

WEATHER

Cloudier and warm today, with expected high of 70.

VOL. LVII NO. 114

Complete (A) Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1955

Offices in Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES TODAY

BUCKS

Bucks are needed by the University Band, says the editor. See p. 2.

The Daily Tar Heel

Tri-University Conference Scheduled To Start Today On State College Campus

RALEIGH, March 9—"Planning for the Foreseeable Future" will be the theme of the third annual Conference on the State of the University of North Carolina, which will be held at North Carolina State College Thursday and Friday.

Approximately 180 key faculty members, representing the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, Woman's College in Greensboro and State College in Raleigh, will attend the two-day assembly.

Dr. Preston W. Edsall, head of the Department of History and Political Science at State College, will serve as the general conference chairman. The conference headquarters will be at the College Union Building.

Among the conference highlights will be addresses by Governor Hodges, President Gordon Gray of the Consolidated University of North Carolina and Dr. J. Harris Purks, vice president and provost of the Consolidated University.

President Gray appointed Dr. Edsall as the general conference chairman and named six other faculty members to serve on the planning committee. They are Professors Edna Arundel and W. R. Muller, Woman's College; E. A. Cameron and Sterling A. Stoudemire, the University in Chapel Hill, and William D. Stevenson Jr. and T. L. Quay, State College. Prof. George Simpson of the University is the conference secretary.

General chairmen of the conference, during the two previous years that it has been held, have been the late Dr. Howard Odum, head of the Sociology Department at UNC, and Prof. William M. Whyburn, head of the University's Mathematics Department.

The conference theme, "Planning for the Foreseeable Future," will be divided into three main topics—"Planning for the Student," and "Planning for Extended Services to the State." Each topic will be considered by a group of about 60 delegates, headed by a chairman who will be assisted by three sub-chairmen.

The topic, "Planning for the student," will be considered by a group, headed by Prof. Richard B. Hurler, Woman's College, who will be assisted by Professors Elizabeth Cowling, Woman's College; W. L. Wiley, UNC, and Leonard W. Long State College.

The group of delegates discussing the topic, "Planning for the Faculty and Staff," will have as its chairman Prof. George Hoadley, State College. The sub-chairmen will be Professors Leonard E. Hurler, Woman's College; Floyd Stovall, UNC, and C. Addison Hickman, State College.

Dr. W. P. Richardson, UNC, will be chairman of the group considering the topic, "Planning for Extended Services to the State." Sub-chairmen will be Professors Katherine E. Roberts, Woman's College; S. H. Hobbs Jr., UNC, and J. W. Pou, N. C. State.

In commenting on the conference theme, Dr. Edsall said he regards the theme especially timely inasmuch as the report of the Commission on Higher Education cited planning as one of the major needs of higher education in North Carolina at the present time.

Registration for the conference will begin Thursday at 9 a.m. in the State College Union Building. The first general session will open Thursday at 10 a.m., with Dr. Edsall presiding. Dr. Carey H. Bostian, chancellor of State College, will welcome delegates at the opening session.

Separate sessions will follow the main meeting. Dr. Purks will speak at a luncheon to be held Thursday at 1 p.m. Following the luncheon, there will be meetings of the topic groups.

President Gray will address delegates in the auditorium of the Nelson Textile Building Thursday at 8 p.m. A reception will follow his address in the College Union Ballroom.

Group meetings will continue Friday morning and Friday afternoon.

A talk by Governor Hodges and (See CONFERENCE, page 4.)

Student Legislature Will Cool Off Tonight

By NEIL BASS

The student Legislature meets tonight at 7:30 for a cooling off session.

The comparatively mild atmosphere will be the result of student politicians' catching their breaths after steaming party nominations.

More controversy and interest were maintained at one of the nomination sessions than the other. The Student Party haggled and deliberated for two hours before it picked a nominee for the presidency of the student body.

The University Party listened to Rollie Tillman praise Ed McCurry for four minutes, and then shooed him in as their candidate by acclamation. Three more minutes elapsed and the party had given Jim Martin the right to represent it in the student body treasurer's race.

So the Legislators will shuffle into the Philanthropic Assembly hall, listen to Martin Jordan rap his gavel commanding their attention, and probably hurriedly dispose of the three bills to be considered.

According to Jack Stevens, UP floorleader, and David Reid, SP floorleader, none of the three measures to be considered promises to arouse much argument. The bill of the night, however, is one asking for legislature endorsement of the revised Interdormitory Council bylaws.

