

Tar Heels Plan New Offensive Formation For Blue Devils

Tar Babies Meet Duke In Turkey Day Scrap

By JIM HARPER

"Whoever makes the least mistakes will win." Freshman grid Coach Fred Tullai is making this his theme in final preparations for Thursday's meeting with the Duke frosh in Durham.

Tullai said yesterday of the Cerebral Palsy benefit game, "Duke will go all out to win this game. They have a good team and have lost by only a small margin when they were beaten." Duke has been defeated twice; by Wake Forest 13-12, and by State 14-13.

Coach Tullai pointed out that his team will not employ any new strategy or emphasize any one phase but will play much the same style football which has carried them to a 3-1 season's record.

The starting Tar Baby lineup will be much the same as it has been through recent games. At the ends will be Don Stallings and Ed Furjanic. The tackles will be Jim Jenret and Mike McDade. The guard slots will be filled by Fred Mueller and Ellis Woolridge. Jim Davis will once again be at the center position.

Taking the helm at quarterback will be Jack Cummings who has alternated at that spot with Nelson Lowe throughout the season.

Halfbacks will be Cornell Johnson and Wade Smith, while once again at fullback will be Jim Stevens.

Trainer John Lacey said yesterday there have been no serious injuries this week and, as rough workouts have ended, the team should be in top physical condition for the Duke battle.

Coach Tullai stated that team spirit is high and that the Tar Babies will no doubt be "up" for the Turkey Day clash. However, he pointed out the spirit is running high in the Duke camp as well. This points to a good contest in which the team with the greater desire will win.

Oklahoma Regains First In AP Poll; Vols Next

By BOB HOBBING

The Oklahoma Sooners apparently won't stand for second best—in the national football ratings as well as on the playing field.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's red shirts have regained the top spot in the Associated Press poll after spending an unhappy week as runner-up to Tennessee.

Last week marked the second time this season Oklahoma dropped a notch in the balloting of sports writers and broadcasters and the effect on the ensuing Sooner opponent was devastating.

Harriers Gave Season's Best Effort Monday

By DAVE WIBLE

Carolina's ACC cross-country crown is the "proof of the pudding." Coach Dale Ranson said yesterday, "the proof is the crown and the pudding is the work the distance men have done in the past weeks."

Coach Ranson went on to say that every man on the eight man squad put in his best performance of the season last Monday to win the title.

Jim Beatty, of course, was favored to take the individual crown, his third; but Maryland's due meet record and especially their victory over Carolina early in the season left them the favorites for the team trophy.

The Tar Heels didn't let that fact bother them. All eight Carolina runners were across the finish line before Maryland's fourth man. Carolina skunked Duke—all eight Tar Heels were across before the Blue Devil's first man.

Here is a list of the victors and the way they finished: Jim Beatty 1, Everett Whatley 5, Dave Scurlock 7, John Reaves 11, Howard Kahn 12, Ben Williams 14, Perrin Henderson 19, and Marion Griffin 21.

Beatty is not through running yet. Next Monday he will travel to Michigan State University in East Lansing, Michigan, where he will make his bid for the NCAA crown. He will meet the top distance men from all over the country. Heading the list with Beatty are: Henry Kerr, Michigan State; Ike Matza, NYU; Billy Tidwell, Kansas; and Joe Villarreal, Texas.

Reed Will Miss Game; Vale Hurt

By LARRY CHEEK

Duke Coach Bill Murray had better be on the lookout Saturday, for there's no telling just what new offensive weapon cagy Jim Tatum has up his sleeve.

The Tar Heel head mentor disclosed at his weekly press luncheon yesterday that a new formation was being cooked up for the Blue Devils. "We're having secret drills on both offense and defense all week long," said Tatum. "With Dave Reed out of the lineup, we can't use the spread, so we're going to have to try something new."

Reed, Carolina's ace quarterback, re-injured his knee in the Notre Dame game Saturday and is a very doubtful participant against the Blue Devils. Reed has been watching practice sessions this week from the sidelines on crutches, and sophomore Curt Hathaway will get the starting nod Saturday in his place.

