

Blue Devils Will Meet Generals In First Round Of NCAA Play

GASTONIA, (AP) — Duke and George Washington will be first round opponents in the NCAA basketball tournament's first round here May 31.

Walter Rabb of the University of Carolina, chairman of the six-man district selection committee in charge of the tournament, said that Dr. O. K. Cornwell, Atlantic Coast Conference secretary-treasurer, made the draw at Rabb's request and came up with the first round pairing of Duke, ACC champion, and George Washington, Eastern 3 baseball tournament's Southern Conference titleholder.

Their game will be played at 3 p.m., following the noon opener between the two teams as yet to be selected for the tournament.

The afternoon losers will meet at 6:30 that night, the loser of that game to be eliminated. The afternoon winners will meet in a 2

UNC Marble Team Takes Its Third Southern Championship

ARTHUR UNKNOWN
Carolina's loaded (?) marbles team racked up an overwhelming 31-3 lead at halftime, then coasted to a 66-32 decision over the Emory and Henry thumpers yesterday afternoon at Hogan's playground.

The Tar Heels thus won their third Southern Marbles Championship in four years. Actually, Lost All University of Waco, Texas was declared the winner out at Hogan's last season, but their championship was nullified when it was learned that three number one shooter, Knuckles Corey, was using a steel marble, which every one knows is strictly against the rules of the conference and heck, he should have known better anyway because somebody can get hurt when one of those steel jobs hits a grit and jumps up in somebody's eye.

Well, anyway what I was telling was that Carolina just overcame the Thumpers in the first half. The Tar Heel's number one man, Dirty Dobsen, won 11 red marbles, 3 blues and 4 browns in the first round of his match with Jud Steffen, a transfer from Waybelow Normal Institute in Houston.

This gave the Tar Heels a big lead, and so after three brews (at least they said it was only three) the number two and three men of Carolina, Cheat Simpson and Honorable Abe Austinbaum just tore the Thumpers all to heck. Emory and Henry scored their three points by a penalty. The officials never could exactly say what the penalty was because they had brought their own refreshments. It was something about somebody stealing somebody's marbles.

If you're wondering what happened in the second half, keep wondering because this reporter didn't have catsup bottles in that little briefcase he was carrying.

All this writer knows is that about four hours after the match started, there was the score posted on a flattened out beer can at the end of the pier.

Chuck Dressen Gets NL Players

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Charley Dressen looked back to his old National League stamping grounds yesterday for the first player shuffle in his new talent scouting post with the Washington Senators.

The maneuver brought infielder Rocky Bridges, Cincinnati castoff, to Washington via the waiver route. To make space on the roster for the 29-year-old Bridges, the Senators dispatched shortstop Lyle Luttrell on option to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

The Senators announced the transaction while Dressen was still in New York on the first player expedition in his job as assistant to club President Calvin Griffith. Dressen reportedly was talking with officials of both the Yankees and Cleveland Indians.

Bridges played under Dressen at Brooklyn in 1951-52. A Dodger coach at the same time was Cookie Lavagetto, who replaced Dressen as manager of the Senators two weeks ago.

Cincinnati dropped Bridges from its active list to get down to the 25-player limit last week. In four previous seasons with the Reds he had served primarily as a utility infielder. Luttrell came to Washington from its Chattanooga farm last summer. He batted .209 in 17 games this spring.
