In Political Crisis:

Jordan Sets Up Military Courts U. S. Committed In Mid-East

AMMAN JORDAN — Jordan's new anti-Leftist regime established military courts yesterday to try all cases growing out of Jordan's Political crisis.

The two-day-old cabinet of Premier Ibrahim Hashem, 69, arranged for the new courts in a two-hour meeting.

(The censored dispatch did not say whom the new courts would try. Unconfirmed reports in other Arab capitals said Jordan authorities had arrested several hundred Communists, Leftists and extreme Nationalists — including Nationalist ex-premier Suleiman Nabulsi.)

King Hussein meanwhile, got a cheering message from King Saud of Saudi Arabia, congratulating him on bringing law and order to Jordan after nearly three weeks of disturbances. It was one of many such messages received.

WASHINGTON — The United States will be deeply committed from now on to play a hand in the dangerous and violent game of Middle Eastern power politics.

This commitment is a result of the decision by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles this week to throw American power and prestige behind King Hussein in his fight to prevent extremists, spurred on by anti-Western and Communist agitators, from taking over Jordan.

Until the United States cast its influence and the threat of its military power into the struggle on Hussein's side, it had some freedom of choice about whether to take part in any particular middle eastern crisis. From here on, however, the prestige of the United States will be involved in any new conflict within the area and its stature and effectiveness seem certain to be judged by the outcome.

Syrian Says

DAMASCUS, Syria — (AP) — An official Syrian source said yesterday the movement of the U.S. 6th Fleet into the Eastern Mediterranean will increase tension in the Middle East.

The government source told a reporter foreign influences were trying to stir up trouble in Jordan. He declined to name these countries.

"Any country trying to stir up more trouble will very shortly have its plans exposed and will lose all its prestige in the area," he declared.

Roy Armstrong Named To Head National Group

Roy Armstrong, UNC director of admissions, was installed this week as president of the American Assn. of University and College Admissions Officers and Registrars.

At the annual meeting in Denver, Colo., Armstrong took over the top post, having been named president-elect at the 1956 meeting. Chancellor Robert B. Rouse also represented UNC at the gathering, giving a major address at mid-week.

Armstrong, who is past president of the Southern Assn. of Collegiate Registrars, has served as vice president of the national organization.

A native of Spencer, he was graduated from the University in 1926 and taught in Greensboro for two years. Returning to UNC

Anitra The Greenclad

Miss Amanda Meigs of Moyock, a junior in the Dept. of Dramatic Art, will be featured as the Greenclad (Anitra) in the Playmakers' production "Peer Gynt," scheduled for May 10-12 in the Forest Theater. Tickets for unreserved seats will go on sale next week for $1.50 and may be used for any of the three performances.

Last Professor Here This Week For Lectures

A Cuban professor of constitutional law and the history of political theory in the University of Havana will be here this week as Burton Craige Visiting Lecturer in Jurisprudence.

Dr. Ramon Infiestra will conduct a series of seminars on Cuban constitutional law and deliver a public lecture on the distinguished Cuban patriot and journalist, Jose Marti.

His talks will begin tomorrow and will run through Friday.

For the seminars to be held tomorrow and Tuesday afternoons, Professor Infiestra's topic will be the "Cuban System of Government — A Comparison between a Parliamentary and a Presidential Regime."

FINAL TALKS

On Thursday and Friday afternoons, the seminar discussions will revolve about the topic "Judicial Power and the Court System in Cuba."

The subject of Professor Infiestra's public lecture, to be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Library Assembly Room, will be "Marti and Politics."

Marti, whose distinguished journalistic career spanned the latter part of the nineteenth century has been called "the apostle of Cuban liberty."

As a foreign correspondent he did much to interpret the United States and its political institutions to his fellow Cubans.

FUNDAMENTALS

In addition to teaching constitutional law and political theory at the University of Havana, Doctor Infiestra is professor of the fundamentals of politics in the Cuban Institute for Advanced Studies in Journalism. He also lectures on Contemporary Political Ideas in the National Institute of Planning and Social Reforms.

