

DTH Recognizes Top Athletes Of Year

First Annual Selection Chooses Four Seniors

Four Carolina seniors have been selected as the first winners of the Daily Tar Heel's "Top Athletes of The Year Recognition."

Daily Tar Heel sports editor Bill King announced yesterday that Ed Sutton, Lennie Rosenbluth, Jim Beatty, and Jim Raugh had been recognized by the Tar Heel for their "outstanding contributions to athletics at Carolina." King further stated that the recognition was based on leadership, sportsmanship and all-around ability.

Sutton, the scholarly halfback from Cullowee, was the top performer for coach Jim Tatum's football team last season and has been an outstanding figure both in athletics and campus life during his four years at Carolina.

The big halfback is a pre-med student and will play professional football with the Washington Redskins while attending a Tennessee medical school in the off-season.

Lennie Rosenbluth is called by many the greatest basketball player in Carolina history. The lanky scoring ace from Greenville, Tenn. wrote the scoring books while at Carolina. Rosy was called "everybody's All-American" this past season when he led his Tar Heel teammates to the National Basketball Championship this past season.

Rosenbluth was drafted by the Philadelphia Warriors of The National Basketball Association and hopes to begin his career with the pros in 1958 after fulfilling his obligations to Uncle Sam. He will wed Pat Oliver of Mt. Airy June 1st.

Jim Beatty, the little runner from Charlotte is a three-time All-American and recently finished his great career as a collegian in the ACC track finals.

Beatty, like Rosenbluth, holds practically all school records as a distance runner. He came to Carolina as a highly regarded prospect and since that time has lived up to and beyond the fondest expectations of his coaches. Jimmy plans to continue his track work upon graduation.

Jim Raugh, like Sutton, is known almost as much for his campus activities as he is for his baseball ability. The senior righthander from Rosemont, Pa. has been a vital cog in Carolina's baseball exploits throughout the last two seasons.

Raugh, who finished the season with an 8-3 record for the Tar Heel baseballers, is considered a great major league prospect. This year he was perhaps the best hurler in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Raugh is expected to sign a professional contract soon.

The Daily Tar Heel offers a hearty salute to these four men and wishes them much success as they continue their careers as great athletes and great men.

Challenge

He challenged the popular concept that responsibility for administration of justice rests with the legal profession when, particularly in North Carolina, it is the lay voter who selects judges, court attaches, solicitors, clerks and other personnel, and legislature, composed of laymen, which makes the laws by which judges and lawyers must live.

No Track

Due to The Daily Tar Heel's deadline, the AAU track meet held in Raleigh yesterday and last night does not appear in the Tar Heel today.

Boston Beaten

BOSTON, (AP)—Massive Gus Zernial unloaded a three-run homer and two doubles at a pet target, Fenway Park's left field wall, yesterday in boosting Kansas City toward a 7-5 victory over Boston.

Zernial who "owns" the towering barrier here, doubled to the foot of the wall for one run in the first inning.

Yanks Lose In Ninth

NEW YORK, (AP)—Red Wilson, a late-inning replacement for injured Frank House, singled to score Al Kaline in the ninth inning yesterday for a 2-1 Detroit victory over the New York Yankees.

The Tigers, only club to hold a season series edge over the world champs last year, thus swept the two-game series at Yankee Stadium and made it three out of four over New York this season.

Wilson came into the game in the last of the seventh after House, whose homer tied the score in the first of the seventh, was struck on the throat by Mickey Mantle's foul tip.

Kaline's single opened the winning rally against Don Larsen. After Kaline took second on a passed ball by Yogi Berra, Wilson singled down the left field foul line for the winning run. Following a walk to Al Aber, Detroit winner on relief, Larsen was replaced by Bob Grim who retired the side after loading the bases.

Aber took over in the eighth when the Yanks loaded the bases on starter Paul Foytack, but couldn't score. It was the second victory for the left-handed bullpen artist.

The Yanks got to Foytack for a run in the second when Bill Skowron hit a ground rule double, Gil McDougald beat out an infield single and Larsen singled through the box.

Braves Clout

MILWAUKEE, (AP)—A batting spree that included home runs No. 10 and 11 and four runs batted in by defending National League bat champion Hank Aaron helped Milwaukee to a 6-5 victory over Pittsburgh yesterday and put the Braves back on the heels of the league-leading Redlegs.

The decision before 18,850 fans at County Stadium gave Lew Burdette, called in when starter Warren Spahn was lifted for a pinch hitter, his fifth victory against two losses.

Naturally, that makes it a Cheerful Earful! It reminds you that Luckies are tops and that better taste is the pleasin' reason.
