

ON POLITICS, GENERAL SUBJECTS

Ga. Attorney To Talk Here Today, Tomorrow

James A. Mackay, representative in the Georgia General Assembly and prominent Decatur, Ga. attorney, will be on campus today and tomorrow to speak to several campus groups on political and general subjects.

Mackay's appearance on campus is sponsored by the YM-YWCA. His main address today will concern the subject, "The Role of Georgia in National and International Politics." This high light of Mackay's schedule will take place at 6 p.m. in the upstairs dining room of Lenoir Hall.

Tomorrow, Mackay will address political science classes at 8 a.m. in 106 Hanes Hall and at 11 a.m. in 106 Carroll Hall.

Mackay's schedule for tomorrow afternoon takes him to Roland Parker Lounges one and two, where he will speak at 2 o'clock on "Christianity and Student Government."

Mackay received an A.B. degree at Emory University and later did graduate work at Duke University. He served for some time as lecturer in law at the Emory University Law School.

JAMES A. MACKAY speaks today and tomorrow

And the Best Christmas Cards Cost a Nickel at The Intimate Bookshop

Cooley Asks Penny Cut On Cigaret Tax

WASHINGTON—Congressional tax writers were urged Wednesday to cut levies on cigarettes and cigars. Witnesses at a House hearing said the tobacco industry is "sick."

Two members of Congress, Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture Committee and Rep. McMillan (D-SC), urged a House Ways and Means subcommittee to recommend slicing one cent a pack off the cigaret tax.

Cooley said flue-cured tobacco has been brought to a "precarious situation" first by plant disease, then by the unexpectedly high yield of new disease-resistant varieties.

Urging repeal of the "one cent extra tax imposed during the Korean conflict," Cooley said, "you are taxing a sick industry."

He testified all segments of the industry agree the tax cut is needed, and that it would help the farmer directly as well as assist in building up consumption of cigarets.

Morehead

(Continued from page 1)

the original plan of the program was to provide maximum benefits to undergraduates.

"The trustees feel that undergraduates make more vital contributions to campus life than do graduates," Fetzer said. And the University can gain more from the undergraduates, he added.

The awards, given with no quota or set number in mind, were made last year to four graduate students, 28 freshmen and two junior college students. Graduates received $1,500 and undergraduates got $1,250. In the past, winners of the awards continued to collect each year, if they kept up their good standings.

Presently there are eight graduate students with the scholarships, and 72 undergraduates.

A total of 15 graduates have received their degrees, and four students who were junior college transfers received regular liberal arts degrees. The first class of undergraduates with Morehead scholars will graduate this June. There will be seven graduating, who were Morehead scholars. One boy who was to have finished this year graduated last year.

Trio Plays Here Dec. 9 In Musicales

A piano, cello and violin concert will be featured on Les Petites Musicales' Dec. 9 program held in Graham Memorial's main lounge at 8 p.m.

Pianist Robert Wallenborn of UNC's music faculty, violinist Julia Mueller and cellist William Klein, both of the Duke University Music Department, are artists for the concert.

Presented on the evening's program will be a survey of French music centered around works of the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth centuries.

Included on the program are Couperin's "Concert Royal," a suite of eighteenth century dances, a trio by Chausson, and a trio by Ravel. One of the Impressionist composers, Ravel is known to concert audiences for his "Bolero," and music for the ballet "Daphnis and Chloe."

The concert will be presented jointly at Duke University on Dec. 14.

No admission is charged for the GMAA-sponsored program.

Mountain Climbing Anyone?

Mountain climbing has a foothold at Carolina.

Mrs. Julia Ivey, Wilson Library worker, was checking through a book pertaining to mountain climbing last week, when a slip of paper at the front of the book caught her eye.

It was a note, inviting students interested in obtaining greater heights to join Bill Stewart of Old East Dormitory in scaling the Tetons and other ranges out West next summer.

Interest whetted, Mrs. Ivey delved into other manuscripts on the subject and discovered more notes of the same variety as the first.

Fearing that these invitations might slip from the books unnoticed, Mrs. Ivey aided the eager reader by clipping his notices to the pockets of the books.

Students really and truly interested in this sort of thing may get a glimpse of the Tetons, in Wyoming, as displayed by a local dry-cleaning firm in its window.

Those interested have been asked to see Stewart, 11 Old East.

Dean At Meet

Dean J. C. Sitterson of the College of Arts and Sciences is attending the meeting of Southern Assn. of Colleges and Secondary School in Dallas, Texas.

Carolina Business Students To Get Insurance Magazine

UNC is one of more than 100 colleges and universities at which "Insurance World 1957," a new slick-paper magazine published by a group of Yale University students, will be distributed free.

The two-volume, 224 page magazine, with two separate East and West editions, is a business proposition with a serious purpose, that of presenting a complete and objective analysis of the American insurance industry.

More than 300,000 undergraduate students in the nation and Canada are scheduled to receive the magazine, direct by mail, or through special distributing agents on respective campuses.

The publication will be distributed here by members of the Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternities.

Milner To Head Rhodes Scholar NC Committee

GREENSBORO (AP)—Dr. Clyde A. Milner, president of Guilford College, has again been named chairman of the North Carolina State committee for selection of Rhodes scholars, it was announced Wednesday.

At the same time, it was announced that the selection committee in each state will meet Dec. 12 to hold personal interviews with the candidates designated by their colleges and universities to compete for the scholarships.

Other committee members are the Rev. E. F. Mosely, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church in Kingston; Dr. Robert Lee Humber, Greenville attorney; W. A. Roseborough of Durham, and S. Shepard Jones, professor of political science at the University of North Carolina.