He serves from time to time as special visiting professor in the School of Political and Social Sciences at the University of Mexico and has on several occasions been a visiting professor at the University of Miami, Fla.

LIGHT MUSIC PLANNED FOR CONCERT

A program of light musical selections has been planned for today's concert by the UNC Band, Director Herbert Fred has announced.

The concert, to which the public is invited, will begin at 4:30 p.m. around Davie Poplar.

Calvin Huber of Chapel Hill will play a trombone solo of Tchaikovsky's "None But the Lonely Heart." Guest conductors will be two senior music majors, John Dearing of Chevy Chase, Md., and Don Jefferson of Chapel Hill.

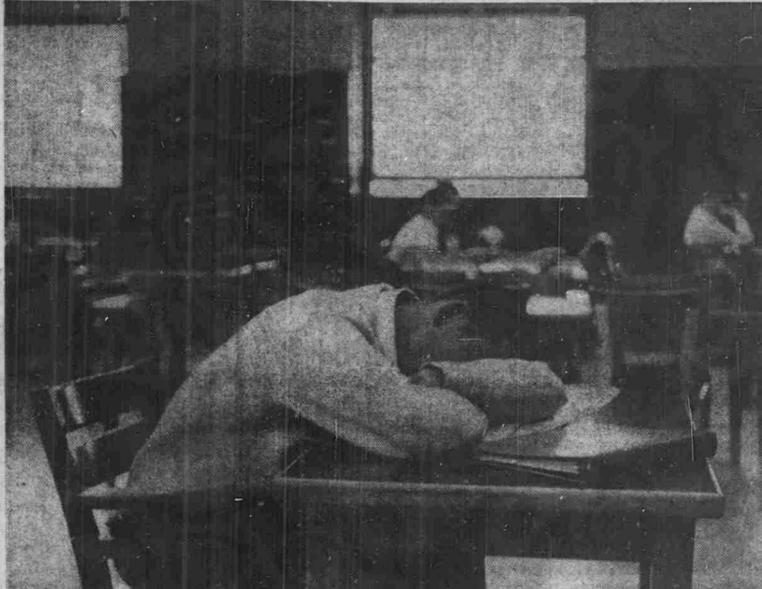

Other selections on the program are Victor Herbert's "Gypsy Life," Richard Strauss' "Allerseelen," a medley of Peter Rose's hits, Robert Russell Bennett's "Suite of Old American Dances" and several marches.

He Can Dream, Can't He?

The hot weather in recent days has probably caused many students to want to forget studying for awhile. And the unidentified student shown above in the Wilson Library, has decided to do that. ### Schedules Announced For Pre-Registration

The Office of Registration has announced a pre-registration schedule for the coming summer and fall semesters and has urged all students planning to pre-register to take note of the notice and times listed.

Students enrolled in the General College may pre-register for summer and fall sessions from May 1 through May 11. They will be expected to have signed the appointment sheet in 308 South Building by Tuesday.

The students will meet with their advisors at appointed times and arrange a schedule of courses for the indicated term. A green form will be obtained from the advisor which is to be taken to the Registration Office in Hanes Hall for final processing and further instructions.

Pre-registration in the College of Arts and Sciences will be held from May 1 through May 10, and students who have a major have been instructed to see the Departmental Advisor, secure the green form and go to Hanes Hall for processing. Pre-Law, Pre-Med, Pre-Dental and special students have been instructed to see the advisor in the Dean's Office.

The School of Business Administration advises students to sign the appointment book in the main entrance to Carroll Hall before May 2 in order that they be permitted to see their advisers during the pre-registration period.

On pre-registration days, May 6, 7, 9, 10, each student will first see his adviser and then come to the administrative desk in the main entrance to Carroll Hall.

The School of Education will hold pre-registration May 6 to May 11. After obtaining the green form in duplicate from their advisers, students have been instructed to take their schedules to 127 Peabody for approval.

One copy of the schedule is to be recorded here and the original is to be brought to No. 1 Hanes Hall for further processing.

Newsman, Photogs Give Approval Of Plan

A panel of veteran newsmen and photographers agreed here Saturday on a five point program for news photographers covering civil violence.

