Well-Known Commentator To Appear Here With Forum

By MARY MOORE MASON

News will be made and communicated to the "outside world" October 21 and 22 when Edward P. Morgan, well-known ABC commentator, broadcasts his program, "Edward P. Morgan News" from the University of North Carolina.

Morgan will be here in conjunction with a YWCA forum which is concerned with civil liberties. Also present for the two day forum meeting will be William L. McGovern, attorney at law for the firm of Arnold, Fortas, and Porter, the renowned firm which has presented lawyers for the defense in most of the recent congressional civil liberties cases.

Both men will arrive October 19 and be guest speakers at various places in Chapel Hill on the 20th. Then the morning of the 21 and 22 they will visit class rooms as speakers and discussion leaders.

During the afternoons of these two days each of the two men will lead a forum. These forums will take place in the upstairs rooms of Graham Memorial.

Morgan's subject will be "The Responsibility of Mass Communication to Freedom" while Mr. McGovern's subject will be "The U. S. Government's Loyalty Program As Related to National Rights and Government Security."

The whole forum is being brought to Carolina through the Public Affairs Committee of the YWCA whose chairman is Betty Carolyn Huffman.

"The subject of human rights is a very controversial one," says Miss Huffman, "for now so many things are happening in our government that many construe it being against our constitutional rights." As examples of this she cited the current congressional investigations which many seem to think of as "witch hunting," and the question of jury trials and the use of confidential F. B. I. records.

Morgan is not only a well-known commentator but also has an ABC television show, "Open Hearing." He also has served as editor and producer of Ed Murrow's "This I Believe" program. In April of this year he was the recipient of radio's highest award: The George Foster Peabody Award, for the best radio news broadcasts during 1956.

McGovern, a graduate of Yale, was Special Assistant to the At-ney General at one time; was on the Board of Economic Warfare in Chungking; and was the specially appointed Deputy Assistant Attorney General of Georgia for trial of interracial cases.

The Y is now preparing to draw up a slate of students to attend these forums. All interested students are invited to notify the Y immediately.

World In Brief

Rumbled Down

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Egypt called today for a cooling off period on the middle east, but served notice it would not tolerate that "a hair of Syria be ruffled by any aggressor."

Egyptian foreign minister Mahmoud Fawzi, in a policy speech to the 82-nation general assembly, declared that the "huge clamor made about dangers to peace in the middle east has, by now, rumbled down and screeched into nothing at all."

Top Spy On Trial

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The government today began trial of Rudolf Abel, allegedly the topmost Russian spy ever snared in this country, but there were indications the first testimony may not be heard for days or weeks. The defense has pleaded for more time to prepare.

The case was called in Brooklyn Federal District Court before Judge Mortimer W. Byers. During the next half hour government and defense attorneys held a whispered conference with the judge. The nature of the parley was not immediately disclosed, but possibly concerned defense moves to delay the case.

Brucker Denies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker said today he is "unaware of any instances in which members of the Armed Forces have used unnecessary force against individuals in Little Rock."

Brucker made this assertion in a statement which he said was issued because "so many loose and irresponsible accusations" have been made against troops of the 101st Airborne Division.

'Real Concern'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—President Eisenhower said today he views Syrian developments with "real concern" even though four Arab countries seem less alarmed than previously.

He gave this newest assessment of pro-Communist moves in Syria in commenting on a strongly worded anti-Western speech at the United Nations yesterday by Saudi Arabia's delegate.

At a news conference, Eisenhower clearly showed he was surprised and somewhat bewildered by the Saudi representative's attempt to blame the West instead of Russia for Mideast tensions.

Armed Forces To Be Saluted

During the half-time ceremonies of the Navy-UNC football game Saturday afternoon, the Carolina Band will pay salute to the U.S. Armed Forces.

Under the direction of Josh Sirkin, drum major, the Marching Tar Heels will form a ship, complete with flags; a tank that moves on its track and fires its gun; a bugle and a U.S. shield.

In the final formation of the U.S. shield the NROTC drill team will join the band in spelling out "U.S." in the shield.

Calvin Huber and Herbert Fred, directors of the band, announce that anyone interested in joining the organization may do so by contacting Fred in his office in Hill 02.

Little Rock School 'Walkout' Fails

Negro Is Hung In Effigy; Ike Blasts Faubus

Compiled by Paul Rule
DTH Wire Editor

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (AP)—Federalized National Guardsmen, rifles across their chests, yesterday broke up a menacing throng of 75 white students who walked School here.

The demonstrators had hoped to pull out with them most of the school's 2,000 white students in a forceful protest against Negroes in their classrooms. But ringleaders admitted the demonstration was a flop.

"Come on, you chickens," the youngsters shouted at students who stayed inside. "dirty chicken."

For an ugly split-second it appeared a new riot might be built out of integrated Central Highing up on the street before the school where blood was shed in adult riots and demonstrations last week.

A Negro was hung in effigy and the straw-filled dummy set afire. The demonstrators shrieked and shouted in angry near-hysteria. They yelled about seemingly in search of leadership that would point a course of action.

Sixty National Guardsmen quickly formed solid ranks. With rifles slant across their chests they moved silently and inexorably on the demonstrators. For a moment, the students seemed inclined to resist. Then they grudgingly gave way.

