Mundy Withdraws From Daily Tar Heel Editor's Race

SP Endorses Brumfield For Head Cheerleader; Chooses Senior Class Candidates

McCurry Wants More Concern With Students

Ed McCurry, University Party presidential candidate, stressed the importance of a more active interest on the part of student government officials in the needs of individual students in a statement released yesterday.

He said that there are many problems of a less extensive nature that affect only certain groups on campus.

"I don't want anything that may interest any student to be overlooked," said McCurry. "I want attention given to the minority as well as the majority."

In his statement the presidential candidate proposed to accomplish the closer contact by issuing periodic reports to The Daily Tar Heel which would contain a report on all executive activities.

McCurry also expressed in his statement a desire to take student government to the basic levels of campus life by attending dormitory meetings and other group assemblies such as the Interfraternity Council and the Women's Residence Council. He said that his purpose in attending these meetings would be to make himself available for questions and discussions which may effect those areas relative to the student government.

Poetry Needs 'Submission'

Frost Touches Many Subjects In Lecture

Robert Frost, whose poems have been interpreted many ways by many people, last night told a Hill Hall audience a little bit about reading poetry.

"The bottom of it all," said the poet-author-lecturer, is in "submission." Frost defined "submission" as the ability to "lie back and take (poetry) until it's done what it had in it to you."

By NEIL BASS

The Student Party last night endorsed Lewis Brumfield as a candidate for UNC head cheerleader.

Frank Warren, lately at odds with the Cobb Dormitory president on political issues, nominated him. The final selection of cheerleaders will be made by a bipartisan board. So the party has just given Brumfield a vote of confidence.

The session, attended by only a handful of people, was called by the SP to wind up its candidate picking.

Three posts were filled with nominees, however, for senior class offices. Like most of the nominations of the night, acclamation was given to Shirley Jordan for secretary, Susan Fuchs for treasurer and Ancy Hoover for social chairman.

In legislative nominations nominees were selected in town men's III: Dan Turner, Bill Cyr and Jerry Brodreaux; In town men's I: Charles Ashby, Dan Wallace and Bill Moore. In dorm men's III: Andy Milnor, and town women's: Jackie Wilkins. The following slate of nominees was approved by the SP for sophomore class officers: Dave Weinberger, treasurer, and Nancy Nasseur, social chairman. Other posts had been previously selected.

Playmakers Set Courses For Summer

The Junior Playmakers, a special feature of the summer session sponsored by the Department of Dramatic Arts, will be revived this year by the Carolina Playmakers after having been discontinued for several years.

The students will gain practical experience in acting and stage production through rehearsals and performances of both the senior and junior Playmakers.

Special instructors who have been appointed to assist with the high school sessions are Louise Lamont, head of the Lamont School of Creative Dramatics in Chapel Hill, as instructor of acting; Josephina Niggle, playwright author and Professor of Dramatic Art at Woman's College, Greensboro, as instructor in playwriting; Harvey Whelstone, graduate student at the University, as instructor of stagecraft; and William O'Sullivan, star of "Almanac," WUNC-TV, as instructor in voice.

Coffee breaks were held by the sororities for pledges in connection with Greek Week.

Greek Week is the week of activities instituted by fraternities to replace the traditional Hell Week.

Tonight fraternities will give exchange dinners so pledge classes may get to know one another. A late show will be held at the Varsity for pledges at 11:30 tonight, said Stevens.

Cleaning up Victory Village, this year's pledge project, will occupy initiates Friday afternoon.

Winding up the week's events is the banquet in Lenoir Hall, Friday night. Trophies will be awarded for Field Day activities and for the best pledge class.

Burt Veazy is the other co-chairman of Greek Week.

MEN'S SELECTION BOARD

The Bipartisan Board for selection of candidates to run for seats on the Men's Honor Council in the spring elections will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Men's Council Room of Graham Memorial. The seats open on the Council are for three seniors, one junior, and one sophomore.

Kraar, Yoder Remain

(Candidates Yoder and Kraar answer Mundy's withdrawal; see story this column.)

"I will not be a candidate for editor as an independent," announced David Mundy yesterday.

Mundy opposed co-candidates Kraar and Yoder for editorship of The Daily Tar Heel. He sought endorsement from both the SP and the UP. The ex-columnist failed to obtain either party's nomination.

Mundy, in withdrawing from the race yesterday, said:

can't fight organization.

"I will not be a candidate for editor as an independent. This does not mean that I feel any less strongly about the conduct of The Daily Tar Heel; nor does it signify."

Combo Answers Mundy

Co-candidates Ed Yoder and Louis Kraar expressed "regret" upon learning of David Mundy's withdrawal from The Daily Tar Heel editorship race yesterday.

In making their statement, Kraar and Yoder said: "We learn with regret that David Mundy will not be an independent candidate for the editorship of The Daily Tar Heel."

"Without meaning to pry into his personal reasons for withdrawal, we feel that they are not altogether the reasons he gave in his statement."

"We have appeared in open debate with Mr. Mundy before the two organized political groups. We have laid our objectives, we think, and dictation."

SAYS CONDUCTOR JOHNSON:

Try Music Last

By ED MYERS

"If you can be anything else, be it, but if you find yourself trapped, then go ahead and enjoy the music profession."

This is the advice that Thor Johnson, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra and Carolina graduate, gives to all aspiring musicians.

Before assuming the Memorial Hall podium Tuesday night, which stood near the spot where Dave Brubeck "started" and "stopped" his quartet no more than a week before, Johnson talked excitedly about the class of '34 and how things have changed.

"When I was in school here music was in its infancy at Chapel Hill; why, I had more opportunities to do things than I would have had ordinarily. I directed the music for the Playmakers all four years I was here; then too, the North Carolina Symphony was just forming and there were the small ensembles and dance bands," said Johnson.

