

Tar Heel Cagers Down Tech 88-76 In Charlotte Tilt Brennan Scores For Tar Heels

CHARLOTTE, N.C. December 9 — Carolina started out tonight's game showing good drive and performance and dominated the first half to lead Tech 45 to 39 at half-time. The Tar Heels broadened their lead to a 17 point advantage midway in the final half, but Tech attempted a rally in the closing minutes against Carolina reserves and narrowed the lead to 12 points.

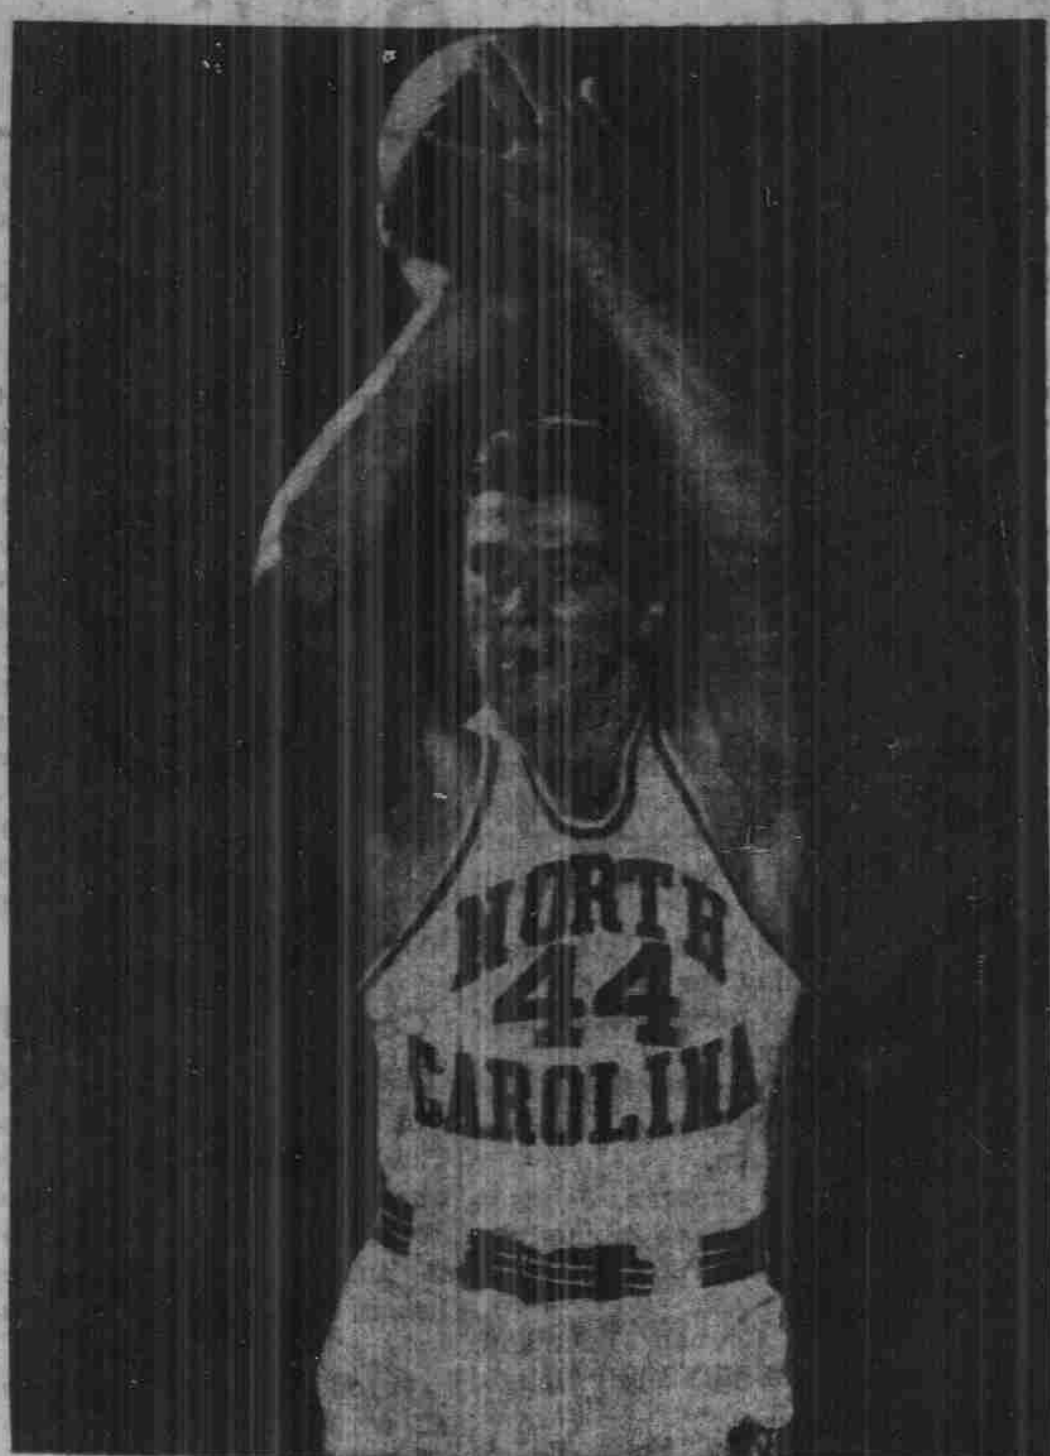

Carolina put in a good performance throughout the game with Rosenbluth, Brennan and Quigg leading the rebounding. The Tar Heels were off only in free shots getting less than 50% of their attempts.

For Georgia Tech, Joe Helms and Bob Kimmell paced the scoring hitting for 22 and 24 respectively. Kimmell accounted for 8 field goals and 8 free throws. The only other Tech player to break in the double figure scoring column was Bill Cohen who got 15 points.

Carolina will be gunning for their fourth victory of the season tonight when they return home to meet South Carolina at 8 p.m. in Woollen, Gymnasium.

Tar Heels Face Gamecocks In League Test; Frosh Meet Wake

By LARRY CHEEK
Carolina basketball, varsity and freshman varieties, will be on display before the home folks for the third time this season tonight. Coach Frank McGuire's varsity will be looking for their second conference win of the campaign when they take on the South Carolina Gamecocks at 8:00 in Woollen Gym, while in the preliminary, starting at 6:15, the talented Tar Babies will be out to make the Wake Forest Demon Deacons victim number four of the young season.

