Enrollment Figures Drop For Second Summer Session

By LIND EARLE

An estimated 2000 students are expected to be on the Carolina campus for the second session of summer school.

According to Prof. Guy B. Phillips, this summer's all time high should continue with approximately 65% of the enrollment of the first session.

Students registered for the second term Monday, July 15 and classes began on the following Tuesday. Saturday classes are scheduled for July 27 and August 17. Classes will end on Monday, August 19, with examinations being given on the following two days.

Eight men's dorms are open for the second term. These are Old East, Alexander, Aycock, Conner, Graham, Lewis, Steele and Stacy. Smith, Spencer, Alderman, Kenan, Old East and the Nurses' Dorm are open for women students.

All fraternity houses, with the exception of the Phi Delta Theta house, will be open this session. Those open for coed visiting are Beta Theta Pi, Chi Phi, DKE, KA, Lambda Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, Kappa Sigma, SAE, Phi Kappa Sigma, Zeta Psi, Theta Chi, SPE, Sigma Nu, Sigma Chi, Pi Kappa Alpha and TEP.

The Pi Phi house is the only sorority house to be open.

Tryouts For 'The Insect Comedy' Slated This Saturday, Sunday

Tryouts for the Playmaker's second production of the summer will be held this weekend in the Forest Theatre at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m., Saturday, July 20, and 4 p.m., Sunday, July 21.

The production will be Kael Capek's "The Insect Comedy." As a Czecho-Slovakian fantasy, it is a satire on the insignificance of the human race and shows the analogy between insects and people.

According to the director, Mrs. Louise Lamont, the play requires a cast of forty players, most of whom will represent various insects.

"Most of the roles," Mrs. Lamont said, "will be filled by members of the Junior Playmakers who are enrolled in the University Drama Department's summer courses."

She added that many men are still needed to play the roles of such characters as the tramp, the dictator, and the chief villain, the inchneumen fly.

The play opens as a philosophical tramp falls asleep in a forest and dreams about the similarities between people and insects.

The play portrays such scenes as the butterflies fluttering about making violent and passionate love; the beetles hoarding their money and living a miserly existence; and the fly murdering the crickets to feed his spoiled daughter, a larvae.

In the last act, while parasites devour the profits and products of other insects, the red ants and the yellow ants have a tremendous war over who shall have the right to travel a particular path between two blades of grass.

The last scene is the "Destruction of the World" by a big philosophical boot showing that regardless of how big and important certain events and things seem to be—they are really quite insignificant in comparison with the universe.

As a final comment, director Lamont said that everybody, whether or not they are connected with the University, is eligible to try for a part.

Alarms, Coffee And Puzzles Share Classes

By BILL KING

"Ring, ring, rinnngggg; click. Drat that alarm, what time is it anyway? Six o'clock, the middle of the night, back to sleep. Oh no, I have a class at 7:30 this morning."

The above scene was enacted throughout the campus Tuesday morning as Carolina ladies and gentlemen roused themselves from the rack to begin classes for the second session of summer school.

A mad dash into some clothes, a quick trip for breakfast and then away to class. Bearded, bleary-eyed Carolina gentlemen stumbled through Y court to pick up a paper and a cup of coffee or coke. Not quite so bleary-eyed Carolina coeds followed suit. Crossword puzzle, donut, coke or coffee, notebook, class ticket and pencil; "Always prepared" for that fateful first class.

Roll call—"Here, sir"—Now then, "What book do we use, how many quizzes do we have, How do you grade, what's your name and how many cuts are we allowed? All settled.

What's an eight letter word for giver? The crossword puzzle sure is hard this morning. Wonder if the professor will let class out early.

At last the class is over. Back to Y court for another cup of coffee or coke and a look at the coeds or gentlemen passing through. Bridge anyone? Nobody? Ah well, back to the pad.

Baptist Students Invited To Meeting

A special welcome has been extended to all Baptists here this summer 'o attend the weekly supper forum of the Baptist Student Union by Randy Shelton.

Convening for the first time this session Sunday night, the supper meeting will be held at the BSU house, 151 E. Rosemary St. at 6 o'clock.

Miss Anne Queen, speaker, will discuss "The Role of Christianity on Campus."

Shelton asked that the students be reminded to watch this paper for further notices of social and worship functions throughout the summer.

sing and picnic, and a square dance.

Along with these activities is the weekly lineup of free movies in Carroll Hall and two music shows in Hill Hall.

Council members this session in addition to chairman Richard Love are Eugene Parker, secretary-treasurer; Judy Davis, publicity chairman; Randy Shelton, Andrea Stalvey, Mary Olmsted, Lawrence Matthews, Mary Bahnsen, Bobbie Zwahlen, Flo Davenport and advisor Ray Jeffries.

Staff Openings

There are several openings on the Summer School Weekly Staff for second session.

All interested students are asked to stop by the office on the second floor of Graham Memorial, or call the editor at 9-3361.

Y Activities Offer Variety For Students

A trip to Cherokee to see the outdoor drama "Unto These Hills" is being planned as part of the activities of the YMCA-YWCA for the remainder of the summer.

Randy Shelton, who will head Y activities for the rest of the session, has announced that the first weekend in August has been set as a tentative date to make the trip.

Shelton said the Y would like to get a group organized to study and discuss the play before the trip in order to get more out of the play.

He further requested that anyone interested in making the trip contact him at the Y.

Plans are also being made to sponsor a trip to see "Cry Thy Beloved Country" in Raleigh.

As a follow-up to a recent supper-forum with Dr. Warner Wells, UNC assistant professor of surgery who is an authority on atomic fallout, the Y will attempt to continue a program on this topic. The Y cabinet is now trying to get another speaker on the subject.

Another matter on the agenda of the Y will be a work program, which will be mostly concerned with building a worship room in the Y Building. Work committees are being formed to have this project completed within the next few weeks. The room will be opened to anyone or any group.

In addition, the Y is undertaking a project in which students work with the North Carolina Memorial Hospital staff in the pediatrics ward, the X-ray room, the hospitality center, the physical therapy room and the packing room.

Graduate Students Needed For Posts

All graduate students interested in filling vacancies on the Graduate Club's executive board have been asked to see Miss Ann Queen in the YWCA office anytime during the coming week.

Bob Rennick, spokesman for the Graduate Club, announced the vacancies and asked all those interested to apply.

Rennick also announced the Graduate Club would sponsor a dance around July 26 in Y-Court.

Carolina Coed Wins In Contest

Phyllis Krafft of River Forest, Ill., U.N.C. senior coed, recently came in in the top six in the "Miss National College Queen" finals.

The competition, which took place on June 21, 22, and 23, is based not only on beauty but on the contestant's college record, talent, and bathing suit and evening gown competition.

Miss Krafft is a religion major at Carolina and besides making excellent grades has been extremely active in campus activities. She is program chairman of the Y.W.C.A. for next year, active in the Wesleyan Foundation, and is the newly elected chaplain of her sorority, Alpha Gamma Delta.

Miss Krafft represented the state of North Carolina in the contest although she was the runner-up in the state contest. The state winner, a coed from Duke, was unable to go on in the contest.
