As Platforms For Tar Heel Editorship, Sloan Promises Unbiased Coverage; Crowther Sees Large Morale Shortage

Most Important Issue Shunned Says Crowther

The lack of morale among teachers and students at UNC has assumed the proportions of acrisis, according to Frank Crowther, independent candidate for editor of the Daily Tar Heel.

This issue has been overlooked by both his opponents, he said in a statement to the Daily Tar Heel yesterday.

He said it is a problem that "all of us . . . must rise to meet." He added that he thought he could contribute more in this direction as editor of the publication.

"One of the most important issues in this coming election has been neglected or overlooked by my two opponents," Crowther told the Tar Heel. "We should naturally be concerned with the paper itself, and put forth our respective platforms relating to the change and improvements which we plan for the Tar Heel. But there is another problem on the campus at this time which also demands immediate attention. More than a problem, it is a crisis. "Chapel Hill has taken on the aspect of Mortuary Hill. The tra-

IWA, Dorms Sponsor Ball Friday Night

"Blarney's Ball," a party sponsored by the independent women and four men's dorms, will be held in Cobb basement Friday night, from 8 p.m. until 12 midnight, according to Benny Thomas, IWC social chairman.

The Hillside Joymakers combo from Durham will entertain.

The men's dorms having the party with the independents include Alexander, Grimes, B.V.P. and Old East. Residents of the four men's dorms will come by the respective women's dorms at approximately 7:45 p.m. to escort the independents to Cobb basement.

St. Patrick's Day, from which the name "Blarney's Ball" is derived, will be the theme of the dance decorations.

"It is hoped that more groups of both boys and girls will attend since dating per se has been strongly discouraged but not prohibited," Thomas said.

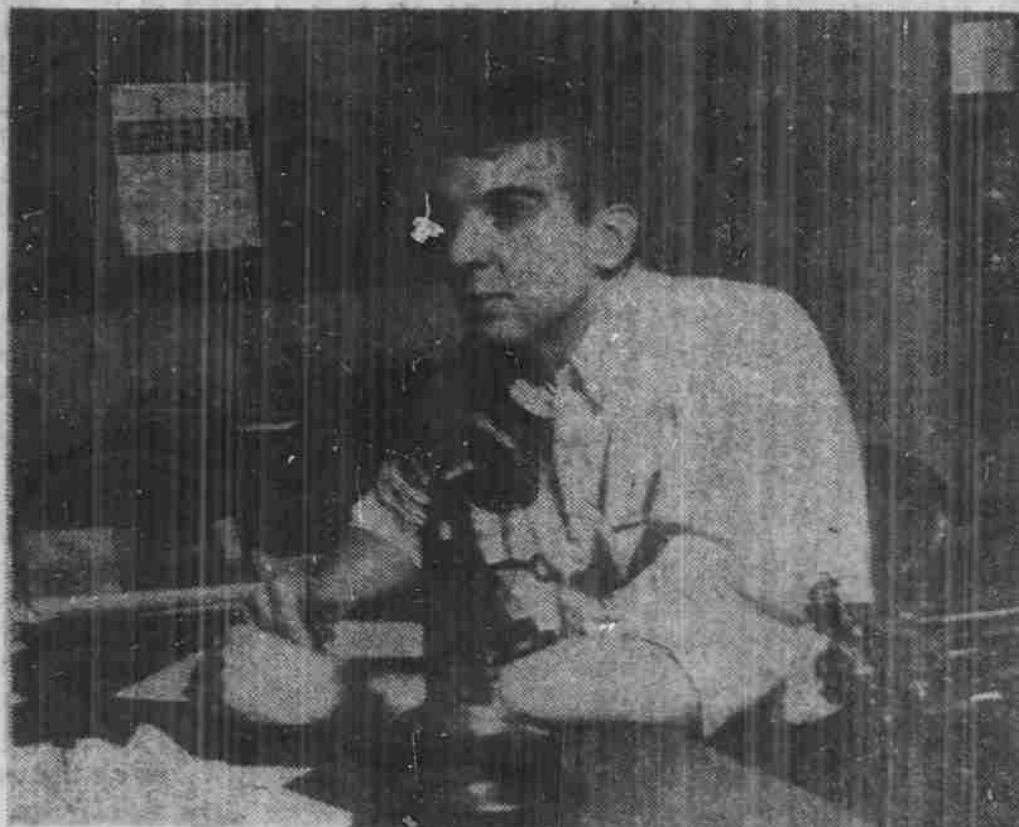

Both men and women may bring dates if they like, but people without dates have been encouraged to attend the dance.

