was deferred for several days at the request of Speaker Larry Moore.

The Senate met at 11 a.m. and the House followed at noon.

Both houses went through the formality of electing the officers nominated at Democratic caucuses last night, with Rep. Larry Moore of Wilson as House speaker, Sen. Luther Barnhardt of Cabarrus as president of the Senate and Dr. Paul E. Jones of Pitt as Senate president pro tem.

Both houses adopted resolutions inviting Governor Hodges to appear before a joint session tomorrow to deliver his biennial message in which he is expected to urge tax increases in order to maintain state services at their present levels during the next two fiscal years. The Governor is expected to give his views on a number of other issues in his "State of the State" message.

After his election as speaker, Moore told the House, "Many problems face us." He added that "This general assembly must decide whether North Carolina is going to retrace its services to the people or levy additional revenues. Neither prospect is pleasant."

He suggested that after hearing the Governor's message and the budget proposals of the Advisory Budget Committee tomorrow, the House—as a committee of the whole—should undertake a thorough study of the budget proposals and the state's financial situation.

The colorful and dynamic secretary will speak on "Party Organization and Effective Politics" at a 6:30 dinner meeting upstairs in Lenoir Hall. Students will go through the regular line and take their trays upstairs to the north side.

John Jordan of Raleigh, president of the North Carolina Young Democrats, will introduce Mr. Eure.

Friday will be the second speaking engagement Thad Eure has had here this school year. On Nov. 18, he spoke to Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity.

Tri Delta Scholarship Being Offered

Competition for Delta Delta Delta's General Scholarship is now in progress and will continue until Feb. 25, according to an announcement received yesterday.

All women students in colleges where there are Tri Delta chapters are eligible to apply. They may, or may not, be sorority members.

The Delta Delta Delta Awards Committee will be the sole judge of the applicants. The judgements will be made on the basis of how much promise the applicants show of being valuable citizens in their future communities.

The amount of awards on any one of the 96 campuses where there are Tri Delta chapters will not exceed $200.

Application blanks are available at the office of the local Dean of Women. The completed applications should be sent to Mrs. Charles C. Perrin, Box 717, Paoli, Pa., by Feb. 25.

Council Position Open In Boy Scouts Program

Bill Roth, assistant scout executive for the Oconeechee Council in Raleigh, will be on the University campus next Monday to interview students interested in positions as Field Scout Executive.

Men interested in being interviewed should contact the Placement Service, 204 Gardner Hall. Field Scout Executives are responsible for organization of new scout units and for helping established units. The latter involves such things as leadership training courses, roundtable programs, camping events, inter-unit activities and personal help to leaders.

There are also a number of openings for counselors at camps for the coming summer.

Group Makes Report To State Legislature

By JACKIE GOODMAN

The financial fate of UNC for the next two years will probably be known today when the state's Advisory Budget Commission makes its report to the Legislature.

In making appropriations, the Legislature usually follows the recommendations of the Commission.

The report will disclose whether the Commission will recommend a raise in tuition and dormitory fees to the Legislature and how much of the University's request it will receive.

The possibility of increased fees came up at a meeting of the Commission early in September during which Consolidated University Vice President W. D. Carmichael told Commission members he would ask them to join him in requesting the Legislature to pass an act allowing the University to build dormitories with loans to be repaid from rentals.

WHAT EFFECT? LeRoy Martin, Advisory Commission member, asked of State College Chancellor Cary Bostian what the effect on his student body would be if fees were increased. Bostian answered that an increase would deprive many youths of an opportunity to obtain technical training.

Since that time, Bostian, President Gray and Chancellor Edward K. Graham of Woman's College have come out against a raise in student fees.

A resolution was adopted by the student Legislature here at its meeting last Dec. 2 by which the Legislature went on record as opposing any increase in tuition and other fees. Also in accordance with the resolution which was introduced by Charles Hyatt, letters were sent to each state legislator, accompanied by copies of the resolution.

President Gordon Gray and Chancellor Robert B. House met with the commission during September to ask appropriations for the 1955-57 biennium.

Gray, at that time, asked for an increase in his general administration budget from $79,207 last year to $129,263 this year and $188,255 for next year. He also asked for $15,000 for the new office of business manager-treasurer and secretary.

House requested an increase in the maintenance budget for the University of $905,044 for 1955-56 and one of $867,738 for 1956-57.

The University requested $1,603,500 to build a new pharmacy building and remodel Howell Hall for occupancy by the School of Journalism.

Other requested appropriations for permanent improvements were an addition to, and remodeling of, Peabody Hall, $735,000; dormitory.

"The increase," noted the report, "May be due to traffic transferring from dirt roads and from crowded major primary highways to paved secondary roads. Even so, the increase and the transfer motor vehicle usage in North Carolina has increased no more than 2 percent over 1953."

The Consolidated University's educational television station plans to make this telecast the first in a series of games to be presented during the rest of the basketball season.

Play-by-play announcing for the games will be done by Frank Waldman, sports director for WUNC-TV and former West Coast sports editor of The Christian Science Monitor.

ble of Wake Forest and Chancellor Robert B. House of Carolina will offer their best wishes to Dr. C. Sylvester Green who will join the staff Wake Forest College in March as director of alumni affairs and public relations.

At half-time of the varsity game, pictures of the old and new Wake Forest campus and historical highlights of the college will be presented.