Within 30 minutes the street in front of the school was deserted and quiet. Barricades were restored in the area for the first time since last week. The smoldering dummy was removed by soldiers.

President Eisenhower and Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas debated the Little Rock school integration crisis at long range and the question of withdrawal of federal troops was still far from solved.

At his first news conference in more than a month, Eisenhower said he believes Faubus is "mistaken in what he is doing, and is doing a disservice to the city and to his state."

In Little Rock, Faubus told a news conference he had given the President "unequivocal" assurances that he would maintain order and not obstruct integration if federal troops are withdrawn and the Arkansas National Guard returned to State control.

GE Recruiter Speaks Oct. 8

UNC Now Offers Degree In Physical Therapy

By PATSY MILLER

The University of North Carolina has become the second school in the South to offer a B.S. degree in physical therapy as it opened its program officially this fall.

Miss Margaret Moore, a native of Greensboro, will be in charge of the program here. Miss Moore has studied at Madison College in Virginia and at Walter Reed. She did her graduate work at Medical College in Richmond, Va.

The physical therapy curriculum consists of a four year program—two years in general college and two in the school of medicine. At the present time, the junior year is restricted to 12 students, male and female, on account of lack of space in anatomy and physiology classes, according to Miss Moore.

Eventually the program will expand to a capacity of 25 to 30 students.

Students desirous of working in physical therapy are advised to contact the school here as soon as they become interested, so that they may be advised about the curriculum.

Undergraduates in general college take mostly science courses, and for that reason it is important that they be advised accordingly, Miss Moore said.

The only other school in the South to offer a degree in physical therapy is located in Richmond,

Housing Head Compliments Cooperation

By DAVIS YOUNG

The Interdormitory Council initiated its 1957-58 year with its second annual kickoff banquet at the Carolina Inn last night.

Those present at the dinner included: members of the administration from the Division of Student Affairs, the Housing Office, student government officers, IDC representatives and dormitory presidents.

Tom Walters, president of the IDC opened the meeting with a greeting to all those present and expressed his desire to make this year's IDC a great organization.

At the conclusion of the meal Bob Carter, vice president, conducted the installation of the IDC representatives. The new representatives repeated the oath of office as it was read by Carter and were given certificates of membership in the IDC.

Administrative and student guests were recognized by Mike Hayes and Neil Bender, IDC officials. Mr. James Wadsworth, director of student housing and main speaker for the evening, was introduced by Sonny Hallford, former IDC president.

Mr. Wadsworth gave a brief history of dormitory life on the campus. He noted that in 1833, room rent was charged at the rate of one dollar per semester.

He stated that housing problems had increased tremendously at the University in the past twenty years. After World War II, married students housed in Alexander until the completion of Victory Village; while single students resided at the Tin Can.

Mr. Wadsworth expressed his gratitude to the IDC for helping to ease the everyday problems of dormitory life, saying, "the work of the housing office would not be nearly so effective without the wonderful co-operation of your organization."

"I commend the IDC for its constructive leadership and its handling of dormitory life. The doors of my office are always open to any member of the IDC."

President Walters had this to say at the conclusion of the meeting, "I feel that we have a fine group of boys to work with this year. They have all individually pledged their complete support to the IDC."

"We will try and emphasize the roll of the dormitory this year. We plan to also work in close conjunction with the Interfraternity Council. We sincerely hope for the greatest year in our history."

Pep Rally Set Here Tonight

Six coed queens representing UNC's six sororities will take part in tonight's pep rally slated to get underway from Emerson Field at 8:30. Originally scheduled for 6:15, the rally will take place at the later hour in order to allow rushers and fraternity men to participate.

Highlighting the event will be a speech by UNC's first All-American George Barclay.

Head Cheerleader Frankie Black predicted that tonight's rally will be "the most sensational yet" and urged all students to participate.

"Carolina spirit at the game last Saturday was the best we've seen in years," Black said, "and we hope it will continue to grow beginning Friday night."

"Our spirit is the team's spirit; and a pep rally, such as the one Friday night, is one of the only ways we have of instilling the student spirit into the team."

Meeting the team at Emerson Field, students will proceed in a torch-light parade to Woolen Gym, where a large bonfire will be ignited. The six sorority queens will accompany the procession in six decorated convertibles.

The University Club, which is sponsoring the rally, will also distribute 800 boxes of confetti and 200 noise makers among Carolina fans at the game Saturday.

Library Doors

Library officials recently announced that early arrivals at the library will no longer be required to climb the steps leading to the main entrance of that building.

Henceforth the east and west doors (ground level) will be unlocked daily at 7:45—the same time the front doors are unlocked. As an additional convenience, the warning bell will now be rung at 10:40 p.m., five minutes before closing time.

IN THE INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday included:

Misses Ingrid Clay, Patricia Chandler, Mary Braswell, Teresa Ciofalo, Sandra Jones, Ann Cofield and Nancy Carpenter and Edward Jennings, James Tyndall, Robert Ramsey, Joe Heavner, Chester Taylor, James Smith, Charles Huntington, Robert Morrison, Samuel Scott, Robert Krain, Bruce Beveridge, Jeffrey Hare, Jessie Caston, Howard Knox, John Parker and George Langford.