It is to be an informal affair with women not wearing heels and stockings, and men not wearing coats and ties. However, if students want to "dress up," they may do so, according to Thomas. "Blarney's Ball" has been approved by the Dean of Women and the University Dance Committee.

"I hope that every one of the independent women and the residents of the above four mentioned dorms will come on over to Cobb basement Friday night and let's make "Blarney's Ball" a real blast, stated Thomas.

CLARKE JONES
new managing editor

Sloan Resigns Position; Jones Named Successor

Clarke Jones, junior from Charlotte, yesterday was named managing editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

Jones will take the place of Charlie Sloan, managing editor for this academic year. Sloan resigned yesterday to conduct his campaign for editorship of the student newspaper in spring elections.

Editor Fred Knowledge, who named Jones to the second highest Daily Tar Heel post, said: "Clarke has worked for, with and on The Daily Tar Heel ever since he transferred here from Furman two years ago. He has been the most faithful worker the newspaper has had this year. He has done practically every job the newspaper offers, and has missed a great number of meals and a great deal of sleep in doing it.

"He will make a fine managing editor."

As managing editor, Jones will supervise and be responsible for the mechanical production of the newspaper. His office, along with other Daily Tar Heel editorial offices, is on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Staff Meeting Today

There will be a Daily Tar Heel staff meeting today at 3 p.m. in the newsroom office. All staffers have been urged to attend.

At the meeting, the policy of the paper in regards to the spring election will be discussed, according to Managing Editor Clarke Jones.

ALSO OTHERS NOMINATED:

Belle Corey Nominated For YWCA's President

Miss Belle Corey heads the YWCA slate of candidates announced yesterday by the Y officials after the official slate was announced and nominations were made from the floor at a meeting open to all Y members.

Nominated by the Y for vice-president was Miss Ann Morgan. Other nominees are as follows:

Secretary, Misses Molly Adams, Barbara Fowler and Cynthia Seagraves; treasurer, Misses Ann Holt and Lloyd Dougherty; program chairman, Miss Eve McClatchey, Phyllis Kraft and Mary Moore Mason; and membership chairman, Misses Mary Louise Bizzell and Lucinda Holderness.

Miss Corey, the presidential nominee, is a rising senior from Atlanta who attended Stephens College last year and is majoring in sociology. Her activities here include work on the Hospital committee, Homes Day Nursery committee, Campus Chest committee, Prayer and Worship study group, and she attended the YWYM conference.

The vice-presidential nominee, Miss Ann Morgan, a junior from Charleston, West Va., is a sociology major and a transfer from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. She has worked on the Evaluation committee, the Conference committee, been a discussion group leader, and attended the Y conference since coming to UNC. She is also Outreach Commission chairman and on the council for the Westminster fellowship here.

Secretarial candidate Miss Molly Adams is a rising senior, English major from Wilmington, and a transfer from Agnes Scott College. Here at Carolina she is on the Christian Action commission in the Westminster fellowship; and, while in high school, she was program chairman and secretary of the Tri-Hi-Y, a member of the Y-Teens, and the president of the Presbyterian Young people's league.

Miss Barbara Fowler, also a candidate for secretary, is a junior, and an elementary education

Editorials To Be Sound, Pledges Nominee Sloan

Promises to present sound editorials and to provide unbiased news coverage were included in a statement to The Daily Tar Heel yesterday by Charlie Sloan, independent candidate for editor of this publication.

Pointing out that the issues in the coming elections are "far too important to be condensed into one statement," Sloan confined his attention to athletics and IFC coverage.

"It is difficult to put something you have lived with for your entire college career into words," he said. "So I will have a hard time trying to express my plans for The Daily Tar Heel if I am elected editor. I am sure of one thing; I will do my best. I know I can do a good job. I can and will present sound editorials based on facts, give other people's views space in the paper and develop a reputation that The Daily Tar Heel is a responsible publication.

"My first contact with the Tar Heel was in my freshman year when I wrote, and had published in the paper, an article on my experiences as a camper at freshman camp. Since then I have been a feature writer, a general assignment reporter, a reporter on a regular run, associate editor, managing editor, night editor, and proofreader, have pinch-hit as news editor, sports editor and editor, and have even taken pictures.

"This, then, is my background. I have been available around the block for every phase of the newspaper's activity.

"I have, of course, made many plans for the paper if I am elected editor. My feelings on every matter will be reflected in my editorials."

UP Candidate Plans Senate To Advise Him Of Objectives

Baum Lists First Official Act Of Tenure And Says It Would Advise The President

The University Party candidate for student body President yesterday announced his plan for forming a Student Senate, representative of the students, which would advise him of the "objectives of student government during the coming year."

