Mighty Tar Heels Roll To 87-75 Victory Over Canisius

Sloan Takes Crusades In Editorials To Task

Editorial crusades came under discussion yesterday in a statement made by Charlie Sloan, independent candidate for editor of The Daily Tar Heel.

Stating his position on the subject of crusading, Sloan called to task a recent editorial concerning the matter.

"An editorial in yesterday's Daily Tar Heel would have a candidate for editor saying he is opposed to crusades because 'crusade' is now a bad word. No statement could be farther from the truth. I know, because I am that candidate," Sloan said.

"Editorial crusades by Daily Tar Heel chiefs in the past have usually been quixotic blunders that have set the student body against the issue and cost the newspaper the respect of South Building and the faculty.

"Rather than become involved in a discussion of semantics, I have chosen to disassociate myself from the word 'crusade' to avoid conjuring up unpleasant pictures in the minds of students.

"Therefore I am against 'crusades' but not against editorial campaigns in defense of freedom and all the other ideals on which our country was founded. An editor would rapidly outlive his usefulness if he let any violation of these ideals slip by without comment. He would probably also outlive his newspaper.

"My previously released statement on athletics is an example of my stand on editorial campaigns. I am in favor of big-time athletics, and I want Carolina to have a winning team in every sport. But I don't think athletics have to be 'professionalized' to be big time.

"If, as editor, I become aware of any deviation from the straight and narrow in the administration of athletics at Carolina, it would be my duty to investigate the situation thoroughly and report my findings in the editorial columns. "I hope this makes clear my position on 'crusading' and the actual accomplishment of one of an editor's chief duties. A newspaper's reputation for responsibility is not enhanced when its editor goes charging off at windmills every time an issue is waved in front of him."

Yugoslav President Dies; One Of Tito's Top Aides

LONDON—(AP)—Moshe Pijade, president of the Yugoslav National Assembly and a top lieutenant of President Tito, died in Paris tonight, the news agency Tanjug reported.

The report said Pijade suffered a heart attack while en route home from London. He had been in Britain as head of visiting Yugoslav parliamentary delegation.

TO READ OWN POETRY:

Noted Poet, Sitwell Speaks Here March 21

By BILL KING

Dame Edith Sitwell, reading some of her own poetry, will appear in Hill Hall March 21. She is being sponsored by the English Club and GMAB.

The title of Dame of the British Empire was conferred on Dame Edith by Queen Elizabeth in 1953. This was the first time that a woman writer had been so honored.

This was not the first time that a high honor had been bestowed on the 70 year old Dame, however. Dame Edith was given an honorary Doctor of Letters from Oxford and Leeds, and an honorary membership in the American Institute of Arts and Letters.

William Butler Yeats once wrote of the poetry of Dame Edith that she had brought back into literature "a quality absent for a generation and rare in the literature of all ages—passion en-

Six University Staffers In Local Politics

Six members of the University staff are featured on the Chapel Hill political scene.

All are seeking election or reelection to town offices in the May 7 elections.

Dr. J. Kempton Jones, clinical instructor in medicine, is running for re-election to the Chapel Hill School Board; Alderman Paul W. Wager, prof. of political science, and Hubert S. Robinson, University custodian, are also trying for reelection; R. E. Jamerson, prof. of physical education, is a hold-over member of the School Board.

Blue-White Game Is 2 P.M. Today In Kenan

By BOB HIGH

The twelfth annual Blue-White Game will be played today in Kenan Stadium at 2 p. m.

The game, sponsored by the UNC Monogram Club, will feature the crowning of a queen at halftime and a lively tussle on the gridiron.

The Monogram Club has published a special program for the occasion, complete with rosters of the participating players, features on the coaching staff, announcement of Coach of the Year, profiles on Jim Tatum's boys, pictures of the girls vying for the honor of Blue-White Queen, photos of Carolina sports round-up by Jake Wade.

The story on the Tar Heel basketballers is in headlines of North Carolina newspapers proclaiming the greatness of Coach Frank McGuire's fabulous five. Included in this spread on Lennie Rosenbluth and Co., are pictures of the starting team, along with photographs of the three top reserves.

Coaches of the Year are Frank McGuire and Sam Barnes. McGuire,

Charter Plane Is Available For Trip To Kansas

A plane will be available for charter for students interested in going to Kansas next weekend, according to Jim Exum.

