

Tar Heel Footballers Open Season Against State In Kenan Tomorrow

By BILL KING
Football is upon us once again and tomorrow afternoon in Kenan Stadium, the 1957 edition of Carolina football will come trotting out of Kenan Field House amid the thunderous sounds of Carolina fans and alumni to challenge ancient rival North Carolina State College. 2:00 p.m. is kickoff time and nobody is awaiting the big moment more eagerly than Jim Tatum and his Tar Heels. For Sunny Jim and his football clan it means the beginning of an era which they hope will win the name "brighter days." Tatum is in his second current season with his alma mater but he'd like to forget last year as would all Carolina followers. A quick recapitulation shows that the Tar Heels of 1956 went 0-10 for the season. Actually they won a couple and tied one but the winning side of the ledger was erased when it was learned that an ineligible player had been on the squad.

The slate is clean now and the "pot" right and nobody is more cognizant of that fact than Tatum. The Tar Heel mentor has been keeping his opinions mostly to himself this season but readily admits that "we'll be an improved ball club."

Carolina will face a tough schedule, with four of its opponents rated in the top ten teams in the nation—Duke, Tennessee, Miami (Fla.) and Navy. The Tar Heels will be inspiration in the verdant turf at Kenan that read, "NCS 28, UNC 6." It was the first time State had stopped its Consolidated Brothers since 1942.

Carolina will be deeper this season. Tatum has at least 22 players who are almost certain to see action tomorrow, and behind the "first 22" are many others who have fine potential and should get in their links before the season ends.

Actually, Tatum has no definite "top eleven." Rather, it's the "top 22" and from this group the Tar Heel coach feels that he will have eleven capable men on the field at all times.

A run-down on the top 22 shows an array of young talent combined with old hands which should give the Tar Heels a formidable foundation.

From terminal to terminal, Carolina has Co-Captain Buddy Payne, Jimmy Jones, Don Kemper and Al

Cross Country Team Shows Fine Potential

By ERWIN FULLER

Coach Dale Ranson's 1957 edition of the Tar Heel cross-country team appears loaded. Gone will be Jim Beatty, Carolina's great two-time All-American distance runner, but returning will be four of the eight performers who led the Tar Heel harriers to a 12-1 record and the ACC crown last fall. In addition Ranson has Wayne Bishop, a swift-striding junior who sat out last fall's competition due to a severely injured knee, and sophomores Cowles Lipfert and Fick Arthur, who paced last fall's Tar Babies.

Bishop, in top shape again, promises to be the biggest addition. As a freshman he was undefeated and he appeared set for great things last year before his injury. Lipfert's record as a frosh too was unmarred until a twisted ankle hampered him in his final two meets.

Top returnees include Everett Whately, the team's captain who is beginning his final year here; Dave Scurlock whose track efforts in 440 and 880 yard competition have won him conference titles in both events as well as national acclaim; and Howard Kalm and John Reaves both tested performers. These veterans plus the promising newcomers should provide the backbone of another strong contender for conference honors.

Winning has become a habit for the personable track-cross-country mentor. Here at UNC since 1927, Ranson's cross-country teams have never finished lower than fourth in cross-country competition. Since the ACC's organization five years ago, the Tar Heels have finished either as conference winners or in the runner-up spot.

Coach Ranson has urged that anyone interested in cross-country come down to Fetzter Field and work out. Daily workouts are set for 4 p.m. He is especially interested in looking at the freshman talent. "Freshman cross country offers a splendid opportunity for any boy who is willing to work and train", Ranson has stated. "Although it is certainly helpful, previous experience is certainly no prerequisite for a spot on my squads. It has been our experience that many boys who have participated in other sports in high school find that they have a better opportunity in track and cross-country in college", he concluded.

FOOTBALL CO-CAPTAIN

Buddy Payne is one of the Tar Heel's most outstanding prospects for All-Conference honors this season. Coach Jim Tatum is putting a great deal of confidence in the 6-2, 205 senior from Norfolk, Va. Payne will be one of the starters in the UNC-NCS contest tomorrow.

inexperienced at some positions — still, there is that certain "look" in Tatum's eyes that indicates his sincere belief that the future looks mighty good.

Specifically speaking, the Tar Heels have every reason to be up for tomorrow's contest. They can still vividly recall last year's 26-6 loss to the Wolfpack in Kenan Stadium. Some State fans made sure Carolina players and fans wouldn't forget when they left an Goldstein at the flank positions. Payne and Jones are probably two of the top passcatchers in the ACC and will probably get the starting nod tomorrow.

Stuart Pell and Phil Blazer are the two top tackles at present, but Leo Russavage and Don Redding will probably see an equal amount of action.

Guard could be the Tar Heel's strongest point with four men like Jack Lineberger, Ed Furjanic, Don Stallings, and Bruno Raso.

Ronnie Koes and Fred Swearingen are the top center prospects but sophomores Dick Need and Jim Davis should be valuable replacements.

In the backfield, Carolina has veterans Dave Reed and Curt Hathaway at quarterback along with a couple of very promising sophomores in Nelson Lowe and Jack Cummings.

Jim Shuler, Daley Goff, Ron Marquette and Emil DeCantis are the top halfback candidates and Bob Shupin and Giles Gaca lead the fullback contingents.

Fall Baseball Practice

Baseball coach Walt Rabb announced yesterday that all boys interested in fall baseball practice report to room 304 in Woolen Gym Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In case of conflict, Rabb has asked that candidates report to Emerson Field as quickly as possible.

"As in the past," Rabb said, "we invite all boys with any baseball background out for practice." The Tar Heel coach asks that anyone interested in baseball who will not be able to practice now please contact him.