In the battle of the Carolinas, Coach McGuire's charges find themselves up against one of the most improved teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Gamecocks are sparked by Grady Wallace, a sensational 6-5 transfer student from Pikeville Junior College in Kentucky where he was the nation's leading junior college scorer last year. Wallace will receive ample support from 6-6 center Lee Collins, last year's scoring and rebounding leader for the Gamecocks. Letterman Art Smejkal is slated to team with Wallace at the other forward post, while Bobby McCoy and Benny Fannin will open at the guard slots.

The Tar Heels, 73-58 victors over Clemson last week in their conference debut, will be depending on two lettermen and a quartet of sizzling sophomores in tonight's encounter. Captain Jerry Vayda and All-American candidate Len Rosenbluth will be the experienced sparkplugs of the Carolina attack, while sophomores Joe Quigg, Pete Brennan, Tommy Kearns, and Bob Cunningham will also be counted on heavily. The starting lineup for tonight's scrap will include Quigg, Vayda, Rosenbluth, and two of the three previously mentioned boys.

Coach Buck Freeman's talented frosh have a 3-0 season's record, with wins coming over Edwards Military Institute, U. S. Atlantic Fleet Service Force, and the High Point College J. V.'s. Harvey Salzer, a 6-1 guard from Brooklyn, has been the big gun in the point making department with 27.7 average per game. 6-5 forward Danny Lotz and 6-0 guard Stan Groll have also been dependable scorers for the Tar Babies, while 6-11 center Bill Hathaway has been invaluable with his defensive work and backboard control. Gerhmann Holland, a 6-3 lad from Beauford, will round out the starting lineup at the other forward post.