Exum said yesterday that a 24-passenger DC3 will be available if there are enough students interested in making the trip. The cost of the plane, round trip, will be slightly over $2,400.00. Cost for each student will be $102.00, said Exum.

All students who are interested in making the trip should bring a check for $102 to the Council Room of Graham Memorial Monday afternoon.

If a situation exists where the student is sure that he is going but cannot have the money by Monday then the student should call Jim Exum at the Sigma Nu House to make the necessary arrangements.

The deadline for reservations will be 6 p. m. Monday. If 24 people have not signed up to go by that time, the trip will be cancelled. If Carolina loses tonight, the flight will also be called off, Exum said.

AFTER HENRY'S REFUSAL:

GM Looking For Union Director, Poteat Says

By PATSY MILLER

The University is starting from scratch to find a student director for GM, Dr. William Poteat stated yesterday.

It was learned that Howard Henry of the University of Wisconsin has definitely rejected UNC's offer for the position of permanent director of Graham Memorial at the present time, according to Dr. Poteat.

Henry gave an explanation in reference to his refusal in a telephone conversation. He stated that the difficulties he was having at Wisconsin, particularly those with his employees had been worked out to his satisfaction and that he planned to remain in his position there for the present.

Henry said that he hoped eventually to have his own college union. He was attracted to the position here, and if he leaves Wisconsin he would "give us high priority on his interests," according to Dr. Poteat.

Dr. Poteat stated that a letter had been written to Porter Butts, executive secretary of the Assn. of College Unions, asking him to send about a dozen sets of personnel files of possible candidates for the GM position.

"We are assuming that Henry is not available now," said Dr. Poteat.

Henry was nominated for the GM director's position by the Graham Memorial Board of Directors. The salary offered was $8,000. a year.

The Wisconsin director was interviewed in the spring of 1956 and was offered the GM position beginning Sept. 1956. His selection had been approved by the University administration on Feb. 12.

Chancellor Robert House, Director of Student Activities, endorsed Henry's offer.

Poteat's offer stated, "I do not believe there is a more exciting place in America for someone to come in and build a new union program plant."

No Action Yet Taken On Grant

No action has yet been taken by the Campus Christian Council on the proposal to award scholarships to white and Negro high school graduates within the Chapel Hill-Carrboro area who wish to attend the University.

When the proposal came up two weeks ago, a committee was established from the CCC to look into the matter.

The committee sent the proposal to each Protestant church group on the campus and the YMCA and the YWCA.

Each group was to discuss the matter and to report to the Committee the results of their discussions.

At the Monday meeting of the Campus Christian Council, these reports had not been received so no action could be taken.

The next meeting of the council is to be March 25.

The final action is hoped to be taken on the proposal at that time, according to a council spokesman.

Midwest Has Blizzards, Spring Here

While a large part of the country is experiencing blizzards and violent mid-March storms, Chapel Hill is in the midst of a first spring.

A large low pressure system is causing snow and winds in the northern Midwest.

However, the low is so far north and the movement of air so slow that it is gradually being warmed and will have little effect on this part of the country, reported the U. S. Weather Bureau at the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

Today's forecast is fair and generally mild. The high will be near 60 degrees.

The low last night was 40 degrees, with a high yesterday of 72 degrees. The humidity was about 80 per cent.

Sunday will be fair and cooler. Precipitation is expected Monday night or Tuesday.

Carolina To Play Syracuse In Regional Finals Tonight; Rosy Sets Record With 39

By LARRY CHEEK
Special To The Daily Tar Heel

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—North Carolina's unbeaten Tar Heels, paced by a record breaking 39 point performance by Lennie Rosenbluth, advanced to the finals of the Eastern Regional Basketball Tournament here last night with an 87-75 decision over the aggressive Canisius Golden Griffins.

The bruising win moved the Tar Heels into the championship game of the Eastern Regionals against Syracuse, winner of tonight's second game. The UNC-Syracuse Game will get underway at 9:30 tonight in Philadelphia's Palestra.

The victory was number 29 without a loss for the powerful Tar Heels. By winning, they tied the 29 game streak set by San Francisco last year in their march to the national crown.