The two major changes to the bylaws are:

(1) The removal of a clause in the bylaws, and thus in the student Constitution, calling for "An advisor appointed by the University" to sit on the Council from each dorm (This vacancy has been filled by an IDC representative from each men's dorm) and,

(2) Provision for a summer school IDC.

If the Legislature approves these bylaws, they will go to the student body in a referendum for final okay. This bill is co-introduced by the SP and UP.

Other bills to come up before the body are: (1) A bill to pay Tom Creasy's way to an integration conference at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and

(2) A bill to give Carolina Forum a man on Debate Council.

Both of these ideas are introduced by the SP.

The tabulation for the year now stands at 26 bills passed by the SP and 8 for the UP.

Commenting on the year's box score Stevens of the UP said the SP measures were so much "junk mail" that looked good on the surface, but were "impossible" to carry through. He explained that although his faction was numerically behind the SP in passing bills, the few that they had rammed through were important and workable enough to more than compensate for the difference.

David Reid, SP leader, answered the statement by saying, "The SP has introduced and enacted measures we felt were to the best interest of the student body as a whole. When officials of student government are afraid to introduce legislation and work toward the completion of any project because they fear failure, then student government will be as ineffective as the measures introduced by the UP this year."

BA School's Dean's List Is Announced

Dean R. J. M. Hobbs of the School of Business Administration announced yesterday that the following students all made a B average or better on all of their courses.

Four students included in the list made all As. They are Richard Byrd, Jr., Chapel Hill; Clayton Davidson, Mooresville; William Garrison, Gastonia; Harvey Harris, Garysburg.

Those having Bs or better are Abdul Adamjee, Karachi, Pakistan; Richard Adelshelm, Pittsburgh Pa.; Robert Aldridge, Burlington; Cary Allen, Asheville; Harold Austin, Pinebluff; Joseph Bafford, Lexington; Lacy Baynes Jr., Greensboro;

Arthur Beamer, Mt. Airy; Emery Bray Jr., Mt. Airy; Robert Bridges, Lexington; Walter Bell, Durham; Martin Berger, Long Island, N. Y.;

Harold Bradshaw, Valdese; Ralph Branscomb, Winston-Salem; Aubrey Burroughs, Reidsville; George Butler, Jr., Hiwassee Dam; Richard Byrd Jr., Chapel Hill; Louis Campbell Jr., Chapel Hill; Nancy Carpenter, Charlotte; Lynn Chandler, Raleigh;

James Claiborne, Chapel Hill; Leonard Clein, Winston-Salem; Lorenza Clinard, Clemmons; Cuthbert Copeland, Tyner; Joseph Cruciani, Belle Vernon, Pa.;

Gerald Daughtridge, Rocky Mt.; Clayton Davidson, Mooresville; Charles Deal, Chapel Hill; Philip Dixon, Elizabeth City; Joshua Edwards, Kenley.

(See BA SCHOOL, page 4.)

Talented Patricia Neal

Miss Patricia Neal, above, is one of the stars of TV's Topper show. A tryout with GMAB's new Talent Bureau today could start some talented UNC student on the road to TV fame.

Talent Tryouts Today

Today's the day for student performers to try out with the newly organized GMAB Talent Bureau. Tryouts will be held in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial from 4 until 5 p.m. and again from 8 until 9 p.m. today.

Any students who try out will be rated by the judges, and those chosen will be placed on file by the Talent Bureau.

These students will be recommended by the bureau to any organizations or individuals who contact GMAB to hire entertainment.

GM Gets New Piano Today

A reception will be held at 4 p.m. today in the Main Lounge of Graham Memorial in honor of Miss Cornelia Love, who is the donor of GM's new Steinway Concert Grand piano.

Invitations to the reception have been sent to Chancellor House and other member of the administration. Jim Wallace, director of Graham Memorial, yesterday extended an invitation to "all interested people."

Miss Love lives in Chapel Hill and was for a long time an employee of the University Library. She is the sister of Spencer Love of Burlington Mills and the daughter of James Lee Love, a graduate of UNC in the class of 1884.

Miss Love has given the piano in memory of her father, who was at one time a faculty member here and later a member of the faculty of Harvard University. He made numerous contributions to the University.

Professor William Newman of the music department will play a few selections on the nine foot long Steinway at the reception.