Folklore Group Meets Today

The North Carolina Folklore Society will hold its 45th meeting tomorrow at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh. Dr. A. P. Hudson announced recently.

Dr. Hudson, secretary-treasurer, said the program will begin at 2:30 p.m., with Prof. Richard G. Walser of State College presiding. In addition to a number of speakers, the society will hear a report on "North Carolina Folklore," the society's official journal, and will elect officers for 1957.

Dr. Norman Eliason of the UNC English Dept. is one of the speakers. His topic will be "Tarheel Talk," the same name of the recently published book which he wrote.

DR. NORMAN ELIS ELIASON speaks at Folklore Society

International

(Continued from Page 1)

Associated Press' New York headquarters, then refer to the teletype that will be mounted in The Daily Tar Heel's offices.

"That means a story that happens in London will be reported on our wire almost immediately," Powledge explained. "The same thing goes for important stories that happen in the United States or anywhere else in the world."

The teletype will be the third such machine maintained by the Daily Tar Heel.

1. A teletype which brings in sports news from all over the United States.

2. One which handles all The Associated Press' North Carolina news. The Daily Tar Heel can transmit messages and stories on this wire, said Powledge.

The editor said he plans to devote "somewhere around a column per day" to national and international news.

WILL VARY

"It will vary a great deal, however," he said. "On days like Wednesday, when we have a six-page paper and more room for campus news, we can afford to spend more space on the world and national situation."

"On days when there are a lot of advertisements and a bulk of campus news, we will have to cut the world and national report down considerably."

"We always favor campus news over any other kind," he said, "because we are the only newspaper that care about the University of North Carolina above anything else. Since the students pay for The Daily Tar Heel whether they want it or not, we are aware of a tremendous responsibility. I do not think the students will be disappointed when the teletype starts after Christmas."

Speech, Films Planned For Transport Majors

Dr. H. Jackson Darst, Educational Advisor to the Commandant at the Army's Transportation School at Fort Eustis, Va., will speak to the members of the UNC chapter of the National Defense Transportation Assn. on Tuesday night.

All transportation students and majors are urged to attend the meeting which will be held in Lenoir Hall at 7 p.m.

In addition to his speech, Dr. Darst will show films of the equipment and various modes of transportation used by the Transportation Corps.

Physicians Throughout State Are Here Today For Meeting

Physicians from throughout North Carolina will take part in a one-day regional meeting of the American College of Physicians here today.

The meeting will be held at the UNC School of Medicine. Dr. J. W. R. Norton, state health officer of Raleigh, will be one of the speakers on the program. Dr. Norton will speak on "Epidemiology of Infantile Paralysis as Modified by Salk Vaccine; Future Risks to Adults in North Carolina."

Dr. Walter L. Palmer, president of the American College of Physicians and professor of medicine at the University of Chicago, will speak at a dinner to be held at the Carolina Inn at 7 p.m.

Registration will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium on the fourth floor of Memorial Hospital. The meeting will get underway at 2 p.m. with a talk by Dr. Raymond M. Wheeler of Charlotte.

Others appearing on the program will be Drs. Thomas B. Barnett, UNC School of Medicine; Benjamin F. Martin, Winston-Salem; James M. Alexander, Charlotte; Logan O. Jones, Charlotte; George J. Baylin, Durham; and George P. Penick, UNC School of Medicine and John R. Chambliss, Rocky Mount.

Following a 10-minute intermission a panel discussion will be held at 4 p.m. Taking part in this will be Drs. Ernest H. Yount, Winston-Salem; Harold D. Green, Winston-Salem; Keith S. Grimson, Durham and James W. Woods, UNC School of Medicine.

THE HOUSE OF FASHION

PRESENTS

MISS BARBARA HONEY

THIS MONTH'S

"Miss Fashionplate"

Polished elegance is Miss Honey's theme. Here she is pictured ready for the most festive of Christmas balls... in a white taffeta with that important fair lady draping... note the flattering gentle fullness of the skirt... the clusters of compliment provoking sparkling gold sequins.

A junior from Charlotte, Miss Honey is a sociology major and a pledge of Kappa Delta Sorority.

J. B. Robbins House of Fashion is happy to present Miss Barbara Honey as Miss Fashionplate of December. In honor of her election, Miss Honey will receive a gift from the House of Fashion.

Who will be "Miss Fashionplate" in January? Contestants are pictured below. The deadline for voting is January 3.

VOTE NOW FOR YOUR FAVORITE AT THE "HOUSE OF FASHION."

Miss Grace Boney... Senior education major from Wallace... Pi Beta Phi Sorority... loves the feminine touch which is being emphasized in this season's showings.

Miss Mary "Pee Wee" Batten... Senior radio-television major from Mt. Gilead... Kappa Delta Sorority... noted for her singing and ukelele renditions... prefers knitted costumes and high skinny heels.

Miss Bobbi Smith... vivacious junior from Bangor, Pennsylvania... Tri Delta transfer from William & Mary... favors reds and beiges with regal touches of luxury...

J. B. Robbins

Of Chapel Hill

Got these in your holiday plans?

This all-Arrow outfit can make a Christmas morning. (With a couple of well-placed hints, it can be yours.) For your Christmas checklist: this stand-out Cabot sport shirt of imported cotton flannel, with the new short-point collar; and two college standbys, Arrow slacks and University styled crew neck sweaters.

Shirt, $5.95; sweater, $11.95; slacks, $12.95.

ARROW

—first in fashion

SHIRTS • TIES • SLACKS