Tatum also listed a number of other top performers who have been sidelined by injuries suffered in the Notre Dame game. Chief among the casualties is fullback Wally Vale. Vale came out of the Irish scrap with a stiff neck, but will probably start against Duke.

SWARENGEN HURT

Second string center Fred Swearingen received a severe cut on his knee that required six stitches. The cut is right on the bend of the knee, and it is doubtful whether or not the injury will heal by Saturday.

In addition, halfback Ed Sutton has a sprained little finger which may bother him some. It is hoped, however, that the minor injury will not slow down the Cullowhee Comet.

According to Tatum, the Tar Heel squad is in good spirits for the important Big Four battle. "The team has fine morale," said Big Jim. "But as far as that goes, the moral has been good ever since the Maryland game."

Tatum went on to pay tribute to the Blue Devils. "I don't know how that Duke club has lost so many," he asserted. "They've got a fine club, and nobody has really gone against them except Tennessee. We moved the ball well against Notre Dame, but that Duke line will be tough. Its much stronger than Notre Dame's."

Suspension

"Olen admitted his guilt readily," said Tatum. "He said it had preyed on his mind ever since he had been here and that it was a load off his shoulders to find his real identity discovered."

"Olen said he knew he did the wrong thing the minute he signed his application and eligibility blanks. He said that it was made clear to him then by University officials that any falsification on these blanks would mean suspension and loss of his grant-in-aid," said Tatum.

"Olen added that he blamed only himself although he had been advised by a friend in his home town to do it."

Tatum said that Olen, a good student "making normal progress toward graduation," had been completely above suspicion by his staff and the University administration. "We had no way of knowing that he was playing under an assumed name."

Olen, who has made fine progress as a player this year, would undoubtedly have played in the traditional game with Duke here Saturday.

"I am glad that it came out before the Duke game," Tatum said, "and we are embarrassed that he has competed in games here in the past. I am writing apologies to all our opponents."

Devils Prep For Tar Heels

DURHAM (AP)—Only a serious attitude of work prevailed at the Duke practice camp today, as the team went through its second workout in preparation for the season's final against Carolina's Tar Heels Saturday in Chapel Hill.

It was probably the most serious session the Blue Devils have experienced all season, as but one thought prevails in the minds of coaches and players alike—to get in top shape for Carolina. Coach Bill Murray said yesterday he anticipates his team to give the best effort of the season against the Tar Heels and also that his team would be in the best frame of mind for the clash. Today's session showed that the Blue Devils should be able to fill those qualifications.

Offense and Defense were equally stressed today as practice lasted until darkness.

PRESTON PRAISES

Scout Pat Preston was no less lavish in his praise for the big, bad Blue Devils. "They have a good, well balanced team with plenty of heft and speed," said Preston. "The line is big and fast, averaging 6'2" and 210 pounds. And they also have a very good backfield with tremendous depth at halfback.

"In addition they have a top passing attack. I just hope our boys won't go to sleep because they haven't been throwing the ball," warned Preston.

When asked how he could compare Duke with Tennessee, Preston replied, "The Duke backs have an edge over the Tennessee backs, but I'd have to take that Vol line." Preston concluded by saying that the main task facing the Tar Heels would be stopping the Duke halfbacks, fullback (Hal McElhanney) and quarterback (Sonny Jurgesen).

A large turnout is expected for the Saturday clash between the two old rivals. At least 31,000 tickets have already been sold, and a crowd of 35 to 40 thousand is anticipated.

Duke has won the last six games in a row, with the last Carolina victory coming by a narrow 21-20 margin in 1949. The Tar Heels rolled up four straight victories during the post-war years when Charley Justice was here, but wins have been scarce since then.

Del Ennis Is Traded

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Outfielder Del Ennis, the backbone of the Philadelphia Phillies attack ever since he joined the club 11 years ago, yesterday was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals for outfielder Rip Repulski and utility infielder Bobby Morgan.

Ennis, 31, batted .280 last season, driving in 95 runs, hitting 26 home runs and collecting 164 hits. Repulski, 28, hit .277, batted home 55 runs, smacked 11 homers and totaled 104 hits.
