

INTERDORMITORY COUNCIL NEWS:

Former IDC Prexy Previews Work

By LEWIS BRUMFIELD
A review of the major accomplishments in dormitory affairs in the past year:
Last spring, when plans for the new dormitories were being drawn up, the IDC drew up a list of suggestions for the new dorms. Some of our suggestions will be carried out — the new dorms will have large areas in the basement for studying, social events, and for recreation, as we had recommended.

in perfect shape. The television and ping pong rooms have been used to good advantage. The IDC Social Committee is planning a spring program to utilize these facilities.
The Buildings and Grounds Dept. installed 800 towel racks in the dormitories.
A plan has been worked out for each of the men's dorms to get an extra telephone. The dormitories will, however, be responsible for paying rent on these phones.

liet with an earlier ruling of the trustees.
We also received permission to put in three skill-pool tables for a trial period, upon the condition that the profits derived from these tables would go to the Scholarship Fund.
Blazer Sales were held in the fall and in the spring. Both sales were very successful.
The Council participated in the Honor System Week by having discussions in every dormitory.
The Council By-laws were amended to provide for a stronger central organization and for the election of dormitory presidents and vice-presidents in the spring. The latter change was made to give continuity to the Council from spring to fall.

ment law. It urged them to declare that assignments will be made on the basis of "the best interest of the child" taking into consideration residence, school attended the preceding year, availability of facilities and "all other local conditions bearing upon the welfare of the child and the prospective effectiveness of his school."
It asked the board to "recognize honestly and in good faith that although there is no legal barrier to the admission of Negro children and white children to the same school, nevertheless the children of one race should do better in a public school with children of the same race.

Any students who are interested in this summer opportunity for leadership plus room, board and pay should leave their names in the YMCA Information Office here on campus. Galloway will contact each applicant for a personal interview.

the people of the state "will not support mixed schools" and expressed the belief that if the schools were integrated the Legislature would "withhold support to a degree that the result would certainly be the ruin and eventual abandonment of the public schools."

The school system has been built on the "foundation stone of separation of the races," it declared. The Supreme Court has "destroyed the school system which we had developed." However, it said, the court's decision is "the declared law and is binding upon us."

RESOLUTION OF PROTEST

The committee proposed that the Legislature adopt "a strong resolution of protest" over what it called the court's "shocking invasion" of rights which the constitution reserved to the states.

But, it said, "defiance of the Supreme Court would be foolhardy." It might alienate those "who may be won to our way of thinking," it might "forfeit consideration we must have from the federal judges if we are to educate our children now," and it "could mean the closing of the public schools very quickly."

SHARP CRITICISM

The report had sharp criticism for Negro leaders outside the state and those within the state. "who are now vocal." It declared they "appear to be totally indifferent" that "their belligerence, their attempt to use the threat of federal punishment to achieve complete integration will prevent Negro children from getting a public school education in North Carolina."

If Negro children are to be educated, the report said, it will be "as the result of the work and effort" of White people.

"But that burden must be borne and must include a willingness to provide, at whatever cost, fully adequate schools and facilities for the Negro children of our state."

NOT ENTIRELY UNSELFISH

It said this was "not entirely unselfish," for if the White race is to go forward, "the Negro must go forward also." It declared "the advancement of our economy and the preservation of our democracy depend in large part upon the education, the understanding and the morality of the Negro as well as the White."

"If there prevails ignorance in either race, servitude in either race, hatred in either race, our economy will stall, our society will seethe and our democracy will degenerate," the report declared.

It urged both whites and Negroes to "act and speak with restraint and avoid an open break between the races which would make it impossible to approach the solution of our problem in a spirit of reason and cooperation."

For this summer and fall, the committee urged local school boards to employ the school assign-
