Carolina-Duke Rivalry Fading

What has happened to the tense rivalry between Carolina and Duke?

This is a question that has been in the back of this writer's mind for some time. In our opinion, tradition has been almost absorbed during the past few years.

Although still used quite frequently, the term "arch rival" no longer applies to the Tar Heels and Blue Devils. There is no longer that feeling of "if we can beat Duke or vice versa, the season will be a success." This was the prevelant idea for so many years, but now a contest between the two schools has almost become "just another ballgame."

It is exteremely hard to discern just what has caused this obvious loss of spirit on the part of both schools. Since we have only been here for two years, we do not know whether or not the rivalry has ever flourished as much as it seemed from the outside.

We, like other local fans who have observed sports in the Big Four area for some time, have always had the conception that when the two schools met, be it in soccer or football, every man on the team was keyed up and out to save the honor of their school by "trouncing" their opponent. This was the big game.

Maybe Rivalry Is Spreading

The possibility that interest in sports has declined over the past few years does not seem valid to us. Attendence, for the most part is still good in both quarters.

The answer to the question we can only conjecture. In our opinion the rivalry has slowly spread. The two schools no longer feel that their main purpose for a successful season is to beat each other. There seems to be a feeling that a win over State or Wake Forest is just as important. The rivalry between Carolina and Duke has now spread throughout the Big Four.

For the most part this is good. Still we'd like to see some of that old tension revived. It used to be great to hear and watch the capers they meet Virginia in Charlottes pull Jim Beattys trick by running and conversations that took place before a Carolina-Duke affair: now wille there's only an empty feeling.

First NC Baseball Game Televised

An interesting innovation will take place at Duke this afternoon as WTVD in Durham will televise the Duke State baseball game; the first time that a collegiate baseball game has ever been televised in North Carolina.

The televising of the game will be under a handicap from the very start, since there will be two major league games coming from nearby Channels.

Continuance Will Hurt Attendence

It is the hope of this column that this unprecedented action of televising a Big Four baseball game will end as quickly as it started.

It is our firm belief that if fans convince local stations that they should continue televising collece games in this area, and there will most certainly be some talk of this, Big Four baseball will suffer a devastating blow.

The minor leagues have suffered because of television, the colleges will be hurt even more. Attendence will, in all probability, hit an all time low and there is certainly no room for decline in attendence

It might seem a bit ridiculous at this point to condemn something that is completely tentative. But we simply do not want to see a move started to make this a permanent thing. It is quite obvious that the comparatively small number of fans and students do go out and support their teams will dwindle.

It will be interesting to compare attendence at the Duke-State game today with attendence at the rest of the Duke home games this season. This writer sincerely hopes that this will be a one shot affair and will not create a demand for more.

UNC Aces: Senior Football

State College Sports Publicist, Bill Hensley recently announced that plans are being considered for an annual football game pitting the seniors of State and Carolina against the Wake Forest and Duke sen- letics in the Carolinas. iors. . . Carolina tennis star, Steve Bank is a former Eastern Inter-Collegiate singles and doubles champion. . . . Another Carolina athlete, golfing ace Pete Langley is a former conference champ.

Of Carolina's seven ACC victories this season, righthander Jim Raugh has won five. . . . Middleweight contender and former champ Sugar Ray Robinson must have been heartened Thursday when he learned that his opponent, Champion Gene Fullmer was knocked down by a sparring partner as he prepared for the championship fight Wednesday night. . . .

Miscellaneous

Example of a "quick money" man: golfer Gene Littler. Littler recently won his third straight Thunderbird tournament at Las Vagas and pocketed enough to live nicely for another year. . . . Tennis fans won't want to miss the Pancho Gonzales-Ken Rosewall duel in Raleigh Thursday night. This is a great chance to see probably the two best netters in the business today. . . .

Looks like a heated race for the batting title in the American League this season. Thumpin Ted Williams will make things hot for current champion, Mickey Mantle. . . .

Former golfing great Gene Sarazen, said recently that "today's golf courses are as obselete as a Model T Ford.... The most disappointing Dave Sisler and the Boston Red team in the majors thus far is Detroit. The Tigers haven't been doing Sox a 6-2 victory over the New anything well, and this is the club that has been picked for second or third place by many.

Once upon a time, when the world was really evil, and a thief lurked behind every bush, cautious men had their shirts painted on! The reason for this is explained by a perceptive saying of those days: "Forsooth, nothing deters those rapscallions about town. They'll steal anything that isn't buttoned down."

Rough days - particularly for the shirt business, what with painters picking up all the profits. Until. suddenly. an idea of genius appeared. The button-down shirt! This shirt was actually buttoned on to the chest of the wearer, making it absolutely steal-proof!

Today, in these honest times, we still feel its influence. It is the true ancestor of that glorious style-the shirt with the button down collar! Isn't history interesting?

Van Heusen-because they know so much about the button-down - has done more with it than anybody else. Take our new line called the Van Ivy, for instance. Here are button-downs in tartan checks and stripes. Van Ivys look marvelous with suits and sport coats, and worn open at the neck give you a roguish look. They also have a button on the back of the collar, for authenticity's sake. See them. $4.00 in short sleeve, $5.00 long sleeves.