C. A. McKnight, editor of The (Charlotte) Observer and Panel moderator, summarized the suggestions as follows:

1. A press photographer must use resourcefulness, ingenuity and "good, common horse sense."
2. In taking his pictures the man with the camera should be as quiet and unnoticed as possible.
3. The photographer must remember that each situation is different and must be handled differently.
4. The news photographer and certainly his editor must know the law as applied to his civil rights.

5. The cameraman should cooperate with the law enforcement agencies whenever possible.

The panel discussion on "photographic coverage of civil violence" was part of a southern short course in press photography given here.

Members of the panel were: William A. Emerson, Atlanta Bureau chief, Newsweek; Rudy Faircloth, Staff photographer, Associated Press, Raleigh; Jack Young, southern division manager, United Press.

Newspictures: W. Horace Carter, editor, Tabor City tribune; Major David T. Lambert, enforcement division, North Carolina Highway Patrol and Milton Freier, United Press White House photographer.

Fetzer Is First To Win Service Sports Award

RALEIGH — (AP) — Robert A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer, former UNC Athletic Director, is the first winner of the Service to Sports Award of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn., it was announced Friday night.

The Association's new honor is for "long, distinguished, and unselfish service" to amateur sports in the area embracing Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, and the Carolinas.

Fetzer, Athletic Director and track coach for 30 years until he became executive secretary of the Morehead Scholarship Foundation in 1952, was selected "for his contributions to the growth of athletics and for the lasting impression he made on all of those associated with him."

Presentations of a plaque signifying the honor will be made in several weeks.

Speaking for the Association's committee that made the selection, Chairman Dick Herbert of The (Raleigh) News and Observer said, "Coach Bob Fetzer's theory of athletic participation for all and his stress on a well rounded athletic program on a wholesome level were regarded as major contributions to amateur athletics in this area."

"In addition, his wonderful personality makes him one of the most highly regarded men with whom members of the association have had contact in their work. We feel no man is more qualified to be the first to receive this annual award."

1957 Seniors In Last Fling On Wednesday

On Wednesday, the 1957 senior class will have their last opportunity to participate as a group at Carolina during the day-long Senior Day activities planned to celebrate the occasion.

The Senior Day program, planned by Miss Dottie Wood and the social committee will actually be set off Tuesday evening with the free movie scheduled for seniors at the Carolina Theater.

Seniors will be asked to rise and shine Wednesday morning despite the fact they are to be excused from classes for the day in order to attend an organizational meeting at 10 a.m. in Memorial Hall.

The Day is expected to be highlighted Wednesday evening during the annual social affair slated to begin at 5:30 at the Patio. Activities at the barbecue include a carnival, the grand drawing for a car and the continuous music of four bands.

The social side of the program will be touched off at 5:30 by a beer baseball game to be played at the Patio.

And an added feature to this year's senior activities, according to program officials, will be the naming of the senior class's best couple, best looking, biggest bull-throver, biggest wheel and largest lizard.

The affair is free and requires that only one of any attending couple be a senior. Stags are to be permitted.

Senior Day officials have urged all seniors to participate in the May 1 activities and make it the most successful senior day program ever.

INTERVIEWS TOMORROW

The Campus Orientation Committee will meet in the Woodhouse Conference Room of Graham Memorial to interview men for the 1957 counselor program from 2-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. tomorrow, according to Orientation Chairman Jerry Oppenheimer.

Interviews will end tomorrow night and it will be necessary for all men interested to complete their interviews by then, an announcement, said he hoped that men slated for interviews will be able to appear at their scheduled times, but in the event this is impossible any of the above times would be satisfactory to the committee.

H-Bomb Hearings

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The world-ringing argument over whether H-bomb tests should be curbed seems sure to be renewed soon before a congressional committee.

Hearings have been called by a Senate-House Atomic Energy Subcommittee for May 27 - June 7 on the whole problem of fallout. This is the dropping back to earth of radioactive particles hurled into the atmosphere by nuclear explosions.

Professor Views Art Student's Sculpture

was away for Army service 1953-55. The scholarship, worth $1400, is awarded annually to any artist in the country and is given solely on the merit of the artist's work.
