

In Person Hall Art Exhibit

Picasso's "Deux Femmes Nues" (Two Nude Women) is one of a large number of prints in the exhibition by "Old and Modern Masters" at Person Hall Art Gallery here. This Picasso print is one of two which it is hoped will be supplied to the Art Department through popular subscription. The exhibit remains on display through April 15.

Prints In Person Hall Attract Wide Attention

A varied and distinguished exhibition of prints on display here at Person Hall Gallery is attracting widespread attention and will remain through April 15. The current exhibition, to be seen daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sundays from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., is titled "Prints by Old and Modern Masters."

Professor John Allcott, chairman of the UNC Art Dept., will give a gallery talk on the print show Wednesday at 5 p.m. Prof. Allcott will center his talk on ideas in prints during the last 100 years.

Conspicuous in the exhibit are three brilliant Picasso posters, one lithograph poster by Toulouse Lautrec, and one Bonnard poster. The dozens of prints are furnished to the University by courtesy of three established print dealers, William Schab and Peter Dietsch of New York City, and Ferdinand Roten of Baltimore.

One purpose of the exhibition is to bring first-rate quality prints to North Carolina for the examination, enjoyment and possible purchase by art collectors. Prints will be available in Chapel Hill which are not normally accessible except by special visit to the art dealers in the North.

The Art Dept. hopes to add to its permanent collection, through public subscription, two of the famous prints in the exhibit, Picasso's "Deux Femmes Nues" and Durer's "The Visitation."

Prints in the total display range in value from $2,500 to $15.

Among the featured prints are Rembrandt's "Self-Portrait," Cezanne's "Bathers," Durer's "Night Death and Devil," and others by Henry Matisse, Oscar Koschka and Andre Mantegna.

The display has a large representation for German expressionists and French impressionists and the post-impressionists.

Students Back Elkhart Faculty

ELKHART, Indiana—Three faculty members of Elkhart University were defended Thursday by a group of University students on the charge of staging drinking parties for coeds who wanted to "benefit their scholastic efforts."

Seven teen-aged coeds have signed statements saying they went on drinking parties with the teachers, police reported. The girls said, in their statements, one of the teachers would comfort them with "fatherly kisses" when they got sick from drinking.

The instructors were freed on $300 bond. They face maximum penalties of $500 fines and six months in jail if convicted. They are charged with furnishing liquor to minors.

The teachers, Hugh A. Woosley, 40, Frank Schultz, 28, and Robert Zimmerman, 32, are accused of throwing a party where over 100 cans of beer were emptied and the statements of the coeds also charged the instructors with supplying mixed drinks.

Board Is Proud Of Candidates For Councils

Jim Exum, chairman of the Honor Council, stated Thursday "the Bi-Partisan Selections Board is proud to announce the candidates approved for the Men's Honor Council and Student Council."

After carefully considering 18 candidates, the following persons were selected by the Bi-Partisan Selections Board:

For the Men's Honor Council with four senior seats open, Robert McCartney, Glenn Pickard, Robert Exum, Kelly Maness and Charlie Ashford.

The persons approved for the one junior seat were Lawrence Kouri, Mason Wilkins and Tommy Rand. The sophomore seat vacancy went to nominees Walker Lockett, Jack Spain, David Evans and Sandy Amesley.

Selections for the Student Council were made for the three open seats of seniors; Jerry Hartzog, John Carr and David Watson were approved by the board to run for the upper-class positions.

In interviewing the candidates, Exum stated, "we looked for moral stability, strong character, ability to express himself, past experience, respect which he receives on the campus, time he will have to put into the job and the reasons he wanted to serve on the councils."

Third Meeting Of Symposium Committee To Be Wednesday

The third general meeting of the Carolina Symposium Committee for 1958 will be held in the Assembly room of Wilson library at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Interim Committee Chairman Jim Exum said all interested faculty and students have been urged not to miss this meeting. During Wednesday's gathering, the group will be subdivided into 8 or 10 smaller groups which will in turn discuss the issues, format and possible speakers for the forthcoming Symposium.

Exum said the Interim Committee was highly pleased with the progress to date, and has been impressed with the genuine enthusiasm shown by the new members of the program. He also explained there is a need to begin laying plans immediately for next year's Symposium, because of the amount of work necessarily commanded by any such endeavor.

He's creating America's fourth coastline

THE grades this gentleman is making have to be good because America's largest construction project, the St. Lawrence Seaway, depends on them. When it is finished in 1959, America will have a fourth coastline 8,000 miles long. Ships will sail 2,300 miles into the nation's industrial heart. Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo will be seaports.

To get the job done, 3,000 bulldozers, power shovels, draglines, dredges and trucks must rip 180 million tons of earth and rock from the valley floor. This takes machines with guts. And that's why most of these huge machines use Timken® tapered roller bearings. Timken bearings roll the terrific loads, keep wheels and shafts moving day in, day out, in steady, friction-free rhythm.

Keeping these machines rolling smoothly is just one way the Timken Company keeps America on the go. We're working hand-in-hand with all industry to make machines go faster with more precision, fewer breakdowns, minimum maintenance. We're helping to improve the machines that are improving America.

This desire for continued progress made us a leader—the world's largest manufacturer of tapered roller bearings and removable rock bits. Add a leading producer of fine alloy steel.

Would you like to get in on the ground floor with a company that's on the go? If you're interested, we'll tell you more in our booklet, "Career Opportunities at the Timken Company". Drop us a card soon. The Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton 6, Ohio.

Timken® bearings keep America on the GO ... and you keep going UP when you go with the Timken Company