Sophomore David Mundy Announces Candidacy For Daily Tar Heel Editorship

Creasy Says Faculty Granted Cut Request

Student body President Tom Creasy announced yesterday that the special faculty Committee on Attendance Regulations granted one of the requests he made four weeks ago.

The request was that the committee change the ruling, "an absence" during the two-day period before and after a University holiday will be counted as two cuts, be changed to read "any unexcused absence during the two-day period before and after a University holiday."

President Creasy went to the Faculty Council Feb. 4 to protest the new cut system passed by the Faculty Council last fall. His appearance before the committee was result of a student Legislature bill introduced by Manning Muntzing and Max Crohn proposing certain changes in the cut system. The change from "absence" to "unexcused absence" is the first one made by the committee.

President Creasy said "I plan to continue work with the special Committee on Attendance Regulations in the hopes that we will get further modifications of the present rule. I feel that by continued work and effort on the part of Student Government we will succeed."

Assails Kraar-Yoder Policies And Emphasis

David Mundy, former columnist for The Daily Tar Heel, yesterday made a statement in which he formally announced his candidacy for the editorship of the newspaper.

Mundy is a sophomore from Black Mountain. He is clerk of the Dialectic Literary Society.

Mundy's statement read as follows:

"I had hoped to see in the race for the editorship an opportunity for the students to make some decisions regarding conduct and policies of The Daily Tar Heel. That the two other candidates would be in the race, I know. It was only this weekend that I belatedly learned that they have formed a corporation and decided to run as candidates for a proposed co-editorship.

"This likelihood of any opportunity for the students by vote to express their desires concerning the conduct of The Daily Tar Heel, and the very unfortunate present condition of the student newspaper, have prompted my candidacy.

"The candidates for co-editor have served as associate editors of The Daily Tar Heel. At the risk of being accused of a personal attack, I must declare that they are in part responsible for the present condition of the paper.

"The news function of the student newspaper has been largely ignored by the editors.

"I cannot in justice blame the news staff for faulty and scanty coverage. The staff is pitifully small and composed chiefly of first-year students. The task of campus news coverage is simply beyond their limitations. I commend them for as well as they have done.

"The two candidates, during their period of responsibility this year, have done little to maintain a sizeable staff. I have seen a great number of students come up to The Daily Tar Heel offering to 'help out.' They receive no encouragement and leave. Their nominal superiors, the news and managing editors, simply have too much to do themselves. Were it plausible that the two candidates, reform, change their interests and emphasis, and really work at the job of publishing a paper, I would not be a candidate.

"My candidacy is no part of any plan to 'get' anyone. The paper needs whatever help that anyone can offer. Mr. Kraar and Mr. Yoder, both interesting writers, are an asset to the paper as such. It is their emphasis and management policies which give cause for concern.

"It is no plot to 'capture' the group. Were I editor, I would expect to be much too busy in the management and maintenance of an effective staff. My own opinions, quite definitely labeled as my own, would be offered on such subjects as I thought of importance to the student body. All other opinions, of whatever degree, would be quite welcome.

"In short, I do not feel that the duty of the editor is to stimulate opinion, challenge unjust prejudices and make students realize why they think as they do. The editor's, or the co-editors' duty is instead to 'get out' a paper of interest and value to the entire student body.

"It is that for which I expect to work, and for which end I expect to be a candidate for the SP endorsement next Monday."

21 Percent On Art, Science Dean's List

Approximately 21 per cent of the more than 800 students enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences completed the fall semester with a grade of B or better on all work taken, and have been named to the Dean's List released here yesterday.

Of the total number, 115 students are native North Carolinians while 56 are from out-of-state. The list includes 171 juniors and seniors.

The honor students are as follows:

Asheville—Larry H. Addington, Max H. Crohn Jr., John B. Easley, Betty C. George, Constance A. McMahon, Heyward Moore, Susie Ella Roberts, Charlotte E. Roth, L. Norman Owen and John Shorter Stevens.

Charlotte—Lucy H. Graves, Ann T. Johnston, Virginia G. Johnston, Eric A. Jonas, Louis Kraar, Joan Wells Purser, Frank L. Schrimsher, Mary Ann Shannhouse, Grady Lee Walls and Nancy Carpenter.