"One group I remember particularly well was the Carolina Salon Ensemble." He paused, and said in a serious tone, "be sure to spell that with one 'e'." We gave exactly 100 concerts. I shall always be grateful for so many opportunities to direct."

(As a matter of fact, Thor Johnson directed the first or-

Muntzing Fears Cars May Be Banned Here

"If student cars are to remain, not just this year alone, but for the future as well, student initiative on this problem must be forthcoming at once," said Student Party presidential candidate Muntzing in a statement issued yesterday.

Muntzing said in his statement that the problem of cars here has been mentioned in the report of the Visiting Committee of the Board of Trustees. "In 1948 Saturday classes and the semester system were also mentioned to the trustees, and five years later the semester system replaced the quarter system," said Muntzing. He added "Representatives of the faculty, meeting in Raleigh last week, adopted a measure against the possession of cars by students at the University."

"Students and the student government" must act upon the problem of cars here, according to Muntzing's statement, "if cars are not to take the route that the quarter system did."

"As immediate solutions to this problem," said the presidential candidate, "I should like to see, first, a redistricting of the present parking facilities in order that those restricted areas not presently used during the daytime may be put to their fullest advantage. This would mean dividing those parking areas which have constantly been unused into faculty and student sections."

"In the second place," said Muntzing's statement, "I should like to see a student traffic court established which would handle student violations of parking on campus and unregistered cars with all fines being reverted to student government. This money would be used to continue the improvement of the cost of campus police and secondly, to be used to the best interest of the student body, preferably in a fund for the future building of a new student union," added Muntzing.

After Investigation Talk:

Legislature To Settle Down A Little Tonight

Now that the University Party and the Student Party have picked their respective candidates for most of the major student government offices, the student Legislature can again settle down to business. The body meets tonight at 7:30.

Although the last few sessions have seen few bills passed that were of major importance to the student body as a whole, it cannot be said that the meetings were dull. For while the legislators didn't have bills to haggle over, they took to "investigating" and even, in the case of Lewis Brumfield and Frank Warren, having personal feuds among themselves.

The investigation, came as a result of an accusation that The Daily Tar Heel was lacking in "quality." One legislator even went to the extreme and called The Daily Tar Heel the "second Daily Worker." (The legislator later said the newspaper was not Communist.)

Now that the group has a busy agenda coming up, they won't have time for all these incidents.

The bills to be voted on tonight are SP-introduced measures to give the Legislature another representative on the Graham Memorial Board of Directors and, to give the nurse's dormitory a representative on the Women's Honor Council;

UP-introduced measures are: One to give the attorney general of the student government more power; one to appropriate funds to the All Campus Conference and, one to give the Dance Committee funds to publish a booklet about Carolina traditions to send to surrounding women's colleges so they will be more familiar with Carolina.

The rhythmic patterns and voicing of various instruments are also found in the works of our American composers, mainly because all of them have had experience in arranging for dance bands or playing in them."

Baumann, McCarthy, Cooke And Walker

Four senior coeds were tapped for membership in The Valkyries, highest women's honorary organization on campus, this morning in secret, pre-dawn ceremonies.

Bebe Baumann of Lakewood, Ohio; Amy Cooke of Bethesda, Md.; Jacqueline McCarthy of Norfolk, Va., and Barbara Walker of Rye, N. Y., were the four brought into the Valkyries group, which now numbers 13 active members.

Founded at UNC in 1941, the organization replaced Alpha Kappa Gamma, national honorary society, and corresponds to the local highest men's honorary society, Order of the Golden Fleece.

LIMITED MEMBERSHIP

Membership, which is limited to two per cent of the coed student body, is based on leadership, scholarship, character and service to the campus.

The four newly-tapped coeds have been prominent in all phases of campus life since coming to Chapel Hill.

$48.79 Raised Here

In Heart Fund Drive

In the recent heart fund drive, $48.79 has been raised on the Carolina campus, it was announced yesterday by the state office of the drive, headed by Bill Wood. Wood expressed his thanks to contributors.

Spring: University workmen cutting grass in front of Manning Hall; odor drifting up to second floor Saunders.

Cross-eyed, toothless Marine on poster in front of Post Office; been up there two months, now.

Label on Chapel Hill manholes: "Sanitary Sewer."

Cheerleader Interviews Set This Afternoon

The Bipartisan Board to endorse candidates for next year's head cheerleader will hold interviews today.

The board will meet in the Council Room of Graham Memorial. The meeting will begin at 4 p.m. Anyone wishing to be interviewed should be there by 4:40, according to Jim Fountain, present head cheerleader. He said the meeting will last as long as is necessary to interview all persons who have arrived by 4:30.

Fountain requested as many students as have any interest in the post to be on hand for the interviews. Those endorsed by the board will be placed on the spring elections ticket. Anyone may run independently, however.

Applicants will be quizzed as to their character, qualifications and ideas for bettering the cheerleading system in its effect, according to Fountain. He said new yells and cheerleading formations are examples of the ideas that the board will welcome from aspirants.

The board will also conduct an orientation to advise candidates of existing policies and plans, said Fountain.

Shulman Book Given Free To Students

Copies of Max Shulman Revisited, a collection of some Philip Morris Max Shulman columns, have placed around campus by Philip Morris and Company.

The copies may be obtained free by the students. A company representative said yesterday the pamphlets would be put in places around the campus such as the Y, Monogram Club and the Scuttlebutt.

The columns contained in the pamphlets are those entitled I Was Awarded A Ribbon and Promptly Put In My Typewriter, What Every Young Coed Should Wear, Clothes Make The BMOG, Science Made Simple Numbers 1 and 2 and The Treehouse Of The August Moon.