Bill Baum, in listing the calling of the Senate as the first official act of his tenure, said that the body's recommendatory powers would enable it to advise the President. Baum emphasized that he "would pledge every power invested in me as Student Body President to see that its recommendations are accomplished during my administration."

Baum's proposed Senate would be composed of representatives elected on a non-partisan basis from every dormitory, fraternity, and sorority on campus. It would be called to meet only once a year, except by recall from Baum, during which time it would present its "objectives and recommendations for student government."

From the meeting of the Student Senate, Baum said, would come an elected ten students from its membership, who would compose the President's Cabinet. This capacity body would, he said, meet with him and other officials of Student Government to present in an advisory capacity, the Senate's recommendations.

Offering "responsible and vital leadership," Baum listed the problems of student government which his administration would take action on:

(1) Problems of housing for married students. (see UP PLATFORM page 3)

Bill To Reduce Voting Age Before Solons

Approximately 2419 students enrolled here will be affected by a proposed bill now before the State Legislature. The bill is one which, if passed, will lower the voting age in the state from 21 to 18.

According to Central Records, 58 students who enrolled here this fall were 17 years old, 816 were 18, 837 were 19, and 1088 were 20.

About 15 per cent of these are in the undergraduate schools and are out-of-state students.

ALLED MEETING

There will be a called meeting of the UNC Men's Glee Club for 5 p.m. this afternoon in Hill Hall.

Housing Bill Being Drawn By University

A bill providing for an enabling act to obtain funds for married students' housing both here and at N. C. State College is currently being prepared, a Consolidated University official said Tuesday.

William D. Carmichael, vice president and finance officer, said the bill is being drawn up in the office of the attorney general now. He said he hoped it would go before the General Assembly within "within the next 10 days."

The measure, if approved by the General Assembly, will give the University authority to borrow funds on a self-liquidating basis.

Funds for a new student union building were not included in the bill, he said.

The University's request for $1,740,000, was completely turned down last month by the Advisory Budget Commission. Over $1 million was requested for a new student union building.

UNC To Work On Year-Round Basis By 1959?

RALEIGH (AP)—D. Hiden Ramsey of Asheville, chairman of the Board of Higher Education, Tuesday suggested a year-round operation of the 12 state-supported colleges, including the University in Chapel Hill.

He told members of the joint appropriations committee he hoped a program could be worked out in the next two years to be presented to the 1959 General Assembly.

In outlining the legislators the needs of the state schools, Ramsey proposed operation of the institutions on a 2-month basis. At present, he noted, the colleges and university operate nine of the 12 months at full force.

"North Carolina is too poor a state and our college needs too great to indulge in that kind of luxury," Ramsey added. "The state has a large investment which is partially idle for three months," he added.

Miss Pressly Nominated For Secretary Post

Miss Dot Pressly was nominated by acclamation to be the University Party's candidate for the office of secretary at a meeting of the UP Monday night in Gerrard Hall.

Nominees for dorm women and town women's legislature seats were also named. Three one year dorm women seats were filled by Julia Ann Crater, Lucy Grassland, and Nancy Llewellyn.

The two one year seats open in town women's district will be headed by candidates Tog Sanders and Ann Holt.

Ed House and Charlie Wilson were nominated by acclamation to run for the two one year seats in the Dorm Men's district.

An acclamatory nomination for Carolina Athletic Assn. President was given to Wayne Bishop.

Weinman endorsed the complete slate of candidates saying that "the UP has chosen as good a group of candidates as could possibly be nominated."

Blue-White Queen To Be Named

The selection of a beauty queen and court will highlight the half-time ceremonies of the Annual Blue-White football game to be played here Saturday afternoon.

The queen, to be selected on the basis of a penny vote, will be crowned at half-time of the game.

Candidates for queen were chosen from all dorms and sororities. Jars labeled with candidates names are available in Y court for penny votes.

Pat Oliver, a Tri-Delt, won the contest last year at the annual game. The voting will end Saturday at noon, with the queen to be presented at the half-time of the football game Saturday afternoon. The queen and her court will be escorted by members of the Monogram club during the ceremonies.

Another high-light of the weekend will be the selection of a Carolina Coach and runner-up coach of the year. The two coaches selected will be presented with trophies at the ball game.

After the game, the queen will be the guest of honor at a private party given by the Monogram Club in her honor.

This weekend will also be high school weekend, with high school students in Chapel Hill to tour the campus and inspect the University.

The proceeds from the game will go to a scholarship fund sponsored by the Monogram Club.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Those students in the infirmary yesterday included:

YWCA Slate Of Officer Candidates
