Welcome Party Begins Summer Fun

U.N.C. Coed Injured In Car Accident

"Miss Modern Venus of 1957," Judith Dockery, a UNC coed from Rutherfordton, was injured Saturday near Mount Vernon, Ky., in an automobile accident which claimed the life of a Woman's College student and also injured a recent Davidson College graduate.

Miss Dockery, 20, suffered a broken jaw, a slight concussion and back injuries in the accident which took the life of Nancy Kiser, 21, a rising senior from Statesville.

Also injured in the wreck was William C. Peden, 22, of Concord, a recent Davidson College graduate.

The three students were motoring to Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming where they had accepted summer jobs. They left Rutherfordton Saturday and were in the mountains of Kentucky when the accident occurred.

Miss Dockery's condition was reported to be satisfactory, and she is to be hospitalized at Mount Vernon, Ky., and then moved to Lexington, Ky., to have her jaw set.

Miss Kiser was killed instantly and Peden suffered a dislocated hip.

Over 3,000 Expected This Session

An estimated 3,000 in-state and out-of-state students are converging on the Carolina campus this week for the first session of summer school.

Although no definite figures have as yet been compiled by the summer school office, this year's attendance is expected to be the largest enrollment since the post-war days, it was announced today by Prof. Guy B. Phillips, director.

The first-term enrollment will exceed 3,000 students, Phillips said.

Students registered for the first six-week term yesterday and will start classes today. The session ends July 11, with final exams July 12 and 13.

The second session is slated to begin July 16, with registration scheduled for July 15. Classes will end August 19 and final examinations will be held the following two days.

Among those in attendance are the holders of 110 scholarships awarded to public school teachers.

DANCING AT PARTY TONIGHT

... REFRESHMENTS, TOO!

Festive Event Slated Tonite In Y-Court

By PATSY MILLER

Everyone loves parties, but no one loves them more than Carolina students. So, how could a UNC student start the summer better than attending a welcome party in Y-Court?

The festive event for new students will get underway at 7:15 tonight when some 30 or 40 Carolina coeds, acting as hostesses, will greet the new students.

Shortly after a welcoming period refreshments will be served followed by dancing to the music of Jim Crisp and his orchestra from 8 p.m. to 10. So what more could anyone ask?

The party is being sponsored by the Summer School Activities Board of which Nola Hatten is chairman, and the Orientation Committee of which Susan Mayhew is chairman.

"This party offers a wonderful opportunity for students to meet each other," said Ray Jefferies, assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs. Everyone has been invited, both old and new students.

Students serving on the Summer School Activities Board include Martha Fortune of Brevard; Caroline Brown of Wilmington and Andrea Stavley of Charlotte.

In addition there are three adult advisors, Martha Decker, assistant director of student activities; Sam Magill, director of student activities and Ray Jefferies, assistant to the dean of student affairs.

Associate advisors are Anne Queen, associate director of the YWCA, and Claude Shotts, general secretary of the YM-YWCA.

"We would love to have more students working on the activities committee for the summer," said Miss Hatten. Those interested may contact her at McIver Dorm.

Y Groups Plan Varied Events

By MARY MOORE MASON

For weeks now, certain groups of coeds have been seen going into the Y Building, attending meetings and coming out talking about summer school.

These girls are members of the YWCA cabinet, headed by Margaret Daughtridge, president of the YW for the first session of summer school. They have been making plans for work and play for coeds during the summer.

The YWCA will work very closely with the YMCA whose summer president will be Randal Shelton. Consequently, social events such as square dances will be sponsored jointly for the two groups.

The Y will also sponsor discussion groups on international relations, led by foreign students who are members of the Cosmopolitan Club. Discussion groups on contemporary drama, novels, and short stories are planned.

The Y, however, seeks not only to broaden the student intellectually and socially but also spiritually. Consequently, there will be a devotional room open upstairs in the Y Building. According to Ann Queen, YW advisor, there will be a program of work and worship centered around the upstairs of the Y.

Here work projects such as the redecoration of the lounge will be held with worship and recreation afterwards.

One of the most important phases of Y work is to channel the students' interests out from the college to the people and community around them.

Numerous programs are planned this summer to accomplish this. Pat Gregory of the Y cabinet will lead a program—the Memorial Hospital. Here coeds serve as "Pink Ladies" and do volunteer service once a week.

The girls work with the nurses on the pediatrics ward, the X-ray room, the hospitality center, the physical therapy room and the packing room. Boys on the campus who are interested are urged to help with the men patients.

The group will have its first meeting on June 10 at 2 p.m. in the lobby of Memorial Hospital.

Also, there is to be a program planned in cooperation with Gravelly Sanitarium. This program will be headed by Eleanor Williamson and will take place every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon.

Students who are interested in this work with tubercular patients visit them, do the patients' personal shipping, give vesper programs and present various types of programs and parties for the entire group.

Anyone who is interested in the Y summer program will find tables set up during registration where they may get further information and sign up for some phase of the program. They may also come by the Y Building and talk to one of the Y cabinet members or to Ann Queen or Claude Shotts, advisors of the YW and YM.

RAIN?

In case of rain tonight, the Welcome Party will be held in the Tin Can instead of Y-Court.

Want Something To Do? Check These Activities

Students and faculty should have no trouble finding entertainment this summer. The summer school agenda is varied including swimming, Carolina Playmakers productions, the music series, free movies and dance classes.

The outdoor swimming pool is open for recreational swimming from noon to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 2 p.m. to 4:50 on Sundays. Only students and ticket holders may use the pool facilities.

Student classes will be held indoors, with women's classes from 2 p.m. to 3 Monday through Thursday. A non-credit course will be available for men and women from 5 p.m. to 6 Monday through Friday.

Chemistry Institute Set Here Next Week

The only thing of its kind in the entire country is the special chemistry institute for College Teachers at the UNC summer session beginning this week.

Twelve of the nation's outstanding scientists will be members of the visiting faculty. College chemistry teachers will attend from 23 states and Nova Scotia. Their scholarships are paid for by the National Science Foundation.

The Carolina Playmakers will present "Shoemakers' Holiday" July 4 and 5, with tryouts June 11 in the Forest Theatre from 4 p.m. to 7:30. Tryouts are open to anyone in the community or summer school, reports Mrs. House in the Playmakers' Office, and there will be a large cast.

The first program in the Music Series is Tuesday and features Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Alden, violinists.

Two free flicks and one children's movie are on the agenda for this week, also. "Desert Fox," starring James Mason, will be shown Monday. The short accompanying it is "Last Day of an English Queen."

On Friday, June 14, "The Dam Busters," starring Richard Todd, will be presented, with the short, "Stanley Finds Livingston."

A full-length children's movie is to be presented Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Carroll Hall. Entitled "Great Adventure," the movie is an animal story.

Ballroom dance classes will be open to students only, for non-credit, starting Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 9 in the gym.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a staff meeting Friday at 4 p.m. in the offices of The Daily Tar Heel in Graham Memorial for all those wishing to work on the The Summer School Weekly.