Chapel Hill—Calvin W. Bell, John M. Blount III, George W. Brenholtz, Paul T. Chase, John A. Edgerton, Mrs. Marion Tull Edwards, Susan B. Pink, Fred Fraley, Ellen E. Glauert, John M. Gwynn Jr., Darius B. Herring, Faison M. Hicks, Sally M. Horner, Lucia P. Johnson, Sory G. Kuralt, Charles C. Lindley Jr., Richard M. McKenna, Ronald C. Morgan, John T. Newcombe, Nicholas A. Peck, Eleanor Ann Saunders, Joanna Hill Scroggs, Nancy S. Smith, Edwin L. Stewart, George Franklin Wallin and Charles P. Wolfe.

Durham—Katherine A. Nichols and Robert S. Pullman.

Fayetteville—Glenn E. Hair, Charles Sanders and Wilbur R. Smith.

Greensboro—Richard H. Baker Jr., William C. Brewer, Melvin Litch Jr., Lutz Leo Mayer, Richard Beverly Webb and Ann Webster Wrenn.

Goldboro—William M. Ginn and William Porterfield.

Statesville—Shelton S. Alexander, Henry H. Dearman, John G. Lewis and Joseph Theodore White.

Winston-Salem—Robert D. Beverly Jr., Robert H. Hoffman, Katherine K. Kerr and Edwin Link Stockton Jr.

Other North Carolina students include Alfred L. Purrington and Sara Page Weaver, Raleigh; Patsy M. Harris, Charles E. Trado, and John Jennings White, Henderson; Morris A. Jones, James B. Lovelace Jr. and Alexander G. Ray, High Point; James W. Pruett and William Phillip Webster, Mount Airy; Billy F. Maready and Harold Lee Waters, Jacksonville; Jasper G. Gravson and Edgar W. McCurry Jr., of Shelby.

Margaret A. Barnard, Asheville; Shirley Lou Simpson, Gastonia; Archie C. Allen, Ash; Alice Lively Bost, Hickory; Bobby W. Brawley, Mooresville; Barbara J. Carter, Lake Junaluska; William C. Charles, Rocky Mount; Myra A. Davis, Albemarle; Carol Du Pler, Davidson; James M. Ellis, Tarboro; Violet K. Galvin, Fort Bragg; Frederick D. Hamrick, Rutherford; Gladys B. Hatcher, Four Oaks; Samuel P. Hines Jr., Kinston; George W. Hoffer, Sunbury; John R. Hudson Jr., Brevard; Wil-

(See DEAN'S, page 4.)

A TWO-PART SURVEY:

The Report On Higher Education

(Editor's note: This is first of two articles dealing with the report of North Carolina's Commission on Higher Education. The next will deal with the functioning of the system.)

By DAVE MUNDY

"State-Supported Higher Education in North Carolina," says the title of the green-backed pamphlet subtitled "The Report of the Commission on Higher Education." The commission was created by the General Assembly in April of 1953 and appointed by Governor Umstead in the fall of the same year.

To the person unfamiliar with the state's institutions of higher learning the report's description of them would be quite interesting.

Heading the series of descriptions of institutions is the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, which, says the report, "is one of the nation's great universities, having become a center of higher educational activities of many kinds."

North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering "has become a great center of science and technology." It is also characterized as "the technical branch of the Consolidated University of North Carolina."

Then there are the three white institutions, whose chief purpose is the retaining of teachers for the public schools. Western Carolina College (at Cullowhee) and East Carolina College at Greenville have recently dropped the teachers' part of their titles, which is indicative of curriculum expansions into the fields of business administration, nursing and courses in pre-professional subjects such as dentistry, engineering, law, and medicine.

Appalachian State Teachers College significantly and meaningfully retains the "Teachers" in its title.

Pembroke State College, established in 1887, was originally an institution restricted to the Indians of Robeson County. Action of the General Assembly in 1953 made it "possible for white students to be admitted up to a maximum of 40 per cent of the total enrollment."

There are five institutions for Negroes.

North Carolina College at Durham, with its graduate and professional schools, can be considered the Negro university.

The Negro Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina (at Greensboro) is just that. It does offer Master's degrees in several technical fields. Fayetteville State Teachers' College, Elizabeth City State Teachers' College and Winston-Salem Teachers' College are the Negro institutions for training Negro teachers.

The catalog of institutions of higher learning totals 12 four-year colleges. One isn't coeducational. One is Indian-white, five Negro and six white.