Canisius battled the Carolinians nip and tuck for most of the first half before UNC ace Rosenbluth broke the game wide open with an 11-point scoring spurge that put the Tar Heels up, 39-25 at half time. Rosy had 23 points in the

Fifth Student Seminar To Be Held In Summer

The International Student Relations Seminar will be held this summer for the fifth time. The seminar will be from June 30 to August 29 and for the first seven weeks will meet in Cambridge, Mass., where the office of USNSA International Commission is located.

The purpose of the seminar is designed to meet three major needs of the American student community. To develop leaders qualified to direct the international program of USNSA on the campus and in the region, to represent American students at the annual student conference and to participate in traveling fraternal delegations.

To impart to a representative group of students a thorough knowledge and understanding of international student problems and of contemporary social, political, and cultural forces affecting students in many other nations.

To equip participants to return to their campuses and develop international programs which will enable students at their schools to participate more meaningfully in the international program of USNSA.

There are 15 to 18 students selected to attend the seminar and each student receives a complete scholarship. The grant covers transportation to and from place of residence, room and board plus registration fees and an allowance of $8 for each weekend during the seminar and all costs for two or more weekend excursions.

Participants are chosen in a national competition on the basis of ability and potential for leadership in international student affairs; have proven intellectual ability, character qualifications, experience in extra-curricular activities, knowledge of international affairs, adaptability in meeting new situations, and a sincere interest in the problems of students in other countries.

Knowledge of a foreign language is desirable as is specialized knowledge of certain geographic areas.

Application forms are distributed to political science dept. chairman, deans and student body presidents. Student Body President Bob Young stated that any person interested in attending this seminar can get application forms in his office.

Harold Stassen, special assistant to President Eisenhower, said of the USNSA, "You are providing an opportunity otherwise unobtainable for students to learn of the complexities surrounding problems of international life today, and to pursue various possible solutions to those problems. I am particularly impressed by the International Student Relations Seminar."

Comments by seminar participants are, "... this was, overall, the best, most interesting group of people I have ever had contact with."

"... this was the most intellectually stimulating and probably important turning point of my life."

In the second half, Canisius broke out with an off again on again press that did little to rattle the confident Tar Heels. The two teams swapped baskets for the entire second stanza as Carolina took advantage of the Griffins' pressing tactics to maintain their bulge on layups and free throws.

Stubby guard Tommy Kearns, called by UNC Coach Frank McGuire "the country's best driver", hit 13 points in the second half, 11 on driving layups and charity tosses.

Rosenbluth added 16 points to his first half total to collect 39, a new high for a visiting player in the Palestra.

The tall Tar Heels, with Rosenbluth and Brennan doing the lion's share of the work, dominated the backboards, pulling down 45 as compared to 34 for the shorter Griffins.

LEGISLATIVE ROUND-UP:

Legislature Gives $290 Away In Thursday Meet

By H. JOOST POLAK

In a rather expensive meeting Thursday night the UNC Student Legislature managed to dispense with a total of 290 dollars.

Other activity included unsuccessful attempts to disburse more money to various causes of varying worth, the passage of a bill approving the revision of the Constitution, and the announcement of the legislature's loss of two legislators.

Thirty of the legislator's dollars were appropriated to the Elections Board, to defray operating expenses for the coming election; ten to the Constitutional Revision Committee to defray its expenses; and 250 to the Student Government Leadership Training Program, to enable it to conduct a retreat on the first weekend following the spring recess.

REQUESTS

Bills on which the representatives refrained from giving anything away included requests for subsidation from devotees of the UNC Debate Council, the UNC Graduate Club, and The Carolina Quarterly. No action was taken on a bill proposing that the Morehead Planetarium parking lot be opened for student parking on the forthcoming elections day.

The Lenoir Hall situation was again discussed and dismissed temporarily by the unanimous passage of a bill proposed by the dining hall's personal investigating committee. The bill offers two alternative plans for ticket book systems either of which would, if enacted, allow Lenoir's 125 student workers to spend their allotment at their own discretion in either the upstairs dining room or the Pine room.

RESIGNATIONS

Letters of resignation were tendered by Bill Baum and Chuck Howerton. Baum announced his resignation from the Legislature's Rules Committee to pursue political office, and Howerton his resignation from the Legislature to pursue his studies.
