Eisenhower To Give Military Assistance To Saudi Arabia

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower is understood to have assured King Saud that the United States is prepared to help expand and modernize Saudi Arabia's military force.

But there is no agreement yet on how much aid the United States will give.

Meanwhile, the prospect for a program of economic assistance to Saudi Arabia is growing weaker. Informed officials said Congress could be shown that military assistance would be in this country's interest. But they said it would be hard to sell Congress on economic aid for a king who draws 300 million dollars a year in oil royalties.

Remarks by Secretary of State Dulles and Eisenhower Friday indicated they feel Saudi's visit here is proving to be a great achievement in the struggle to keep Soviet influence from taking over in the Middle East.

US, Britain Pledge Solidarity

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States and Britain, whose relations were chilled by the Suez crisis, pledged anew Saturday their "solidarity" in defense aims.

That was among the points listed in a joint communique series of talks held by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Defense Minister Duncan Sandys.

The meetings, the official announcement and the subsequent informal remarks of Sandys seemed to show that some warmth is returning to the Anglo-American relations, damaged by the British-French attack on Egypt.

The communique, issued as Sandys departed for home, also said that "the possible adoption by Britain of certain American weapons was explored, and this matter is being referred to the two governments for further consideration."

Officials of the two governments declined to elaborate on this. However, there were reports that one of the main topics in the talks concerned Britain's desire to acquire some American guided missiles, including anti-aircraft weapons and short range bombardment missiles which could use nuclear warheads.

Egypt Agrees To UN Border Troops

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP) — Egypt agreed Saturday to having U.N. emergency forces on the uneasy armistice border line with Israel but remained non-committal about putting them on peace patrol in the Gulf of Aqaba area.

Mahmoud Fawzi, foreign minister of Egypt, briefly stated to an extraordinary Saturday session of the General Assembly his government's stand in answer to a plea by the United States to Israel and Egypt to accept a compromise peace plan.

Israel was silent but has been reported cool to the plan. U.S. chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge,

Jr. made two appeals for acceptance of the plan. At the end, he said solemnly he could not predict the consequences if Israel fails to comply with the will of the Assembly and withdraw from all of Egypt.

Lodge appealed also to the Assembly for support but ran into adamant objections from the Soviet bloc. Speakers from the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Albania hit part of the plan as a new attempt by the United States to impose imperialism on the Middle East in the form of the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Death Toll From Crashes At 51

(AP) — Six more American planes went down in fatal crashes Saturday at home and abroad, bringing the toll since Thursday to at least 51 dead and nearly 150 injured.

Eleven planes, including a private craft, single-seater jet fighters and an airliner carrying 101 persons, were destroyed in nine separate accidents, two of them involving in-flight collisions.

Counted yesterday were: The crash of an F9F Panther jet on the side of Mt. Baldy, south-east of Palmdale, Calif.

The collision of two U.S. Air Force KB29 aerial tankers in the air above a Normandy field near St. Lo, France.

The crash of an Air Force F86 jet during a landing at Hanscom AFB near Bedford, Mass., killing the pilot; Capt. Gordon E. DeGroat, 31, Nutting Lake, Mass.

The explosion in flight and crash of a Navy F7U Cutlass jet fighter on the Camp Matthews rifle range near San Diego, Calif. The pilot was killed and a shed set afire.

Phi To Discuss Eisenhower's Mid-East Plan

A resolution favoring the Eisenhower doctrine in the Middle East will come before the Philanthropic Literary Society during their meeting on the top floor of New East, Tuesday, 8 p.m.

The bill explicitly states: "The assembly of the Philanthropic Literary Society go on record favoring the Eisenhower doctrine in the Mid-East, such doctrine being defined as (a) congressional delegation of power to the President to use American military forces, if necessary, in support of any country which might be invaded by the Communists; (b) such action be contingent upon the invitation of the country under attack; (c) congressional authorization of an enlarged program of economic aid to that area."

In support of the resolution the preface claims, "a power vacuum has been created in the Mid-East by the withdrawal of French and British military forces, and the expansion of Communist control and influence into said area is eminently probable."

More Women Volunteers Are Needed At Hospital

Additional women volunteer workers are needed at Memorial Hospital, according to hospital officials.

There are openings for volunteer workers in all branches of the volunteer program, officials said. At present, there is a need for workers in the admitting office and the hospital shop. Women wishing to take part in volunteer work have been requested to call Mrs. Viola Jacobs at the hospital.

The need was also cited for donations of current magazines or magazine subscriptions. The magazines will be placed in the hospital waiting rooms.

Umbrella Season To End Tuesday

Better keep the raincoats and umbrellas handy — at least until Tuesday.

More rain is expected today and tomorrow, according to the Weather Bureau at the Raleigh-Durham Airport. It is expected to begin clearing up on Tuesday. The temperature today and tomorrow will be cool but not especially cold.

Menon's Address Is Rescheduled Here For February 11 By Forum

Talk To Begin At 8 Following Banquet At Inn

The Carolina Forum has rescheduled V. K. Krishna Menon to speak Feb. 11, at 8 p.m. in Hill Hall.

Before the speech Menon will attend a banquet in the main hall of Carolina Inn. Student leaders and some faculty members will be invited, according to Whit Whitfield, secretary of the Forum.

After the address there will be a question and answer session and then a reception at Graham Memorial.

Menon, chief of India's delegation to the United Nations, was originally scheduled to talk Dec. 10, but the Hungarian crisis and the special sessions of the United Nations forced him to postpone his engagement.

In 1928 Menon reactivated the India League of the United Kingdom, an organization which supported India's struggle for independence. From that time until 1947 he remained secretary of the league, carrying on a vigorous campaign for the independence of India.

Menon is regarded by some as being second only to Nehru on the Indian political scene.

Menon will be the second speaker this school year. No definite announcement has been set for his third speaker.

WORKS OF FIVE MEN:

Pianist To Play Today

Works by five leading composers will be featured on tonight's Les Petites Musicales concert by pianist Helen McGraw.

Les Petites Musicales will be presented in Graham Memorial's main lounge at 8 p.m. Called "a pianist of the great school" by a French critic, Miss McGraw has done extensive concert work with orchestras and as soloist both in this country and abroad. She has appeared nine times at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, playing at her last performance the Beethoven Fourth Concerto in G Major with the National Gallery Orchestra.

A pupil of the Russian pianist Alexander Sklarevski, Helen McGraw continued her studies at Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore and in Paris. Honors which she has won during her musical career include the Peabody Conservatory Artists Diploma, the Walter Naumburg Foundation award, and the opening of the first annual Festival of American Music.

In tonight's concert Miss McGraw will play the "Toccata," "Corrente," "Sarabande," and Gavotta" by Bach, Beethoven's "Sonata A Major Op. 101," "Les Oiseaux Tristes" by Ravel, Bartok's "Valse," and the Sixth Sonata by Serge Prokofieff.

No admission is charged for the G.M.A.B.-sponsored program.

Staff Meeting To Be Held On Tuesday

A meeting of The Daily Tar Heel staff has been scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at 2 in the newsroom.

All reporters, columnists, sports reporters and members of the editorial staff have been asked to attend. Charlie Sloan, Daily Tar Heel managing editor, has also invited everyone who meant to apply for reporter work last semester but never got around to it to attend the meeting.

Reporters who did outstanding work during the last semester will be assigned regular news beats. Editor Fred Powledge said there will be several revisions in staff organization made at the meeting.

Legislature To Meet

The Student Legislature will meet Thursday night on the fourth floor of New East at 7:15. It was announced yesterday by Sonny Evans, speaker.

Kincaid Named Carolina Forum Head Jan. 19

Brandon Kincaid, a junior from Statesville, was elected Chairman of the Carolina Forum by a unanimous vote during a Forum meeting Jan. 18.

He will replace Jim Holmes, who resigned his position Jan. 14.

Kincaid was appointed a member of the Carolina Forum to represent President of the Student Body Bob Young. The new Carolina Forum Representative from the Dialectic Senate, Gary Greer, nominated Kincaid for the chairmanship. No other nominations were made.

Whit Whitfield was the only other member present. Jim Holmes presided over the meeting but did not vote.

Carolina Forum Representative from the Philanthropic Literary Society, Jess Stribling, was the only member absent.

Petitioning Begun For Comic Strip

A petition to have the comic strip "Peanuts" placed regularly in the Daily Tar Heel has been drawn up by two UNC students, Bob Gedney and Joe Adams.

According to Gedney, another student, Fred W. Burrill, was responsible for starting the campaign to bring "Peanuts" to Chapel Hill. 250 names were attached to the petition yesterday when it was circulated in "Y" court.

Originally, the students planned to circulate a petition to replace "Pogo" with "Peanuts." Due to the large number of "Pogo" fans however, the petition now states that the Daily Tar Heel will carry three comic strips, "Pogo," "L'I Abner," and "Peanuts."

Band Concert Scheduled Here At 4 p.m. Today

Approximately 100 high school musicians, comprising the East Central N. C. All-State High School Band will present a concert in Hill Hall today at 4 p.m.

According to Professor Earl Slocum of the UNC Dept. of Music, musicians participating in the event represent the select members of bands in 16 high schools in Central North Carolina.

The musical presentation will climax a three-day East Central All-State High School Band Clinic which began here Friday. The group will be directed by Herbert W. Fred, recently appointed director of bands at UNC.

Dorms Still Overcrowded

Naval Unit To Appear In Parade

The University's Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps unit, first to represent the NROTC in a Presidential inaugural parade last week, will do a repeat performance in Raleigh Thursday.

The local unit will send its precision drill team, drum and bugle corps and color guard to appear in Gov. Hodges' inaugural parade, Capt. A. M. Patterson, commanding officer, announced Friday.

The 34-man precision drill team will be under the command of Midshipman Lt. James K. Bryant Jr. of Elkin.

Commanding the 32-member drum and bugle corps will be Midn. Lt. Fredric C. Byrum of Edenton.

The color guard will be composed of the following: Midn. Chief Petty Officer Maurice Glatzer, national color bearer, of Kensington, Md.; Midn. C. P. O. Telfair Mahaffy, unit color bearer of Jacksonville, Fla.; and color guards Midn. P. O. First Class Walter T. Rose, Jr. of S. Miami, Fla. and Grady C. Prigden Jr. of Sharpsburg.

Colloquium Will Hear Dr. Stace

W. T. Stace, professor emeritus of philosophy at Princeton University, will present a paper at a meeting Wednesday of the UNC-Duke Joint Colloquium in Philosophy.

Dr. Stace's paper is entitled "Some Reflections on Empiricism." The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Morehead Bldg. Faculty Lounge.

Professor Stace was born in London, England, in 1886. He was educated at Fettes College, Edinburgh, and majored in philosophy at Trinity College, Dublin, where he received his B.A. in 1908.

From 1910 to 1932 he served in the Ceylon Civil Service, holding appointments as magistrate, district judge, private secretary to the governor, mayor of Colombo, and member of the Legislative Council. In Ceylon he acquired an interest in Buddhism and Hindu religions and philosophies.

In 1929 Dr. Stace obtained a Litt. D. from Trinity College, Dublin, presenting his book, The Philosophy of Hegel, as thesis. In 1932 he retired from the Ceylon Civil Service and came to Princeton University as lecturer, where he has been professor of philosophy since 1935.

He is the author of Time and Eternity, a philosophical study of religion, published by the Princeton University Press; The Destiny of Western Man, for which he obtained a prize offered by Reynal and Hitchcock for any book on any subject written by a college professor; A Critical History of Greek Philosophy; Religion and the Modern Mind and a number of more technical philosophical books.

Students in the infirmary yesterday included:

Misses Jane Patterson Stainback, Sylvia Sue Yelton, Pan Laura Lu, and Howard Martin Kahn, Patrick Jackson Leonard, Douglas Wilson Sharp, Marvin Russell Cowan, Marvin Byron Smith, Kenneth Barnum Alvord, Robert Ranson Williams and Kee Yoo.

Enrollment Decline Is Little Help

By EDITH MACKINNON

The slight decline in enrollment for the spring semester is expected to have little effect on the crowded dormitory situation still present on campus.

According to J. E. Wadsworth, housing director, the drop in enrollment is not enough to make a great difference in the worst housing shortage in the history of the University.

The 115 new students entering for spring semester, plus about the same number of former students not enrolled in the fall, brought the spring enrollment to approximately 6,615. This figure is some 350 students less than the near record fall enrollment of 6,971.

Wadsworth stated that there were no dormitory vacancies for men in double rooms, and that quite a number of men still remain in triple rooms. The rooms, originally designed for two men, provide crowded living quarters.

The smaller spring enrollment is expected to bring little change in the dormitory space for coeds, many of whom are still sharing three girl rooms.

"The only way to really help the situation is to get new dormitory space which is still in the offing, or to have a terrific drop in enrollment, which is not expected," stated Wadsworth. "In fact, the opposite is expected, it is predicted, that the enrollment will continue to increase next year," he said.

Work will continue throughout the semester to alleviate the situation in the three man rooms, where, according to Wadsworth, "the men should not have been in the first place."

Elsewhere In US It's Clear And Snowing

Skies cleared in the east and northeast Saturday but rain and snow fell in central and western sections of the country.

The disturbance that brought new snow to much of the east whisked out into the Atlantic Ocean. New York City had 5.8 inches of snow in a 13-hour period that ended early in the day. But rising temperatures indicated the snow cover wouldn't last long.

Skies also cleared in the Appalachian flood area.

Rain fell again in a belt that stretched along the Gulf Coast and curved up into South Carolina.

Snow was reported in the Upper Mississippi Valley. One and two inch falls occurred in Wisconsin and Minnesota. There were scattered areas of freezing drizzle and light snow between Kansas and Nebraska and the Great Lakes Region.

One UNC Student Wins National Contest Prize

Curtiss W. Daughtry, junior from Smithfield, was the only UNC student to win a prize in the Reader's Digest College Contest last fall.

Reader's Digest announced Daughtry, number 50, would win $10 in book credits at college book stores for being in the first 112 entrants and $10 more in book credits for being the best entry from his university.

In all, four people attending college in North Carolina won prizes in this contest to choose to choose the six articles in the October issue of Reader's Digest which a later readership survey would find most interesting.
